USSR SPURNS TALKS ON AUSTRIA

ROKs Oppose New Allied Truce Proposal

South Koreans Boycott Talks, Now In Recess

Terms Of Prisoner Exchange Plan Given To Reds Kept Secret

SEOUL, Tuesday, May 26, (AP) — Authoritative South Korean sources said today the new Allied armistice proposal would turn over to the United Nations General Assembly the final disposition of war prisoners refusing to return to Red rule.

MUNSAN, Tuesday, May 26 (AP)—Boycotted for the first time by its South Korean delegate, the United Nations Command Monday submitted a secrecy-shrouded new prisoner exchange proposal to end the Korean armistice stalemate and apparently asked the Reds to consider it during a week-long recess.

It was likely that vital decisions must now be reached in world capitals—notably Moscow and Peiping—rather than at Panmunjom.

The two-hour session was conducted in a news vacuum. Terms of the Allied offer were not disclosed.

No Confirmation Of Offer

The U. N. Command would not even confirm that an offer was made, but a Communist communique said the Allies first indicated "they were prepared to put forward a new proposal" before asking that the talks be off the record "for the sake of free discussion."

The Red communique, broadcast by Peiping radio, also said the U. N. asked for a recess until June 1.

The South Korean delegate on the Allied truce team boycotted the Monday meeting, apparently because he could not accept parts of the new U. N. move.

Maj. Gen. Choi Duk Shin's action in remaining behind at Munsan was the first indication of a serious rift between the U. N. Command and the South Korean government.

ROK Cabinet To Meet

The U. N. Command said Choi was on the telephone when the delegation left by helicopter for Panmunjom and did not wish to arrive late. A source close to the Korean government said, however, Choi stayed behind because he could not subscribe to the Allied proposal.

The South Korean cabinet scheduled a meeting today at which President Syngman Rhee may disclose his objections to the Allied plan.

The South Korean government in a statement Sunday declared it would fight on alone if an armistice were signed which left the country divided and Chinese Communist troops still in the country.

'Atom Annie' Fires First Nuclear Shell

Defense Chiefs Hail Test; Fireball Clearly Visible In Las Vegas

By BILL BECKER

LAS VEGAS, Nev., May 25 (AP)—America's giant cannon, "Atomic Annie," successfully fired a nuclear shell today, ushering in a new phase of artillery warfare.

The brilliant burst from the 280-millimeter gun was fired exactly on schedule at a target area some seven miles away on Frenchman Flat.

It was hailed by defense leaders as a tremendous stride forward for the United States.

"It was extremely interesting and I am pleased with its success," said Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson.

The incoming chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Adm. Arthur Radford, declared:

"I consider this test a milestone in the history of atomic weapons and I am highly satisfied with the success of the test."

2,525 Troops Move In

Wilson, Adm. Radford, Army Secretary Robert Stevens, J. Lawton Collins, retiring Army chief of staff, and nearly 100 congressmen viewed the test at the site, in positions varying from three to nine miles from the target area.

An hour and a half after the 8:30 a.m. burst, two combat battalions of troops—2,525 in all—moved out of trenches 5,000 yards from ground zero (the point directly below the burst) in a mock assault on the battered enemy installations. The center of the target area—a grove of trees shielding railroad cars and military equipment—was reported set afire, but the extent of blast damage was not immediately determined.

The shell was loaded into "Atomic Annie" by her highly trained crew of nine from the 52nd Field Artillery Group, Ft. Sill, Okla. Then, as the artillery men retired to trenches well off to the side, the propelling charge was touched off electrically by scientists at the Atomic Energy Commission control point 10 miles away.

Fireball Seen In Las Vegas

The nuclear shell exploded, precisely as it was fused to do, 500 feet above the target area, the AEC and Army announced.

It produced an eight-second fireball clearly visible in Las Vegas 65 miles away despite bright sunshine. To this observer in a plane 23 miles distant and to others on Mt. Charleston, the shell appeared to be a medium sized weapon as rated in the AEC's constantly expanding repertoire. The explosion's rumble was heard on Mt. Charleston, but was not reported felt or heard elsewhere in the area.

However, residents of Fresno in Central California reported that about 10 minutes after the gun was fired they heard a rumble not unlike an earthquake. Fresno is some 300 miles from the atomic testing area.

Rosenbergs' Appeal Rejected

Supreme Court Rebuffs A-Spies For Third Time

Attorney Will Ask Stay Of Execution

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—The Supreme Court refused for the third time today to intervene in the case of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, condemned atom spies, but a new effort to save them from the electric chair was launched at once.

The couple's attorney, Emanuel H. Bloch, announced in New York that counsel will appear before the Supreme Court tomorrow and ask for a stay of execution until the court has received and passed on a petition for a rehearing.

Many such petitions are made to the high court, but few are granted.

Bloch is also planning to make another appeal to President Eisenhower for clemency. Eisenhower refused to spare the lives of the Rosenbergs last Feb. 11, saying their crime involved "the deliberate betrayal of the entire nation and could very well result in the death of many thousands of citizens."

Rosenberg and his wife were convicted of conspiring to slip atomic secrets to Russia, and on April 5, 1951, were sentenced to death by Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman of New York. Judge Kaufman said their acts, in his opinion, led to the war in Korea.

They now are tentatively slated for instructor assignments in the U. S. They are holding a jet plane model.

Moscow Fails "Peace Drive" Sincerity Test

Malik Says Treaty Conference Would Be Waste Of Time

LONDON, May 25 (AP)—Russia declined the Western Powers' invitation to attend a four-power conference Wednesday on the Austrian treaty, the Moscow radio disclosed tonight.

Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister Jacob Malik, in his reply to the general secretary of the Conference of Deputy Foreign Ministers on Austria, who issued the invitation May 11, said:

"There is no reason to suppose that the conference now proposed would give more favorable results than the preceding conferences."

U. S. Studies Reply

(In Washington the State Department said it had received the text of the Russian reply and was now studying it. The department said it could not release the text of the reply without agreement of Britain and France.

Officials indicated the Russian reply "was not favorable.")

Malik added he considered that "at present it would be more expedient to study this question through diplomatic channels by means of exchange of relevant opinion."

The British Foreign Office earlier today disclosed the Russian answer had been received, but it did not say what the answer contained.

A Soviet reply on the Austrian independence treaty question was deemed by the West a test of Russia's sincerity in its recent "peace offensive."

Meeting Set For May 27

British Minister of State Selwyn Lloyd told the House of Commons May 11 that Britain had invited the deputy foreign ministers of the United States, France and Russia to meet in London May 27 to discuss the Austrian treaty.

The meeting would be the 260th Four-Power meeting on Austria.

Coming as it did after a month of diplomatic exchanges among London, Paris and Washington, the invitation was viewed as a test of Russia's desire for peace through deeds, instead of words.

Since the end of World War II, the four powers have bickered over the Austrian treaty with the West blaming Soviet obstructionist tactics for failure to settle the matter.

Inquiry Informed Snyder Won Tax Ruling Reversal

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—Congressional investigators produced testimony today that a former executive of Schenley Industries got a favorable tax ruling after John W. Snyder, then secretary of the treasurer, interceded in the case.

Two technical experts in the Internal Revenue Bureau told a House Ways and Means Subcommittee their recommendations for a ruling against John L. Leban, Schenley vice president until several months ago, were reversed at higher levels.

Subcommittee Chairman Kean (R-NJ) remarked:

"It is the purpose of these hearings to call the attention of the public to certain cases where officials of the Treasury Department exerted undue influence on the ordinary workings of the Bureau of Internal Revenue."

Into the record went portions of telephone calls quoting Snyder as telling Charles Oliphant, then chief counsel of the bureau, he would like to have the Leban case expedited and that:

"Louis Johnson is interested in this thing. If there is anything we can do, let's try to help them out."

"Okay," Oliphant replied.

Johnson served for a time as President Truman's secretary of defense.

Snyder is now vice president in charge of finance for Willys-Overland Motors, Inc. He said in a statement issued at Toledo today:

"I have conscientiously served the government, except for short responsibilities in private life, for a great many years in a number of responsibilities. In each assignment I have always given wholehearted devotion to the public interest. I confidently feel that my services have left a good record."

Johnson's name allegedly was mentioned to Oliphant in October, 1950, a few weeks after Johnson had been eased out of the big Pentagon job.

Tax Files Open To Probe

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—President Eisenhower today signed an executive order authorizing the House Committee on Government Operations to examine income tax returns in connection with its investigations.

4 Hurt In Train Wreck

LILLE, France, May 25 (AP)—Six cars of the Basel to Calais Express jumped the tracks near St. Omer today and four persons were injured.

New Truce Offer Reported Based On India's Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., May 25 (AP)—U. N. diplomats said today the revised truce proposals submitted by the U. N. Command at Panmunjom are based generally on the Indian plan approved by the U. N. Assembly and the U. S.

It was also reported by one diplomat, who would not be identified, that the U. N. Command is seeking from the Reds some sort of guarantee that the armistice plan would be carried out once agreement has been reached. This source did not explain what sort of guarantees would be sought.

The revised plan submitted to the Communists today represents a sharp modification of earlier American proposals which departed in major respects from the Assembly decision here and which drew protests from India and Canada.

In brief, the Indian plan—on which the latest U. N. proposal was reported based—calls for:

1. Creation of a four-nation commission, made up of Poland, Czechoslovakia, Sweden and Switzerland, to act as a repatriation commission to handle all prisoners. India would serve as the umpire, making the commission in reality a five-member group.

2. Decisions would be made by a majority vote of the commission. The earlier U. N. plan put up by the United States called for unanimous votes for a decision, which would give any member a veto.

3. The commission would repatriate as many prisoners as desired to return home in the first 90 days after an armistice. All prisoners left after this 90-day period would be referred to a political conference provided for in the armistice agreement to settle all problems connected with the armistice.

Training Plane Is Brought Down By Navy Gunners

WASHINGTON, May 25 (INS)—Navy antiaircraft gunners accidentally shot down an Air Force training plane today near Dahlgren, Va.

The Navy announced that the plane sustained damages, but the pilot landed safely at Dahlgren airfield shortly after 2 p. m. (EDT).

The accident occurred, the announcement said, when the Air Force plane flew into a "restricted firing area at the naval proving grounds."

The Navy gunners were firing five-inch shells in routine tests.

U.S. Battlewagon Pounds Red Port

SEOUL, Tuesday, May 26 (AP)—The 45,000-ton battleship New Jersey steamed within easy range of Red China's Air Force Monday and brazenly blasted shore batteries at Chinnampo, port for the North Korean capital of Pyongyang.

The flagship of the U. S. Seventh Fleet boldly dropped anchor and blazed away with her 16-inch rifles and all the other guns of her armament. Not a single Red shore gun dared reply.

The British light cruiser Newcastle and the U. S. destroyer Chauncey joined in the bombardment of the West Coast port, while the British light carrier Ocean sent its planes aloft for air cover. The big Red airbase at Antung, Manchuria, lies only 120 air miles to the north, but no MIGs challenged the task force.

Dutch Plane Plows Into Crowd, Two Killed

AMSTERDAM, May 25 (INS)—Two persons were killed and 19 others, including three Americans, were injured today when a Royal Dutch airliner plowed into a panic-stricken crowd and crashed while trying to take off from Schiphol airport on a flight to Paris.

The KLM Convair, carrying 28 passengers and a crew of five, failed to climb off the runway.

As it roared to the end of the strip, the plane struck a crowd of spectators, sliced across the main Hague-Amsterdam highway and crashed to a grinding halt amid flying debris.

Two of the spectators unable to flee the spot in time were killed.

Mrs. Roosevelt Pulled From Car By Jap Women

TOKYO, Tuesday, May 26 (AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was jeered and jerked from her automobile Monday by 20 Japanese women who, the newspaper Yomiuri said, flaunted Communist banners.

The widow of the late President brushed off the incident as "unimportant" and went on with her schedule of speaking engagements on her current tour of Japan, a member of her party said. Mrs. Roosevelt herself was not at once available for comment.

Yomiuri reported Mrs. Roosevelt was rescued uninjured from the group of women, led by the American-born wife of a Japanese union leader.

Mrs. Roosevelt had attended a conference on Japanese labor problems at the Labor Ministry Building in downtown Tokyo. After lunch at noon, she left the building to keep another engagement.

Yomiuri said she was met by the Japanese women demonstrators, who carried Communist banners. They demanded an interview. When she refused, they dragged her from her automobile, the newspaper said.

Japanese guards rushed up and rescued Mrs. Roosevelt from the women, who jeered "Go back home." One guard was slapped by one of the demonstrators, Yomiuri reported. The guards dispersed the crowds.

Would Deny Hiss Pension

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—Sen. Mundt (R-SD) asked Congress today to prohibit payment of a federal pension to Alger Hiss or anyone else convicted of "crimes in connection with disloyalty."

T-H Revision Before 1954 Now Unlikely

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—A majority of the Senate Labor Committee failed to show up today for a meeting called to begin work on revising the Taft-Hartley law.

So Chairman H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) put off the meeting until June 3. That is so late in the current session it's unlikely Congress can complete work on the job of rewriting the nation's basic labor law this year.

It appeared, too, that the Democrats were prepared to fight any move to change the law until the administration suggests its own changes.

Sen. Murray of Montana, ranking Democrat on the committee, had prepared a statement for the meeting saying just this. He made the statement available to a reporter after the meeting was called off.

After waiting around for half an hour, Smith announced that only five of the 13 members had shown up. That is two less than the quorum required to do official business.

Murray's statement questioned the whole approach to rewriting the law as announced by Smith last Thursday. Murray demanded that the administration submit its program before the committee makes any revisions in the law.

Top Jet Aces Will Talk To Ike About Return To Korea

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—The nation's top two jet aces—who have shot down 30 Communist MIG15s—said today they will talk to President Eisenhower about returning to Korea.

Captains Joseph McConnell and Manuel J. Fernandez will call at the White House Wednesday and have opportunity to give Eisenhower their argument that they could do a much better job of teaching in combat in Korea than at a training school in the United States.

They told a news conference at the Pentagon today that they want to talk with the President about that.

"Simulated combat is nothing like the real thing," Fernandez said.

The aces agreed that the greatest weakness of the Communist fliers is a lack of teamwork. That is the main reason, they added, why the Reds "could not fight us as we do them, in our own back yard."

McConnell, with 16 credited MIG kills, and Fernandez with 14½, were grounded by the Fifth Air Force. The Air Force, in ordering the officers home, took the attitude that they would be of greater value in passing on their experience to other fliers than in staying in combat.

Sen. McCarthy Recalls Letter To Eisenhower

WASHINGTON, May 25 (INS)—Sen McCarthy (R) Wis., said today he has recalled a letter requesting President Eisenhower to clarify U. S. policy on trade with Communist China.

At the same time, McCarthy declared he believed the President should put the Red China trade question on the agenda of next month's Bermuda conference with Prime Minister Churchill and the premier of France.

London Gleams And Glitters As Coronation Fever Rises

By RELMAN MORIN

LONDON, May 25 (AP)—Swarming crowds with coronation fever began surging into London today, and they found the grey old Lady of the Thames in raiment fit for a queen.

The coronation of Elizabeth is still more than a week away.

But people already are converging on London from all parts of the kingdom, and all parts of the globe. The atmosphere—an unusual mixture of affectionate homage and plain picnicking—is building up to proportions of a jamboree. It is a tremendous show.

A few Londoners, of course, are leaving the city to avoid the crush, just as some people left Washington four months ago, before the inauguration of Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The scene now is much the same as it was then, except that there is far more glitter here. In that, the British had an advantage over the committee that decorated Washington.

They had heraldry, coats-of-arms, and all the intricate symbols of the Middle Ages to draw on.

Thus, heraldic beasts of gold and crimson are prowling around the ledges of many an office building in London now. Along with the miles of red-white-and-blue bunting, and the countless flags, there is the gleam and glitter of the shivered lance, the cloth of gold, and the crown of St. Edward. The imagery of events in the lives of kings and queens and knights and nobles has been brought out to mark the crowning of a new queen.

Senate Again Denies Morse His Old Posts

WASHINGTON, May 25 (INS)—The Senate defeated 56 to 19 today a resolution to permit its lone independent party member — Sen. Morse of Oregon—to regain his old posts on the Armed Services and Labor Committees.

It was the second time this year that the Senate has voted to deny him the assignments he held before he left the GOP to support the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee, Adlai Stevenson.

Immedately after rejecting the resolution, the Senate formally assigned Morse to posts on what are regarded as minor Senate groups —the Committees on Public Works and the District of Columbia.

Freight Rates Revised

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission has approved a series of freight rate revisions on soft coal moving into St. Louis and East St. Louis which places Western Kentucky mines in a better competitive position in relation to Illinois coal-producing areas.

Sissy Colors, Frills Chase Men From Own Bedrooms

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—An interior decorator said today the men of America are being chased out of their own bedrooms. Their wives are running them out, sometimes without even realizing it.

The decorator is Leonard Hamilton, a man who is convinced any woman is likely to be at her worst when fixing up a bedroom.

"A woman may be outwardly sophisticated," he said, "and maybe she thinks she's hardhearted. The whole house will show the effects of this sophistication—until you come to the bedroom.

"That's all pink and blue and lavender, with lots of frills and lace. No man could stand it."

As a result, he said, more and more men, cowed by sissy colors, are fleeing to the guest room.

Possibly the increase in the popularity of the den in American homes, he thinks, can be traced to this: it's the one place a poor devil can escape from overpowering femininity.

The trouble is, most men don't give a hoot about decorating the home. So the women take on the responsibility, and before the husband even knows what has happened, the bedroom is transformed into something he's ashamed to go into.

Don't blame the interior decorators for this, Hamilton says.

"Our job is to please the client," he says. "I try to find out what color she likes and what patterns appeal to her. Then I weed out the worst, and try to keep that which not only is attractive to her but also to other people."

This works fairly well—except for bedrooms.

Even so, Hamilton says, he occasionally will finish a house he wouldn't think of living in himself.

"If that's what she wants," he said, resignedly, "that's what she'll get. I have to eat you know."

'Atom Annie' Fires First Nuclear Shell

Defense Chiefs Hail Test; Fireball Clearly Visible In Las Vegas

By BILL BECKER

LAS VEGAS, Nev., May 25 (AP)—America's giant cannon, "Atomic Annie," successfully fired a nuclear shell today, ushering in a new phase of artillery warfare.

The brilliant burst from the 280-millimeter gun was fired exactly on schedule at a target area some seven miles away on Frenchman Flat.

It was hailed by defense leaders as a tremendous stride forward for the United States.

"It was extremely interesting and I am pleased with its success," said Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson.

The incoming chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Adm. Arthur Radford, declared:

"I consider this test a milestone in the history of atomic weapons and I am highly satisfied with the success of the test."

2,525 Troops Move In

Wilson, Adm. Radford, Army Secretary Robert Stevens, J. Lawton Collins, retiring Army chief of staff, and nearly 100 congressmen viewed the test at the site, in positions varying from three to nine miles from the target area.

An hour and a half after the 8:30 a.m. burst, two combat battalions of troops—2,525 in all—moved out of trenches 5,000 yards from ground zero (the point directly below the burst) in a mock assault on the battered enemy installations. The center of the target area—a grove of trees shielding railroad cars and military equipment—was reported set afire, but the extent of blast damage was not immediately determined.

The shell was loaded into "Atomic Annie" by her highly trained crew of nine from the 52nd Field Artillery Group, Ft. Sill, Okla. Then, as the artillery men retired to trenches well off to the side, the propelling charge was touched off electrically by scientists at the Atomic Energy Commission control point 10 miles away.

Fireball Seen In Las Vegas

The nuclear shell exploded, precisely as it was fused to do, 500 feet above the target area, the AEC and Army announced.

It produced an eight-second fireball clearly visible in Las Vegas 65 miles away despite bright sunshine. To this observer in a plane 23 miles distant and to others on Mt. Charleston, the shell appeared to be a medium sized weapon as rated in the AEC's constantly expanding repertoire. The explosion's rumble was heard on Mt. Charleston, but was not reported felt or heard elsewhere in the area.

However, residents of Fresno in Central California reported that about 10 minutes after the gun was fired they heard a rumble not unlike an earthquake. Fresno is some 300 miles from the atomic testing area.

Supreme Court Rebuffs A-Spies For Third Time

Attorney Will Ask Stay Of Execution

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—The Supreme Court refused for the third time today to intervene in the case of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg, condemned atom spies, but a new effort to save them from the electric chair was launched at once.

The couple's attorney, Emanuel H. Bloch, announced in New York that counsel will appear before the Supreme Court tomorrow and ask for a stay of execution until the court has received and passed on a petition for a rehearing.

Many such petitions are made to the high court, but few are granted.

Bloch is also planning to make another appeal to President Eisenhower for clemency. Eisenhower refused to spare the lives of the Rosenbergs last Feb. 11, saying their crime involved "the deliberate betrayal of the entire nation and could very well result in the death of many thousands of citizens."

Rosenberg and his wife were convicted of conspiring to slip atomic secrets to Russia, and on April 5, 1951, were sentenced to death by Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman of New York. Judge Kaufman said their acts, in his opinion, led to the war in Korea.

T-H Revision Before 1954 Now Unlikely

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—A majority of the Senate Labor Committee failed to show up today for a meeting called to begin work on revising the Taft-Hartley law.

So Chairman H. Alexander Smith (R-NJ) put off the meeting until June 3. That is so late in the current session it's unlikely Congress can complete work on the job of rewriting the nation's basic labor law this year.

It appeared, too, that the Democrats were prepared to fight any move to change the law until the administration suggests its own changes.

Sen. Murray of Montana, ranking Democrat on the committee, had prepared a statement for the meeting saying just this. He made the statement available to a reporter after the meeting was called off.

After waiting around for half an hour, Smith announced that only five of the 13 members had shown up. That is two less than the quorum required to do official business.

Murray's statement questioned the whole approach to rewriting the law as announced by Smith last Thursday. Murray demanded that the administration submit its program before the committee makes any revisions in the law.

Moscow Fails "Peace Drive" Sincerity Test

Malik Says Treaty Conference Would Be Waste Of Time

LONDON, May 25 (AP)—Russia declined the Western Powers' invitation to attend a four-power conference Wednesday on the Austrian treaty, the Moscow radio disclosed tonight.

Deputy Soviet Foreign Minister Jacob Malik, in his reply to the general secretary of the Conference of Deputy Foreign Ministers on Austria, who issued the invitation May 11, said:

"There is no reason to suppose that the conference now proposed would give more favorable results than the preceding conferences."

U. S. Studies Reply

(In Washington the State Department said it had received the text of the Russian reply and was now studying it. The department said it could not release the text of the reply without agreement of Britain and France.

Officials indicated the Russian reply "was not favorable.")

Malik added he considered that "at present it would be more expedient to study this question through diplomatic channels by means of exchange of relevant opinion."

The British Foreign Office earlier today disclosed the Russian answer had been received, but it did not say what the answer contained.

Meeting Set For May 27

British Minister of State Selwyn Lloyd told the House of Commons May 11 that Britain had invited the deputy foreign ministers of the United States, France and Russia to meet in London May 27 to discuss the Austrian treaty.

The meeting would be the 260th Four-Power meeting on Austria.

Coming as it did after a month of diplomatic exchanges among London, Paris and Washington, the invitation was viewed as a test of Russia's desire for peace through deeds, instead of words.

Since the end of World War II, the four powers have bickered over the Austrian treaty with the West blaming Soviet obstructionist tactics for failure to settle the matter.

Top Jet Aces Will Talk To Ike About Return To Korea

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—The nation's top two jet aces—who have shot down 30 Communist MIG15s—said today they will talk to President Eisenhower about returning to Korea.

Captains Joseph McConnell and Manuel J. Fernandez will call at the White House Wednesday and have opportunity to give Eisenhower their argument that they could do a much better job of teaching in combat in Korea than at a training school in the United States.

They told a news conference at the Pentagon today that they want to talk with the President about that.

"Simulated combat is nothing like the real thing," Fernandez said.

The aces agreed that the greatest weakness of the Communist fliers is a lack of teamwork. That is the main reason, they added, why the Reds "could not fight us as we do them, in our own back yard."

McConnell, with 16 credited MIG kills, and Fernandez with 14½, were grounded by the Fifth Air Force. The Air Force, in ordering the officers home, took the attitude that they would be of greater value in passing on their experience to other fliers than in staying in combat.

Sen. McCarthy Recalls Letter To Eisenhower

WASHINGTON, May 25 (INS)—Sen McCarthy (R) Wis., said today he has recalled a letter requesting President Eisenhower to clarify U. S. policy on trade with Communist China.

At the same time, McCarthy declared he believed the President should put the Red China trade question on the agenda of next month's Bermuda conference with Prime Minister Churchill and the premier of France.

New Truce Offer Reported Based On India's Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., May 25 (AP)—U. N. diplomats said today the revised truce proposals submitted by the U. N. Command at Panmunjom are based generally on the Indian plan approved by the U. N. Assembly and the U. S.

It was also reported by one diplomat, who would not be identified, that the U. N. Command is seeking from the Reds some sort of guarantee that the armistice plan would be carried out once agreement has been reached. This source did not explain what sort of guarantees would be sought.

The revised plan submitted to the Communists today represents a sharp modification of earlier American proposals which departed in major respects from the Assembly decision here and which drew protests from India and Canada.

In brief, the Indian plan—on which the latest U. N. proposal was reported based—calls for:

1. Creation of a four-nation commission, made up of Poland, Czechoslovakia, Sweden and Switzerland, to act as a repatriation commission to handle all prisoners. India would serve as the umpire, making the commission in reality a five-member group.

2. Decisions would be made by a majority vote of the commission. The earlier U. N. plan put up by the United States called for unanimous votes for a decision, which would give any member a veto.

3. The commission would repatriate as many prisoners as desired to return home in the first 90 days after an armistice. All prisoners left after this 90-day period would be referred to a political conference provided for in the armistice agreement to settle all problems connected with the armistice.

Senate Again Denies Morse His Old Posts

WASHINGTON, May 25 (INS)—The Senate defeated 56 to 19 today a resolution to permit its lone independent party member — Sen. Morse of Oregon—to regain his old posts on the Armed Services and Labor Committees.

It was the second time this year that the Senate has voted to deny him the assignments he held before he left the GOP to support the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee, Adlai Stevenson.

Immediately after rejecting the resolution, the Senate formally assigned Morse to posts on what are regarded as minor Senate groups —the Committees on Public Works and the District of Columbia.

Training Plane Is Brought Down By Navy Gunners

WASHINGTON, May 25 (INS)—Navy antiaircraft gunners accidentally shot down an Air Force training plane today near Dahlgren, Va.

The Navy announced that the plane sustained damages, but the pilot landed safely at Dahlgren airfield shortly after 2 p. m. (EDT).

The accident occurred, the announcement said, when the Air Force plane flew into a "restricted firing area at the naval proving grounds."

The Navy gunners were firing five-inch shells in routine tests.

U.S. Battlewagon Pounds Red Port

SEOUL, Tuesday, May 26 (AP)—The 45,000-ton battleship New Jersey steamed within easy range of Red China's Air Force Monday and brazenly blasted shore batteries at Chinnampo, port for the North Korean capital of Pyongyang.

The flagship of the U. S. Seventh Fleet boldly dropped anchor and blazed away with her 16-inch rifles and all the other guns of her armament. Not a single Red shore gun dared reply.

The British light cruiser Newcastle and the U. S. destroyer Chauncey joined in the bombardment of the West Coast port, while the British light carrier Ocean sent its planes aloft for air cover. The big Red airbase at Antung, Manchuria, lies only 120 air miles to the north, but no MIGs challenged the task force.

Dutch Plane Plows Into Crowd, Two Killed

AMSTERDAM, May 25 (INS)—Two persons were killed and 19 others, including three Americans, were injured today when a Royal Dutch airliner plowed into a panic-stricken crowd and crashed while trying to take off from Schiphol airport on a flight to Paris.

The KLM Convair, carrying 28 passengers and a crew of five, failed to climb off the runway.

As it roared to the end of the strip, the plane struck a crowd of spectators, sliced across the main Hague-Amsterdam highway and crashed to a grinding halt amid flying debris.

Two of the spectators unable to flee the spot in time were killed.

Freight Rates Revised

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission has approved a series of freight rate revisions on soft coal moving into St. Louis and East St. Louis which places Western Kentucky mines in a better competitive position in relation to Illinois coal-producing areas.

Mrs. Roosevelt Pulled From Car By Jap Women

TOKYO, Tuesday, May 26 (AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt was jeered and jerked from her automobile Monday by 20 Japanese women who, the newspaper Yomiuri said, flaunted Communist banners.

The widow of the late President brushed off the incident as "unimportant" and went on with her schedule of speaking engagements on her current tour of Japan, a member of her party said. Mrs. Roosevelt herself was not at once available for comment.

Yomiuri reported Mrs. Roosevelt was rescued uninjured from the group of women, led by the American-born wife of a Japanese union leader.

Mrs. Roosevelt had attended a conference on Japanese labor problems at the Labor Ministry Building in downtown Tokyo. After lunch at noon, she left the building to keep another engagement.

Yomiuri said she was met by the Japanese women demonstrators, who carried Communist banners. They demanded an interview. When she refused, they dragged her from her automobile, the newspaper said.

Japanese guards rushed up and rescued Mrs. Roosevelt from the women, who jeered "Go back home." One guard was slapped by one of the demonstrators, Yomiuri reported. The guards dispersed the crowds.

Would Deny Hiss Pension

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—Sen. Mundt (R-SD) asked Congress today to prohibit payment of a federal pension to Alger Hiss or anyone else convicted of "crimes in connection with disloyalty."

London Gleams And Glitters As Coronation Fever Rises

By RELMAN MORIN

LONDON, May 25 (AP)—Swarming crowds with coronation fever began surging into London today, and they found the grey old Lady of the Thames in raiment fit for a queen.

The coronation of Elizabeth is still more than a week away.

But people already are converging on London from all parts of the kingdom, and all parts of the globe. The atmosphere—an unusual mixture of affectionate homage and plain picnicking—is building up to proportions of a jamboree. It is a tremendous show.

A few Londoners, of course, are leaving the city to avoid the crush, just as some people left Washington four months ago, before the inauguration of Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The scene now is much the same as it was then, except that there is far more glitter here. In that, the British had an advantage over the committee that decorated Washington.

They had heraldry, coats-of-arms, and all the intricate symbols of the Middle Ages to draw on.

Thus, heraldic beasts of gold and crimson are prowling around the ledges of many an office building in London now. Along with the miles of red-white-and-blue bunting, and the countless flags, there is the gleam and glitter of the shivered lance, the cloth of gold, and the crown of St. Edward. The imagery of events in the lives of kings and queens and knights and nobles has been brought out to mark the crowning of a new queen.

Sissy Colors, Frills Chase Men From Own Bedrooms

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—An interior decorator said today the men of America are being chased out of their own bedrooms. Their wives are running them out, sometimes without even realizing it.

The decorator is Leonard Hamilton, a man who is convinced any woman is likely to be at her worst when fixing up a bedroom.

"A woman may be outwardly sophisticated," he said, "and maybe she thinks she's hardhearted. The whole house will show the effects of this sophistication—until you come to the bedroom.

"That's all pink and blue and lavender, with lots of frills and lace. No man could stand it."

As a result, he said, more and more men, cowed by sissy colors, are fleeing to the guest room.

Possibly the increase in the popularity of the den in American homes, he thinks, can be traced to this: it's the one place a poor devil can escape from overpowering femininity.

The trouble is, most men don't give a hoot about decorating the home. So the women take on the responsibility, and before the husband even knows what has happened, the bedroom is transformed into something he's ashamed to go into.

Don't blame the interior decorators for this, Hamilton says.

"Our job is to please the client," he says. "I try to find out what color she likes and what patterns appeal to her. Then I weed out the worst, and try to keep that which not only is attractive to her but also to other people."

This works fairly well—except for bedrooms.

Even so, Hamilton says, he occasionally will finish a house he wouldn't think of living in himself.

"If that's what she wants," he said, resignedly, "that's what she'll get. I have to eat you know."

State Democrats Join In Honoring J. Millard Tawes

BALTIMORE, May 25 (AP)—Democrats turned out tonight in overwhelming numbers to honor the only member of their party holding down a top state job and perhaps to lay the ground work for a gubernatorial candidate.

State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes was the man of the hour in so far as current honors were concerned.

More than 1,000 Democrats from throughout the state packed the ballroom of the Emerson Hotel in Baltimore for a testimonial dinner in honor of Tawes.

For those who couldn't get into the main dining room, closed-circuit television carried the speeches to at least three side rooms.

The theme of the dinner was, of course, harmony.

Democrats are pointing to the gubernatorial elections next year, and at least five prominent party leaders have been mentioned as potential candidates.

All of them were here tonight. They were Baltimore Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro, who addressed the crowd briefly early in the evening and then left on an eight-week trip to Europe; Tawes himself; Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland; George P. Mahoney, an unsuccessful candidate in two previous elections, and Former Gov. William Preston Lane, Jr.

The party was the biggest that the Democrats have had since Presidential Candidate Adlai E. Stevenson was entertained in Maryland last fall.

The $6-per-plate dinner drew partisans from throughout the state.

In addition to honoring Tawes, the purpose of the gathering was to lead the way to a possible consolidation of party power-wielders behind a single candidate for the gubernatorial election in 1954.

Most party leaders believe that Maryland Democrats, as an organization, could not survive inter-party fights such as they have been subjected to in the past several elections.

McKeldin Would Cut Patuxent Bridge Tolls

BALTIMORE, May 25 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin suggested today that tolls be reduced on the Patuxent River Bridge which was built over objections of the State Roads Commission and the Highway Advisory Council.

The state agencies predicted the bridge would not be used enough to justify its cost of 2½ million dollars and operation. That was four years ago.

"We should, without delay, do something to increase the public use of the Patuxent River bridge," Gov. McKeldin said in a letter today to the roads commission.

"In the first year of the bridge's operation, it was used by only 47,468 vehicles, and the tolls paid produced only $57,522.25."

Auto Traffic Expert Takes Baltimore Job

BALTIMORE, May 25 (AP)—This city of nearly one million residents, notorious as a traffic bottleneck on the Eastern seaboard, today hired an expert at $18,000 a year to speed things up.

Henry A. Barnes of Denver accepted the city's first position of director of traffic. His appointment will be for four years.

Barnes already has estimated it will cost a million dollars to take the kinks out of Baltimore traffic. He recently spent 30 days here studying the situation and his report on recommended changes landed him the job.

Trap Backfires As Burglars Take Prize Shotgun

DALLAS, May 25 (AP)—After burglars had entered his "Busy Bee Cafe" 25 times in the last four years, G. H. Ford decided there was a good chance they'd come again.

He rigged up his prize 12-gauge shotgun with a string from the trigger to a window.

Today police said Ford reported burglary No. 26 had occurred.

Loss: one shotgun.

Fechteler Given Allied Command

WASHINGTON, May 25 (INS)—The White House announced today that Adm. William M. Fechteler, retiring chief of naval operations, has been designated as commander-in-chief of all Allied forces in Southern Europe.

White House News Secretary James C. Hagerty said Fechteler has been named by Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme Allied commander in Europe.

He added that the action was taken with the approval of President Eisenhower and with the assent of the major Mediterranean allied powers — Great Britain, France, Italy, Greece and Turkey.

Fechteler will succeed Adm. Robert B. Carney, of the U. S. Navy, as chief commander of the Southern European forces. Carney has been designated by the President to succeed Fechteler as chief of naval operations.

Legion To Place Flags

Final arrangements will be made at the regular meeting of Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion this evening to start placing over 1500 flags in 14 cemeteries for Memorial Day.

PARIS, May 25 (INS)—President Auriol will call upon Paul Reynaud tomorrow to attempt to form a new French government.

The announcement came after Gaullist Deputy Andre Deithelm declined to accept the task.

Government Workers Are Tax Delinquents

BALTIMORE, May 25 (AP)—More than a million people owe the government 856 million dollars in taxes and many of the delinquents are government employes, The Evening Sun said today.

An article by John T. Ward reported that on May 31 there were 1,179,454 delinquent tax accounts totalling $856,949,086. That is an all-time high and more than enough to pay a month's interest on the entire national debt.

The delinquent figures are for 1951 and before. The government can't collect income taxes due for longer than six years.

Boy Revived After Heart Stopped Dies

BALTIMORE, May 25 (AP) — The heart of 6-year-old Marcus Lewis stopped forever today.

Last Tuesday the boy's heart stopped during a tonsil operation at University hospital but doctors massaged it until it started beating again. A hospital spokesman reported then that surgeons said the child's heart was beating by itself ten minutes after massaging got underway.

The boy, who had appeared to be making satisfactory progress, died at the hospital today.

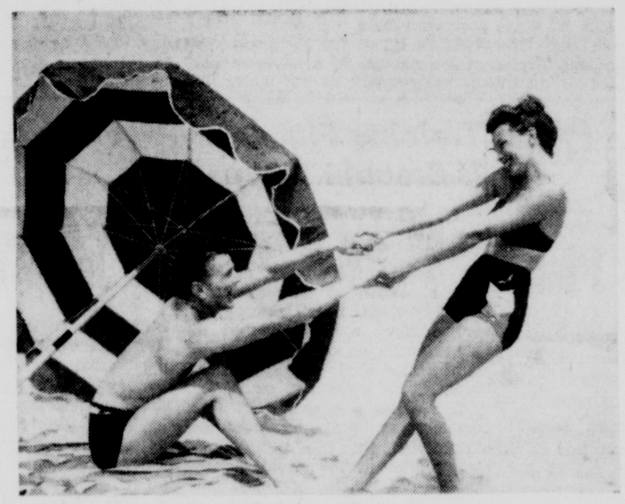
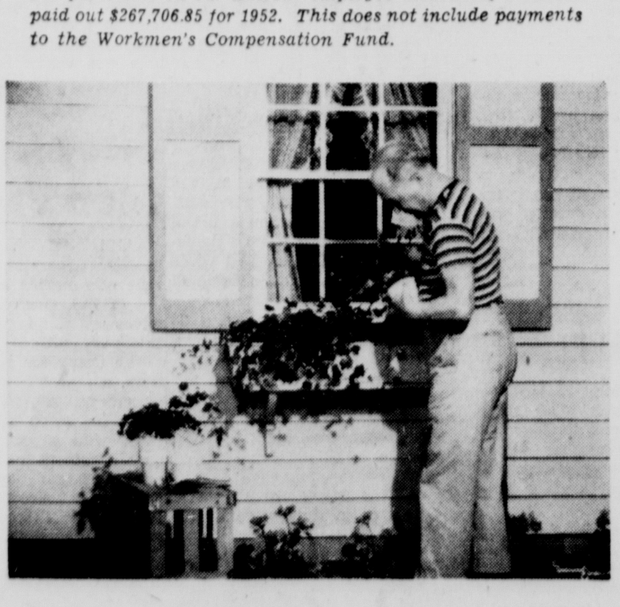
There are two parts to a paycheck



During 1952 Amcelle employees received a total of $550,549.00 in vacation pay.

For premiums on our Amcelle employee insurance, Celanese paid out $267,706.85 for 1952. This does not include payments to the Workmen's Compensation Fund.



Our Celanese Retirement Income plan has been in effect since 1947. Celanese share of the 1952 payment for Amcelle employees amounted to $448,792.24. Employees also contribute to this fund.

It's easy to forget sometimes that we receive more for our work than the actual weekly compensation for hours worked. Most companies, including Celanese, provide certain benefits for employees that are often overlooked or are taken for granted.

Actually, there are two parts to a paycheck. The first part is the cash payment for hours worked plus such items as premium pay for holidays worked, meal time, shift differentials, reporting pay and premium for overtime less the usual deductions imposed by the government or authorized by the employee. The second part concerns benefits and services that add to employees' safety, comfort and future income. Included are such things as pay for holidays not worked, vacations, insurance and medical protection, unemployment insurance, workmen's compensation insurance, company contributions to social security and to the retirement income plan.

The cost of these benefits is not always included in the paycheck but it represents employee benefits just the same. As a matter of fact, each employee at Amcelle receives the equivalent of 35.3c per hour in the form of benefits over and above his actual wages. This means that the average weekly paycheck is increased by $14.12 for every week of the year.

There are other employee advantages which could be added. For example, Celanese pays out a substantial sum each year to take care of losses in the cafeteria. It maintains a modern medical department. Other services operated for the benefit of employees add still further amounts.

All of this money paid out for employees' compensation and benefits can come from only one source . . . the sale of Celanese products to customers. That's why it is so important to understand that employees' paychecks and employees' benefits both depend on how well we satisfy our customers with the quality of our products — and on the price we charge. For jobs, wages and benefits all depend on customers.

Included are such things as pay for holidays not worked, vacations, insurance and medical protection, unemployment insurance, workmen's compensation insurance, company contributions to social security and to the retirement income plan.

The cost of these benefits is not always included in the paycheck but it represents employee benefits just the same. As a matter of fact, each employee at Amcelle receives the equivalent of 35.3c per hour in the form of benefits over and above his actual wages. This means that the average weekly paycheck is increased by $14.12 for every week of the year.

There are other employee advantages which could be added. For example, Celanese pays out a substantial sum each year to take care of losses in the cafeteria. It maintains a modern medical department. Other services operated for the benefit of employees add still further amounts.

All of this money paid out for employees' compensation and benefits can come from only one source . . . the sale of Celanese products to customers. That's why it is so important to understand that employees' paychecks and employees' benefits both depend on how well we satisfy our customers with the quality of our products — and on the price we charge. For jobs, wages and benefits all depend on customers.

Three Area Men Purchase W.Va. Dairy Plant

A new corporation, including a Cumberland man, has acquired the Berkeley Springs (W. Va.) Dairy Company.

Incorporators are George H. Lemmert, this city; James H. Laher, Altoona, Pa., and B. E. Ricdorf, Moorefield, W. Va.

Richard Laher, this city, will be general manager of Berkeley Springs Dairy Company, according to Lemmert, secretary-treasurer of the new firm.

Laher is a graduate of Penn State College, where he completed a dairy course. He has worked for the Findlay Evaporated Milk Company, Findlay, Ohio; Telling Milk Company, Cleveland; Riech Dairy Company, Hyndman, Pa.; Breyer Ice Cream Company, Philadelphia, and the Valley Cheese Company, Moorefield.

B. E. "Gene" Smith, who managed the dairy following the death of the former owner, T. C. Elliott, will have charge of milk procurement from producers and plant processing.

The new owners are remodeling and planning improvements and the installation of new equipment which will eventually double the plant's capacity and provide ample and modern refrigeration.

The new general manager, who is a member of the Cumberland Lions Club, plans to move his family to Berkeley Springs as soon as he can find a desirable residence.

Old age assistance was provided 650 individuals at a cost of $25,428.20 with the average grant $39.12.

Aid to dependent children cost $25,144.91 with the average grant $85.82 per family. There were 794 children from 293 families given assistance.

Public assistance to the needy blind cost $988.50 with the average grant $42.98 to the 23 individuals assisted.

A total of $7,675.78 was spent on aid to 189 persons who are permanently and totally disabled. The average grant was $40.61.

General public assistance was given 121 persons at a cost of $5,639.89 with the average grant $46.61.

Foster care of children cost $2,932.15 with 68 children being aided. The average grant was $43.12 per child.

Garrett county's public welfare cost for April was $25,179.12.

Old age assistance to 270 persons amounted to $10,059.47 with the average grant $37.26.

There were 357 dependent children from 125 families given aid at a cost of $10,290.91. The average grant was $82.33 per family.

Four needy blind persons were aided at a cost of $236.

Eighty-four totally and permanently disabled persons were assisted for $3,115.40. The average grant was $37.09.

General public assistance was given 28 individuals at a cost of $1,022.99. The average grant was $36.54.

Foster care was provided 11 children at a cost of $455.35 with the average grant $41.40.

Chemistry Expert Will Talk Here

Dr. Marcus E. Hobbs, chairman of the Chemistry Department at Duke University, Durham, N. C., will speak at a meeting of the Western Maryland Section of the American Chemical Society tomorrow at 8 p. m.

The event is scheduled for Clary Club with a dinner at 6:30 p. m.

Dr. Hobb's subject will be "Study of Hydrogen Bonding in Some Organic Compounds."

Dr. Hobbs, who received his A.B., M.A. and Ph.D. at Duke, has taught at that institution 18 years. In addition to his duties at Duke he serves as a consultant to Allegany Ballisics Laboratory operated here by the Hercules Powder Company.

Dr. Hobbs' fields of specialization are dielectric constants and dipole moments, chemical kinetics, near infrared and ultraviolet absorption spectra, and agricultural research in tobacco.

GI Ends Course

Pvt. Kevin R. Bauman, 324 North Mechanic Street, has completed a course in chemical warfare at the Army's Eta Jima Specialist School in Japan. Overseas since last month, he received basic training at Indiantown Gap (Pa.) Military Reservation. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Bauman, reside in Glencoe, Pa.

Carpenti Named To State KC Post

Peter J. Carpenti, a member of Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus, was named treasurer of the state organization at the election which featured the order's convention over the weekend at Ocean City. Carpenti was the only officer elected unanimously.

Other members of Cumberland Council who attended the convention, besides Carpenti, were J. Arthur McDade, grand knight, and Joseph H. Love, past grand knight, both delegates, and John F. O'Rourke, district deputy.

Others attending from this area included James Quinn, grand knight, and John Davis, past grand knight, Frostburg Council, and James Brannon Jr., grand knight, and James Gillespie, past grand knight, Mt. Savage Council.

J. Millard Tawes was the principal speaker at the convention.

Delegates from 38 councils throughout Maryland resolved to work with other faiths in establishing facilities for divine worship at state institutions.

The largest number of delegates in the group's 55-year history closed their two-day annual convention yesterday by voting to set up a committee to work with other church groups on the project.

They also elected John P. Bauernschub, personnel adviser with the Second Army in Baltimore, to the group's highest office, state deputy, succeeding Charles W. Bucy of Chevy Chase.

Other officers chosen included Preston J. Bride, Rockville, secretary; Charles Fisher, Westminster, advocate; John A. Ward, Elkton, warden, and the Rev. William Saeur, Overland, re-elected chaplain.

Guard Of Honor Planned By KC

Chief Justice Taney General Assembly, Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, will act as an honor guard at the closing services of the 40 Hours Devotion tonight at St. John the Baptist Church, New Baltimore, Pa.

John R. Uhl, faithful navigator, said the council had been invited to form the honor guard by Rev. J. Adrion D. Lichty, pastor.

Uhl said the church is part of a monastery which has been operated in New Baltimore more than 50 years by priests of the Carmelite Order.

Members wishing to arrange for transportation are to contact Arthur F. Young as soon as possible. The group will meet at SS. Peter and Paul Hall at 5:45 p. m. today. The local group will join other members of the Assembly from Mt. Savage, Frostburg and Piedmont at 6:30 p. m. in Corriganville, from where the motorcade will proceed as a unit.

Ohio Woman Dies In Car Accident

A 50-year-old woman was killed yesterday on the Pennsylvania Turnpike, 16 miles west of Bedford, while enroute to the graduation of her son at a college in New York.

State Police listed the victim as Mrs. Rose Burchuk, 29 Cole Place, Akron, and said she died instantly of a fractured skull and broken neck.

Authorities said the woman, traveling alone, was headed east when she apparently fell asleep at the wheel. Her car went out of control and upset. She was thrown clear of the wreckage.

Idaho has thousands of hot and cold streams with more than ordinary mineral content. Most of those which are hot are heated by hot ashes and lava in volcanic areas.

Elizabeth And Victoria

The crowning of Elizabeth II will in many respects recall that of Victoria I in 1838. Of that enthronement Professor Hugh Chisholm of Oxford has written:

"No more touching ceremony of the kind had ever been performed in Westminster Abbey. Anne was a middle-aged married woman at the time of her coronation; she waddled and wheezed, and made no majestic appearance upon her throne. Mary was odious to her Protestant subjects, Elizabeth to those of the unreformed religion, and both these queens succeeded to the crown in times of general sadness; but the youthful Queen Victoria had no enemies except a few Chartists."

Elizabeth II, wife and mother, is at 27 (on April 21) eight years older than Victoria at the latter's coronation. If Elizabeth wants to know something of the ordeal ahead of her in Westminster Abbey, she would do well to read Lytton Strachey's account of the "antique, intricate, endless ceremonial" of her great-great-grandmother's coronation:

"The small central figure (Victoria) went through her gyrations. She sat; she walked; she prayed; she carried about an orb that was almost too heavy to hold; the Archbishop of Canterbury came and crushed a ring upon the wrong finger, so that she was ready to cry out with the pain; old Lord Rolle tripped up in his mante and fell down the steps as he was doing homage . . .

"'I shall ever remember this day as the proudest of my life,' she noted. But the pride was soon merged once more in youth and simplicity. When she returned to Buckingham Palace at last, she was not tired; she ran up to her private room, doffed her splendors, and gave her dog Dash its evening bath."

The welfare state over which Elizabeth presides is vastly different from the expanding empire of Victoria, 115 years ago. Catholics had been given the vote only in the decade before Victoria's accession; disabilities on Jews had not yet been removed; suffrage was still subject to property qualifications; slavery had existed in British colonies in the recent past. Indeed, those Chartists who opposed her wanted only: 1) manhood suffrage, 2) vote by secret ballot, 3) abolition of property qualification for members of Parliament, 4) payment of MP's, 5) equal electoral districts (there were still many rotten boroughs), 6) annual Parliaments.

Despite the reforms in the Factory Act of 1833, children over 9 were eligible for work—though only a 48-hour week. The maximum work week for those 13 to 18 years of age was 69 hours. Employed children under 13 had to have two hours' schooling a day.

All Europe was watching to see whether the British monarchy could survive the Reform Bill of 1832. On the Continent Louis Phillippe of France was looked upon as the savior of constitutional monarchy.

The other great powers were Russia (Czar Alexander I had been Victoria's godfather), Austria, governed by Metternich, Prussia, and France. The Kingdom of Italy had yet to be proclaimed. Much of the Balkan peninsula was under Turkey.

The coronation of Victoria drew to London 400,000 visitors from the country. Few visitors came from the young nation of less than 17 million people, the United States. That nation was preoccupied with its own problems: a financial panic, the abolitionist movement, westward expansion (west of the Mississippi only Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana were states). Besides, sailing was slow; only a few dreamers visualized a steamboat crossing the Atlantic and none at all, trans-Atlantic airplanes carrying so many visitors to England in 1953.

USDA And Farm Exports

The falling off in farm exports over recent months continues to alarm men in government who keep their fingers on the pulse of the nation's foreign trade. Farm exports this fiscal year are likely to total less than $3 billion, as against $4 billion in 1951-52, according to R. E. Short, director of the Department of Agriculture's new Foreign Agricultural Service, before a Senate subcommittee on May 5.

This decline in exports of farm products, Short continued, "is something that we are watching closely, and my office is charged with the double responsibility of keeping an eye on it and trying to do something about it." Last year foreign markets took the products of almost 55 million acres of U. S. farm land. Of U. S. wheat, rice, grain sorghum, cotton, 40 per cent or more of each is sent abroad.

In January, exports of agricultural products amounted in value to only $269 million—29 per cent below farm exports in the corresponding month of 1951-52. For the calendar year 1952 farm exports were off 15 per cent from the postwar record in 1951.

In calendar 1952, exports of wheat and wheat flour were down 6 per cent; of cotton, down 24 per cent; of leaf tobacco, down 25 per cent. Large reductions were experienced in exports of most dairy products, lard and tallow, grain sorghums, hops, peanuts, soybeans and soybean oil, field and garden seed, dried peas. These trends continued at an accelerated rate in the early months of 1953.

Some farm commodities in calendar 1952, however, were exported in considerably higher quantities than in calendar 1951. These included oranges, prunes, raisins and currants, canned fruits, barley, milled rice, dried beans, white potatoes.

During the current marketing season, exports of wheat and wheat flour are expected to total about 325 million bushels—a decline of 150 million bushels from the 1951-52 exports, another Senate committee was told on April 23 by R. L. Gastineau, head of the USDA's Grain Division. The total for this year would still be well above the long-time average exports of about 210 million bushels of wheat and wheat flour annually.

Declining exports this year reflect the record world wheat crop of 1952—some 7,320 million bushels. Given no worsening of the present international situation, according to Gastineau, "it seems reasonable to expect that our wheat exports could be maintained in a range of 200 to 300 million bushels during the next few years."

USDA experts report that cotton goods were in oversupply throughout the world by the end of 1951. Surplus stocks of foreign cotton-producing countries are being pressed on the market this year in addition to the current season's crop.

World production of fats and oils, boosted by expanded production in the United States, is up about 10 per cent from the 1935-39 average. The new production is assessed as "nearly sufficient" to offset world population increases. In the future, according to the Department of Agriculture, exports will depend more than in recent years on meeting price competition, and on improving quality.

How To Keep Well

By Dr. T. R. Van Dellen

Sleepless Hours

Sleep, according to Sigmund Freud, occurs when the mind withdraws completely from the surrounding world and ceases to be interested in what is going on. In explaining the phenomenon, this famous psychiatrist wrote: "Every night human beings lay aside the garments they pull over their skin and even also other objects which they use to supplement their bodily organs . . . spectacles, false hair, and teeth. In addition . . . they perform a perfectly analogous dismantling of their mind . . . thus both physically and mentally approaching close to the situation in which they began life."

There are other theories on sleep but none has been accepted as the gospel truth. As a matter of fact, it is just as hard to find reasons why we stay awake, which is the other main function of being alive. Most authorities agree, however, there are certain centers in the brain which regulate sleep but there is no unanimity of opinion as to where they are located. Others believe we have a wakefulness center and that sleep results when it becomes inactive. In other words, is it normal to be awake or asleep? Despite these speculations, sleep is universal and provides the only means of refreshing the body.

Sleeplessness bothers the sick more than the well and occasionally is a serious matter among those already handicapped by disease. There are many varieties of true insomnia and the most common occurs among those who have difficulty in going to sleep. Their brain is stimulated as a result of "nerves" or thru undue excitement, sorrow, pain, coughing, shortness of breath, or allied forms of discomfort. Others with insomnia cannot sleep long enough to be completely rested. This type may be associated with inflammation of the brain or disturbances in circulation. Another group sleeps fitfully and in such instances the brain is said to be restless because of excessive fatigue or improper sleeping conditions such as noise, too much light, a poor bed, or lack of ventilation in the room.

The world also is filled with individuals who regard themselves as poor sleepers but the majority do not realize they are obtaining as much sleep as they need. These people have heard that eight hours are essential for adults, failing to realize that the amount required is an individual equation. Many men and women have remained healthy and lived a long life on less than six hours every night. Furthermore, the fidgety sleeper may complain of being awake all night because actually the sleepless period was less than 30 minutes.

Sleep has received so much emphasis in the last few decades that many persons are overly concerned when they do not obtain their quota. This has led to abuses, including the annual consumption of tons of sleep producing and sedative drugs. The quack and patent medicine expert also have entered the picture with a number of fancy devices, gadgets, rituals, and diets to relieve nervousness and promote sleep. The truth of the matter is, there is no simple and harmless substance that works with everyone.

BLINDNESS AT BIRTH

Mrs. G. writes: When can blindness in a newborn be diagnosed?

REPLY

Some forms are evident at birth; others are not detectable for a few months.

EXERCISE FOR WEAK KNEES

Mrs. L. writes: My knees are going back on me, especially when climbing stairs. Are there any exercises that will help strengthen them?

REPLY

Yes, in many instances. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on exercises for weak knees.

KIDNEY STIMULANTS

B. T. writes: Is water just as good a diuretic as coffee?

REPLY

A cup of coffee has a more stimulating effect on the kidneys than an equal amount of water, and in this respect is a better diuretic. On the other hand, water can be taken with impunity and because it is free of caffeine and other chemicals it is well tolerated; hence water is preferred.

AIDS IN ARTHRITIS

R. K. writes: How are hot paraffin and the whirlpool bath used in arthritis?

REPLY

Both are forms of heat. The whirlpool bath, which provides massage as well as heat, requires the use of a deep, oval tank into which a stream of water is forced under pressure to create the "whirlpool" effect. For the paraffin bath, the arm or foot is heated first and then immersed a few times into melted paraffin until several layers cover the affected part. The purpose of this procedure is to coat the surface to retain the heat within.

BORED HUSBAND

Mrs. H. M. writes: My husband yawns all evening, no matter how much sleep he gets. Last night he yawned 150 times after he came home from work. It makes me nervous listening to this loud yawning all the time he is home.

REPLY

Why not count less and entertain more to see what happens.

Eisenhower Ponders Cabinet Shortcomings; Some American Potash Firms Deal With Communists; Labor Scouts Thwart Cong. Tuck Appointment

WASHINGTON — The President is becoming increasingly moody over the shortcomings of certain cabinet members. Here is the general line-up of how the cabinet rates with Ike.

He takes an increasingly dim view of Secretary of State Dulles.

Secretary of Defense Wilson annoys him.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson is liked, but the President has begun to realize that the farmers don't.

Secretary of Labor Durkin seems to make no impression on the President, is regarded as a necessary evil.

Secretary of Interior McKay has left the President pretty much alone, knows how to get things done without ruffling White House waters.

Attorney General Brownell and Postmaster General Summerfield rank high, somewhere behind Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey.

Ike is concerned about the health of his legislative liaison expert Gen. Wilton B. Persons. Persons is a No. 1 advocate of compromise with Ike's enemies in Congress. This policy now shows signs of failure, and Persons' health may force him to withdraw from the job.

Ike has also lost some of his enthusiasm for his chief of staff, former Gov. Sherman Adams of New Hampshire. Adams has his eye on Sen. Styles Bridges' seat which is up for grabs next year, and this could be Adams' cue to bow out of the White House.

What Ike is hunting for are more people with a global view.

Red Potash In U. S.

It's been kept undercover, but the Communists are dumping potash in the U.S.A. at cut-rate prices.

American producers claim this is an attempt to close down our domestic mines, so we will be caught short of potash in case of an emergency. They point out that potash is high on the strategic list, since farmers must have it for fertilizer.

This column has been able to trace the flow of Communist potash back to an East Berlin firm, called DIA, run by German front men but strictly controlled by the Russians. Their source of supply is the East German potash mines in the Communist zone.

Three American firms have been quietly doing business with DIA and peddling the Communist potash on the American potash market at knockdown prices. They are: Woodward and Dickerson of Philadelphia; General Fertilizer and H. J. Baker, both of New York.

However, Herbert Rauchfuss of Woodward and Dickerson explained to this column that he not only had the State Department's permission to trade in East German potash but had actually been encouraged to keep the lines of trade open behind the iron curtain. He claimed that his company had been bartering third-rate tobacco for the potash. Thus, the West has been getting strategic potash in return for poor-grade tobacco, and he argued that it would be unpatriotic not to snap up such a deal.

Furthermore, he pointed out that the government, itself, bought 40,000 tons of Communist potash from his company and trans-shipped it to Formosa to help Chiang Kai-shek's farmers. The deal was made through the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Labor Skirmish

It's well known that the ex-governor of Virginia, William Tuck, now a congressman, will not sit on the House Labor Committee. But here is the inside story of how he has kept off.

Having earned a reputation for "keeping labor in line" while governor of Virginia, Tuck decided that his logical niche in Congress was on the Labor and Education Committee.

Committee assignments for freshmen Democrats are made by Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee, but the hard-working Virginian didn't wait for this formality. With the backing of potent Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia, who interceded with House leaders, Tuck assumed this appointment was secure and dispatched a clerk over to the Senate Labor Committee to get him some data on "right to work" (anti-union shop) laws, which he had promoted as governor of Virginia. Tuck also hinted at a public luncheon that he would soon be open to suggestions as a member of the committee.

Hearing of this, the American Federation of Labor got busy. An AFL legislative scout, George Riley, called on Tuck to find out if the Virginian's antilabor views had changed any. They hadn't. Tuck was blunt and forthright in stating: "I'm going to vote against you nine out of ten times, and probably on the tenth."

Riley and another AFL legislative adviser, Andrew Biemiller, promptly told Democratic Minority Leader Sam Rayburn what happened.

Meantime, five House Ways and Means Democrats — Forand of Rhode Island, King of California, Dingell of Michigan, Eberharter of Pennsylvania and O'Brien of Illinois—were all set to vote against Tuck. Since the Virginian needed a majority of six of the ten Ways and Means Democrats to cinch his appointment, this meant his goose was cooked.

Rayburn, who was for Tuck in the beginning, changed his mind. Tuck took a less-desired assignment on the Post Office and Civil Service Committee, where he is expected to do a conscientious job.

These Days

Jowitt Inaccuracies

In my researches in the British and American editions of the Earl Jowitt's "Strange Case of Alger Hiss," I have found more than 100 factual errors, a statement which I can at any time document. Some are trivial; some very important. Yet, when one realizes that Earl Jowitt was Lord Chancellor of England, such a number of errors is surprising.

I am taking today a series of errors relating to a $400 loan which was a factor in the Hiss hearings and trials.

Whittaker Chambers bought a car and paid $486 cash. The question is where did he get the money? Four days before Chambers bought the car, that is, on November 19, 1937, Priscilla Hiss, Alger's wife, withdrew $400 from her account in the Riggs National Bank in Washington. In due course, Chambers said that Hiss gave him that $400. If Chambers was correct, it sets a date when Hiss and Chambers were on friendly terms, and that mattered in the trial.

Now comes Earl Jowitt with the contention that the entire $400 loan may be a fabrication by the FBI. These are his words:

". . . The FBI, in the course of their investigation had obtained access to the books of the bank in February, 1949, and at this very time Chambers was in daily association with the FBI. If they had revealed to Chambers that Hiss had withdrawn $400 only four days before Chambers purchased his new car, the significance which Mr. Murphy (now Judge Thomas Murphy) sought to attach to the fact that Chambers had not seen Hiss's pass-book seems to me to disappear altogether."

Again, in another place, he repeats this:

"Chambers, for example, had never mentioned the supposed loan of $400 in his evidence before the House Committee or, indeed, until the first trial; and by this time he could have found out from the FBI that Hiss had withdrawn $400 at or about the relevant time—for the FBI had obtained a copy of the account on the 31st January 1949."

The upshot of Jowitt's handling of what he makes very involved and complicated testimony about the $400, and I have six references to it, is, in effect, that the FBI framed that particular piece of evidence to convict Hiss. As Rebecca West put it:

". . . This is likely to please the American public just as much as it would please the British public if a judge of the American Supreme Court should write a book about an English cause celebre and casually assert that Scotland Yard had provided the chief witness for the crown with information enabling him to give perjured evidence."

Actually Mrs. Chambers had testified about this matter on November 17, 1948, two and a half months before the FBI had access to the Hiss bank accounts (January 30, 1949) and the FBI went after the bank accounts after Mrs. Chambers had testified. If, as it is claimed, Earl Jowitt made a thorough study of the transcript of the second Hiss trial, it is difficult to understand why he did not check the dates.

In the re-direct examination, during the second Hiss trial, Mrs. Chambers answered questions thus:

"Q.: When you were examined in Baltimore concerning the purchase of the car, did you know then whether or not you got the money from your mother-in-law or from Mr. Chambers? A.: No. The money was given to me by Mr. Chambers. I did not know then, nor did I know later when I spoke at the deposition, where the money came from.

"Q.: As a matter of fact in the Baltimore deposition you said you did not know where it came from? A. That is right."

That disposes of Jowitt's implication that the money came from Chambers' mother.

Although the Jowitt book has been withdrawn by its American publishers to correct his errors, the British edition is on sale. It is therefore important to note that the learned barrister must have been incorrectly briefed. This was certainly not an FBI frame-up.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP

America's Larynx

WASHINGTON

The man in charge of the post-McCarthy Voice of America is Dr. Robert L. Johnson, an advertising-man-turned-educator who says he "makes kind of a hobby" of the public service. As the producer of America's voice, he is, in effect, America's larynx.

America's larynx is pretty inflamed at the moment. The President's Commission on Psychological Warfare has shown an ugly tendency to lop several provinces off the Johnson empire, which includes all the government's overseas information activities. In order to hear about this threatened "fragmentation" (as the doctor indignantly describes it) one of these reporters recently called at the doctor's new office in one of the dingier State Department annexes.

The call was a failure in a sense. The big fragmentation problem was all but forgotten. America's larynx turned out to be far too interesting a phenomenon in his own right.

The doctor is a dapper, smallish man.

His speech is a strong, rich flow, studded with reminiscences of the thousand pep talks of his advertising years. He receives visitors with the assistance of two lieutenants, who play much the same roles in the conversation as the first and second phonographs in Jean Cocteau's Dada drama, "The Marriage Party on the Eiffel Tower." The public service note is struck at once, or at least it was in this case.

"I've always been interested in government," said the doctor; "and I guess I know most of the people who've been in government, like Tom McCloy, for example."

Encouraged To Take Job

"Jack McCloy," put in one of the lieutenants.

"Yes, John McCloy, continued the doctor, firmly, adding that he hadn't exactly consulted McCloy, but he had a very good idea that McCloy wanted him to take over the Voice of America; and besides he had been strongly encouraged to do so by one of the journalists closest to Senator McCarthy. "When the President asks you to come, you come," he concluded.

But how, Dr. Johnson was asked, had his interest in public service first begun? What was his training to direct the Voice of America? These questions had an electric effect.

The lieutenants whisked out sheaves of Johnsonian biographies in formats ranging from the humble mimeographed release to the costly illustrated brochure. Meanwhile the doctor explained that he had served for 17 years as advertising director of the "Time-Life" enterprises, when he chanced to make an Atlantic crossing with Pennsylvania's slightly raffish New Deal governor, George Earle. Earle persuaded Johnson to become Pennsylvania's relief director. This was important because "sombody remembered the job he did in Pennsylvania" when Temple University was looking for a new president.

"They wanted a man with character, guts and principles," said the doctor simply.

They took the doctor. The second Johnson phase was causing new buildings and new endowments to spring up like new grass at Temple, which is the city college of Philadelphia. All the while, however, his interest in politics continued. There was a Willkie phase. There were other, wartime phases. Above all, there was a final Eisenhower phase.

Credits Texas Fight

"I told John Hamilton," said the doctor, "I love Bob Taft! too, but I was for Ike."

One gathered from the doctor that his support of Eisenhower was more of a factor than is generally appreciated. There was the time when the Eisenhower pre-convention campaign "was in a kind of slough of despond," and the doctor telephoned Governor Driscoll of New Jersey. "It was a funny thing," said the doctor, "Driscoll came out for Eisenhower four days later." And then there were the pamphlets describing the Texas delegate steal that the doctor sent to every Republican convention delegate, "that was funny too," said the doctor. "I've always said the Texas fight nominated Eisenhower.

It is too bad there is no space for the doctor's whole autobiography through it all, at any rate, among all the well-known names and remarkable incidents, there shone the doctor's powerful salesmanship. How then was this gift of salesmanship to be employed in speaking for America? The question was quickly answered.

"I believe I've got three main targets," said Dr. Johnson.

"I want to stir up the people behind the iron curtain. I want to separate some of the satellite countries. I've got to try to keep the free countries free."

It seemed a tall order. Just what was meant by "separating some of the satellite countries," the doctor was asked.

"Oh," said the doctor, "I mean a revolution really. I think if they know in those countries how some people are always opposing the government, and how they're being constantly liquidated, they'll come to the West."

"There seems to be some question about government policy on encouraging revolutions," said one of the lieutenants, rather hastily.

The doctor amiably agreed that government policy would have to control his efforts, but added he would hardly be able to accomplish anything unless the whole U. S. information empire were left intact in his hands. One of the lieutenants produced a statement by Senator McCarthy, strongly condemning "fragmentation" of the Johnson empire as an Achesonian plot. The doctor explained that Senator McCarthy "felt this was a very vital program," and remarked that the senator had "helped him a lot."

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — If Red China really wants a truce in Korea, this fact will be established in the next few days by her willingness to accept a sensible formula devised by the United Nations countries directly involved in the conflict.

The latest peace plan conforms to the basic positions already taken by both sides in previous pronouncements and offers. It is an ingenious compromise.

The essentials of the plan are these:

1. The Allies stand together in being willing to accept a decision—to be made after hostilities have ceased—by a "political conference" of five nations as to which prisoners shall be returned to Communist custody and which ones shall be released as civilians with the right to go wherever they please.

2. During a period of 90 days—and that's a stipulated time limit—representatives of the Communists will be permitted to go back of the UN lines and talk with the 48,000 prisoners and present arguments as to why they should return to Communist jurisdiction.

Will Examine Cases

3. At the end of the 90 days, a five-nation commission will examine the individual cases and be asked to certify whether those who say they want to return to the Communist side did so voluntarily or under coercion. The commissions' decision will be final.

4. Whether, in making a decision on these cases, the five-member commission will vote unanimously or by majority depends on the wording of the document finally agreed upon.

The whole plan contemplates "voluntary repatriation" but the Communists have been so confident that they could persuade the 48,000 prisoners to go back to them that it now has come down to a question of what is meant by "persuading" or by "presenting the facts" to the prisoners themselves.

The way is opened for the Communists to use a "face saving" device to protect them on the propaganda front. They can, if they like, always accuse the Allies of "coercing" and "intimidating" the prisons if a majority don't go back. If by a chance a majority do go back to Communist jurisdiction, neither Moscow nor Peiping needs to be very much concerned about the way the final statistics on the reluctant minority show up especially since the decision will not be known until at least 90 days after the fighting has ceased. By that time such important questions as "unification of Korea" will be in the limelight and neither side is likely to avail itself of technicalities about the return of prisoners as an excuse to resume fighting. Instead the palavering then could go on for years.

Such concessions as have been made in the Allied proposals for a truce have been in the interest of testing the good faith of the Communists. If they don't want a truce, they can find plenty of things to argue about and on which to deadlock the negotiations further. But it is significant that before the latest plan was sent to General Mark Clark in Tokyo for presentation to the Communists by General William Harrison, the United States Government entered into full and frank discussions with the governments of Britain and France and it may be stated authoritatively that all the Allies are in absolute agreement.

May Insist On Observers

Another precaution taken here by the Department of State was to invite the members of subcommittees of the House Foreign Affairs Committee and of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last week to listen to an explanation of the latest formula and to make suggestions before the final draft was presented. Most of the discussion turned on whether a unanimous vote or a majority vote should prevail in the five-nation commission. Since Poland and Czechoslovakia will vote the way the Communists want them to vote and since Sweden and Switzerland will deal objectively with the issues of fact that may arise—as to whether the prisoners are coerced or realy persuaded to go back—the vote in many cases could be a tie and then India's representative would have to cast the deciding ballot. If unanimity is required, any of the five nations would have the power to veto and be able to block the return of the prisoners who were proved to have been intimidated either by threats about the safety of their families behind Communist lines or by "brain-twisting."

It is probable the Allies will insist on having their own observers present when prisoners are being interviewed about their return to Communist territory. Indian troops will be permitted to take charge of the prisoners camps once the armistice machinery is set in motion.

Elizabeth And Victoria

The crowning of Elizabeth II will in many respects recall that of Victoria I in 1838. Of that enthronement Professor Hugh Chisholm of Oxford has written:

"No more touching ceremony of the kind had ever been performed in Westminster Abbey. Anne was a middle-aged married woman at the time of her coronation; she waddled and wheezed, and made no majestic appearance upon her throne. Mary was odious to her Protestant subjects, Elizabeth to those of the unreformed religion, and both these queens succeeded to the crown in times of general sadness; but the youthful Queen Victoria had no enemies except a few Chartists."

Elizabeth II, wife and mother, is at 27 (on April 21) eight years older than Victoria at the latter's coronation. If Elizabeth wants to know something of the ordeal ahead of her in Westminster Abbey, she would do well to read Lytton Strachey's account of the "antique, intricate, endless ceremonial" of her great-great-grandmother's coronation:

"The small central figure (Victoria) went through her gyrations. She sat; she walked; she prayed; she carried about an orb that was almost too heavy to hold; the Archbishop of Canterbury came and crushed a ring upon the wrong finger, so that she was ready to cry out with the pain; old Lord Rolle tripped up in his mante and fell down the steps as he was doing homage . . .

"'I shall ever remember this day as the proudest of my life,' she noted. But the pride was soon merged once more in youth and simplicity. When she returned to Buckingham Palace at last, she was not tired; she ran up to her private room, doffed her splendors, and gave her dog Dash its evening bath."

The welfare state over which Elizabeth presides is vastly different from the expanding empire of Victoria, 115 years ago. Catholics had been given the vote only in the decade before Victoria's accession; disabilities on Jews had not yet been removed; suffrage was still subject to property qualifications; slavery had existed in British colonies in the recent past. Indeed, those Chartists who opposed her wanted only: 1) manhood suffrage, 2) vote by secret ballot, 3) abolition of property qualification for members of Parliament, 4) payment of MP's, 5) equal electoral districts (there were still many rotten boroughs), 6) annual Parliaments.

Despite the reforms in the Factory Act of 1833, children over 9 were eligible for work—though only a 48-hour week. The maximum work week for those 13 to 18 years of age was 69 hours. Employed children under 13 had to have two hours' schooling a day.

All Europe was watching to see whether the British monarchy could survive the Reform Bill of 1832. On the Continent Louis Phillippe of France was looked upon as the savior of constitutional monarchy.

The other great powers were Russia (Czar Alexander I had been Victoria's godfather), Austria, governed by Metternich, Prussia, and France. The Kingdom of Italy had yet to be proclaimed. Much of the Balkan peninsula was under Turkey.

The coronation of Victoria drew to London 400,000 visitors from the country. Few visitors came from the young nation of less than 17 million people, the United States. That nation was preoccupied with its own problems: a financial panic, the abolitionist movement, westward expansion (west of the Mississippi only Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana were states). Besides, sailing was slow; only a few dreamers visualized a steamboat crossing the Atlantic and none at all, trans-Atlantic airplanes carrying so many visitors to England in 1953.

USDA And Farm Exports

The falling off in farm exports over recent months continues to alarm men in government who keep their fingers on the pulse of the nation's foreign trade. Farm exports this fiscal year are likely to total less than $3 billion, as against $4 billion in 1951-52, according to R. E. Short, director of the Department of Agriculture's new Foreign Agricultural Service, before a Senate subcommittee on May 5.

This decline in exports of farm products, Short continued, "is something that we are watching closely, and my office is charged with the double responsibility of keeping an eye on it and trying to do something about it." Last year foreign markets took the products of almost 55 million acres of U. S. farm land. Of U. S. wheat, rice, grain sorghum, cotton, 40 per cent or more of each is sent abroad.

In January, exports of agricultural products amounted in value to only $269 million—29 per cent below farm exports in the corresponding month of 1951-52. For the calendar year 1952 farm exports were off 15 per cent from the postwar record in 1951.

In calendar 1952, exports of wheat and wheat flour were down 6 per cent; of cotton, down 24 per cent; of leaf tobacco, down 25 per cent. Large reductions were experienced in exports of most dairy products, lard and tallow, grain sorghums, hops, peanuts, soybeans and soybean oil, field and garden seed, dried peas. These trends continued at an accelerated rate in the early months of 1953.

Some farm commodities in calendar 1952, however, were exported in considerably higher quantities than in calendar 1951. These included oranges, prunes, raisins and currants, canned fruits, barley, milled rice, dried beans, white potatoes.

During the current marketing season, exports of wheat and wheat flour are expected to total about 325 million bushels—a decline of 150 million bushels from the 1951-52 exports, another Senate committee was told on April 23 by R. L. Gastineau, head of the USDA's Grain Division. The total for this year would still be well above the long-time average exports of about 210 million bushels of wheat and wheat flour annually.

Declining exports this year reflect the record world wheat crop of 1952—some 7,320 million bushels. Given no worsening of the present international situation, according to Gastineau, "it seems reasonable to expect that our wheat exports could be maintained in a range of 200 to 300 million bushels during the next few years."

USDA experts report that cotton goods were in oversupply throughout the world by the end of 1951. Surplus stocks of foreign cotton-producing countries are being pressed on the market this year in addition to the current season's crop.

World production of fats and oils, boosted by expanded production in the United States, is up about 10 per cent from the 1935-39 average. The new production is assessed as "nearly sufficient" to offset world population increases. In the future, according to the Department of Agriculture, exports will depend more than in recent years on meeting price competition, and on improving quality.

How To Keep Well

Sleepless Hours

Sleep, according to Sigmund Freud, occurs when the mind withdraws completely from the surrounding world and ceases to be interested in what is going on. In explaining the phenomenon, this famous psychiatrist wrote: "Every night human beings lay aside the garments they pull over their skin and even also other objects which they use to supplement their bodily organs . . . spectacles, false hair, and teeth. In addition . . . they perform a perfectly analogous dismantling of their mind . . . thus both physically and mentally approaching close to the situation in which they began life."

There are other theories on sleep but none has been accepted as the gospel truth. As a matter of fact, it is just as hard to find reasons why we stay awake, which is the other main function of being alive. Most authorities agree, however, there are certain centers in the brain which regulate sleep but there is no unanimity of opinion as to where they are located. Others believe we have a wakefulness center and that sleep results when it becomes inactive. In other words, is it normal to be awake or asleep? Despite these speculations, sleep is universal and provides the only means of refreshing the body.

Sleeplessness bothers the sick more than the well and occasionally is a serious matter among those already handicapped by disease. There are many varieties of true insomnia and the most common occurs among those who have difficulty in going to sleep. Their brain is stimulated as a result of "nerves" or thru undue excitement, sorrow, pain, coughing, shortness of breath, or allied forms of discomfort. Others with insomnia cannot sleep long enough to be completely rested. This type may be associated with inflammation of the brain or disturbances in circulation. Another group sleeps fitfully and in such instances the brain is said to be restless because of excessive fatigue or improper sleeping conditions such as noise, too much light, a poor bed, or lack of ventilation in the room.

The world also is filled with individuals who regard themselves as poor sleepers but the majority do not realize they are obtaining as much sleep as they need. These people have heard that eight hours are essential for adults, failing to realize that the amount required is an individual equation. Many men and women have remained healthy and lived a long life on less than six hours every night. Furthermore, the fidgety sleeper may complain of being awake all night because actually the sleepless period was less than 30 minutes.

Sleep has received so much emphasis in the last few decades that many persons are overly concerned when they do not obtain their quota. This has led to abuses, including the annual consumption of tons of sleep producing and sedative drugs. The quack and patent medicine expert also have entered the picture with a number of fancy devices, gadgets, rituals, and diets to relieve nervousness and promote sleep. The truth of the matter is, there is no simple and harmless substance that works with everyone.

This column has been able to trace the flow of Communist potash back to an East Berlin firm, called DIA, run by German front men but strictly controlled by the Russians. Their source of supply is the East German potash mines in the Communist zone.

Three American firms have been quietly doing business with DIA and peddling the Communist potash on the American potash market at knockdown prices. They are: Woodward and Dickerson of Philadelphia; General Fertilizer and H. J. Baker, both of New York.

However, Herbert Rauchfuss of Woodward and Dickerson explained to this column that he not only had the State Department's permission to trade in East German potash but had actually been encouraged to keep the lines of trade open behind the iron curtain. He claimed that his company had been bartering third-rate tobacco for the potash. Thus, the West has been getting strategic potash in return for poor-grade tobacco, and he argued that it would be unpatriotic not to snap up such a deal.

Furthermore, he pointed out that the government, itself, bought 40,000 tons of Communist potash from his company and trans-shipped it to Formosa to help Chiang Kai-shek's farmers. The deal was made through the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Labor Skirmish

It's well known that the ex-governor of Virginia, William Tuck, now a congressman, will not sit on the House Labor Committee. But here is the inside story of how he has kept off.

Having earned a reputation for "keeping labor in line" while governor of Virginia, Tuck decided that his logical niche in Congress was on the Labor and Education Committee.

Committee assignments for freshmen Democrats are made by Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee, but the hard-working Virginian didn't wait for this formality. With the backing of potent Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia, who interceded with House leaders, Tuck assumed this appointment was secure and dispatched a clerk over to the Senate Labor Committee to get him some data on "right to work" (anti-union shop) laws, which he had promoted as governor of Virginia. Tuck also hinted at a public luncheon that he would soon be open to suggestions as a member of the committee.

Hearing of this, the American Federation of Labor got busy. An AFL legislative scout, George Riley, called on Tuck to find out if the Virginian's antilabor views had changed any. They hadn't. Tuck was blunt and forthright in stating: "I'm going to vote against you nine out of ten times, and probably on the tenth."

Riley and another AFL legislative adviser, Andrew Biemiller, promptly told Democratic Minority Leader Sam Rayburn what happened.

Meantime, five House Ways and Means Democrats — Forand of Rhode Island, King of California, Dingell of Michigan, Eberharter of Pennsylvania and O'Brien of Illinois—were all set to vote against Tuck. Since the Virginian needed a majority of six of the ten Ways and Means Democrats to cinch his appointment, this meant his goose was cooked.

Rayburn, who was for Tuck in the beginning, changed his mind. Tuck took a less-desired assignment on the Post Office and Civil Service Committee, where he is expected to do a conscientious job.

Jowitt Inaccuracies

In my researches in the British and American editions of the Earl Jowitt's "Strange Case of Alger Hiss," I have found more than 100 factual errors, a statement which I can at any time document. Some are trivial; some very important. Yet, when one realizes that Earl Jowitt was Lord Chancellor of England, such a number of errors is surprising.

I am taking today a series of errors relating to a $400 loan which was a factor in the Hiss hearings and trials.

Whittaker Chambers bought a car and paid $486 cash. The question is where did he get the money? Four days before Chambers bought the car, that is, on November 19, 1937, Priscilla Hiss, Alger's wife, withdrew $400 from her account in the Riggs National Bank in Washington. In due course, Chambers said that Hiss gave him that $400. If Chambers was correct, it sets a date when Hiss and Chambers were on friendly terms, and that mattered in the trial.

Now comes Earl Jowitt with the contention that the entire $400 loan may be a fabrication by the FBI. These are his words:

". . . The FBI, in the course of their investigation had obtained access to the books of the bank in February, 1949, and at this very time Chambers was in daily association with the FBI. If they had revealed to Chambers that Hiss had withdrawn $400 only four days before Chambers purchased his new car, the significance which Mr. Murphy (now Judge Thomas Murphy) sought to attach to the fact that Chambers had not seen Hiss's pass-book seems to me to disappear altogether."

Again, in another place, he repeats this:

"Chambers, for example, had never mentioned the supposed loan of $400 in his evidence before the House Committee or, indeed, until the first trial; and by this time he could have found out from the FBI that Hiss had withdrawn $400 at or about the relevant time—for the FBI had obtained a copy of the account on the 31st January 1949."

The upshot of Jowitt's handling of what he makes very involved and complicated testimony about the $400, and I have six references to it, is, in effect, that the FBI framed that particular piece of evidence to convict Hiss. As Rebecca West put it:

". . . This is likely to please the American public just as much as it would please the British public if a judge of the American Supreme Court should write a book about an English cause celebre and casually assert that Scotland Yard had provided the chief witness for the crown with information enabling him to give perjured evidence."

Actually Mrs. Chambers had testified about this matter on November 17, 1948, two and a half months before the FBI had access to the Hiss bank accounts (January 30, 1949) and the FBI went after the bank accounts after Mrs. Chambers had testified. If, as it is claimed, Earl Jowitt made a thorough study of the transcript of the second Hiss trial, it is difficult to understand why he did not check the dates.

In the re-direct examination, during the second Hiss trial, Mrs. Chambers answered questions thus:

"Q.: When you were examined in Baltimore concerning the purchase of the car, did you know then whether or not you got the money from your mother-in-law or from Mr. Chambers? A.: No. The money was given to me by Mr. Chambers. I did not know then, nor did I know later when I spoke at the deposition, where the money came from.

"Q.: As a matter of fact in the Baltimore deposition you said you did not know where it came from? A. That is right."

That disposes of Jowitt's implication that the money came from Chambers' mother.

Although the Jowitt book has been withdrawn by its American publishers to correct his errors, the British edition is on sale. It is therefore important to note that the learned barrister must have been incorrectly briefed. This was certainly not an FBI frame-up.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP

America's Larynx

WASHINGTON

The man in charge of the post-McCarthy Voice of America is Dr. Robert L. Johnson, an advertising-man-turned-educator who says he "makes kind of a hobby" of the public service. As the producer of America's voice, he is, in effect, America's larynx.

America's larynx is pretty inflamed at the moment. The President's Commission on Psychological Warfare has shown an ugly tendency to lop several provinces off the Johnson empire, which includes all the government's overseas information activities. In order to hear about this threatened "fragmentation" (as the doctor indignantly describes it) one of these reporters recently called at the doctor's new office in one of the dingier State Department annexes.

The call was a failure in a sense. The big fragmentation problem was all but forgotten. America's larynx turned out to be far too interesting a phenomenon in his own right.

The doctor is a dapper, smallish man.

His speech is a strong, rich flow, studded with reminiscences of the thousand pep talks of his advertising years. He receives visitors with the assistance of two lieutenants, who play much the same roles in the conversation as the first and second phonographs in Jean Cocteau's Dada drama, "The Marriage Party on the Eiffel Tower." The public service note is struck at once, or at least it was in this case.

"I've always been interested in government," said the doctor; "and I guess I know most of the people who've been in government, like Tom McCloy, for example."

Encouraged To Take Job

"Jack McCloy," put in one of the lieutenants.

"Yes, John McCloy, continued the doctor, firmly, adding that he hadn't exactly consulted McCloy, but he had a very good idea that McCloy wanted him to take over the Voice of America; and besides he had been strongly encouraged to do so by one of the journalists closest to Senator McCarthy. "When the President asks you to come, you come," he concluded.

But how, Dr. Johnson was asked, had his interest in public service first begun? What was his training to direct the Voice of America? These questions had an electric effect.

The lieutenants whisked out sheaves of Johnsonian biographies in formats ranging from the humble mimeographed release to the costly illustrated brochure. Meanwhile the doctor explained that he had served for 17 years as advertising director of the "Time-Life" enterprises, when he chanced to make an Atlantic crossing with Pennsylvania's slightly raffish New Deal governor, George Earle. Earle persuaded Johnson to become Pennsylvania's relief director. This was important because "sombody remembered the job he did in Pennsylvania" when Temple University was looking for a new president.

"They wanted a man with character, guts and principles," said the doctor simply.

They took the doctor. The second Johnson phase was causing new buildings and new endowments to spring up like new grass at Temple, which is the city college of Philadelphia. All the while, however, his interest in politics continued. There was a Willkie phase. There were other, wartime phases. Above all, there was a final Eisenhower phase.

Credits Texas Fight

"I told John Hamilton," said the doctor, "I love Bob Taft! too, but I was for Ike."

One gathered from the doctor that his support of Eisenhower was more of a factor than is generally appreciated. There was the time when the Eisenhower pre-convention campaign "was in a kind of slough of despond," and the doctor telephoned Governor Driscoll of New Jersey. "It was a funny thing," said the doctor, "Driscoll came out for Eisenhower four days later." And then there were the pamphlets describing the Texas delegate steal that the doctor sent to every Republican convention delegate, "that was funny too," said the doctor. "I've always said the Texas fight nominated Eisenhower.

It is too bad there is no space for the doctor's whole autobiography through it all, at any rate, among all the well-known names and remarkable incidents, there shone the doctor's powerful salesmanship. How then was this gift of salesmanship to be employed in speaking for America? The question was quickly answered.

"I believe I've got three main targets," said Dr. Johnson.

"I want to stir up the people behind the iron curtain. I want to separate some of the satellite countries. I've got to try to keep the free countries free."

It seemed a tall order. Just what was meant by "separating some of the satellite countries," the doctor was asked.

"Oh," said the doctor, "I mean a revolution really. I think if they know in those countries how some people are always opposing the government, and how they're being constantly liquidated, they'll come to the West."

"There seems to be some question about government policy on encouraging revolutions," said one of the lieutenants, rather hastily.

The doctor amiably agreed that government policy would have to control his efforts, but added he would hardly be able to accomplish anything unless the whole U. S. information empire were left intact in his hands. One of the lieutenants produced a statement by Senator McCarthy, strongly condemning "fragmentation" of the Johnson empire as an Achesonian plot. The doctor explained that Senator McCarthy "felt this was a very vital program," and remarked that the senator had "helped him a lot."

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — If Red China really wants a truce in Korea, this fact will be established in the next few days by her willingness to accept a sensible formula devised by the United Nations countries directly involved in the conflict.

The latest peace plan conforms to the basic positions already taken by both sides in previous pronouncements and offers. It is an ingenious compromise.

The essentials of the plan are these:

1. The Allies stand together in being willing to accept a decision—to be made after hostilities have ceased—by a "political conference" of five nations as to which prisoners shall be returned to Communist custody and which ones shall be released as civilians with the right to go wherever they please.

2. During a period of 90 days—and that's a stipulated time limit—representatives of the Communists will be permitted to go back of the UN lines and talk with the 48,000 prisoners and present arguments as to why they should return to Communist jurisdiction.

Will Examine Cases

3. At the end of the 90 days, a five-nation commission will examine the individual cases and be asked to certify whether those who say they want to return to the Communist side did so voluntarily or under coercion. The commissions' decision will be final.

4. Whether, in making a decision on these cases, the five-member commission will vote unanimously or by majority depends on the wording of the document finally agreed upon.

The whole plan contemplates "voluntary repatriation" but the Communists have been so confident that they could persuade the 48,000 prisoners to go back to them that it now has come down to a question of what is meant by "persuading" or by "presenting the facts" to the prisoners themselves.

The way is opened for the Communists to use a "face saving" device to protect them on the propaganda front. They can, if they like, always accuse the Allies of "coercing" and "intimidating" the prisons if a majority don't go back. If by a chance a majority do go back to Communist jurisdiction, neither Moscow nor Peiping needs to be very much concerned about the way the final statistics on the reluctant minority show up especially since the decision will not be known until at least 90 days after the fighting has ceased. By that time such important questions as "unification of Korea" will be in the limelight and neither side is likely to avail itself of technicalities about the return of prisoners as an excuse to resume fighting. Instead the palavering then could go on for years.

Such concessions as have been made in the Allied proposals for a truce have been in the interest of testing the good faith of the Communists. If they don't want a truce, they can find plenty of things to argue about and on which to deadlock the negotiations further. But it is significant that before the latest plan was sent to General Mark Clark in Tokyo for presentation to the Communists by General William Harrison, the United States Government entered into full and frank discussions with the governments of Britain and France and it may be stated authoritatively that all the Allies are in absolute agreement.

May Insist On Observers

Another precaution taken here by the Department of State was to invite the members of subcommittees of the House Foreign Affairs Committee and of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last week to listen to an explanation of the latest formula and to make suggestions before the final draft was presented. Most of the discussion turned on whether a unanimous vote or a majority vote should prevail in the five-nation commission. Since Poland and Czechoslovakia will vote the way the Communists want them to vote and since Sweden and Switzerland will deal objectively with the issues of fact that may arise—as to whether the prisoners are coerced or realy persuaded to go back—the vote in many cases could be a tie and then India's representative would have to cast the deciding ballot. If unanimity is required, any of the five nations would have the power to veto and be able to block the return of the prisoners who were proved to have been intimidated either by threats about the safety of their families behind Communist lines or by "brain-twisting."

It is probable the Allies will insist on having their own observers present when prisoners are being interviewed about their return to Communist territory. Indian troops will be permitted to take charge of the prisoners camps once the armistice machinery is set in motion.

Driver Gets Milk Bath When Truck Skids, Hits Car

A milk truck driver escaped injury yesterday when his truck skidded and hit a parked car, but he got a milk bath anyway.

Carl W. Riggleman, 23, of Central YMCA, was driving west on Baltimore Avenue just east of Decatur at 12:45 p. m. when his Farmer's Dairy truck skidded on the wet pavement.

Officer Louis D. Downey said the truck jumped the curb and hit the car of Dr. John A. Stehley, which was parked in a driveway at the dentist's home, 1 Decatur Street. The car was pushed through an iron fence in the yard of Mrs. Ralph Hay next door.

Several dozen bottles of milk were smashed, but Riggleman's only injury was a slight scratch on one leg. Milk covered the pavement and the interior of the truck.

Damage to the truck was estimated at $150, and to the car, at $200. No charges were filed.

Condemnation Trial Scheduled Thursday

A jury in Allegany County Circuit Court is scheduled to hear a condemnation suit Thursday, beginning at 9:15 a. m., involving land along State Route 55 between Vale Summit and Miller which the State Roads Commission seeks for the road improvement.

The commission has deposited a check for $350 in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court. The commission considers this a reasonable price for the land desired from Arthur G. Clise and Cecelia M. Clise.

Edward J. Ryan, attorney for the Clises, has filed an answer in which he contends damage to their property by the condemnation will approximate $1,500. William C. Walsh is attorney for the commission.

client had a good "paper title" as well as title by "adverse possession" to the disputed sections of land.

The tracts are known in that section as Mint Springs and Mill Run. There is one small section of the Mint Spring land which Geppert said his client cannot claim.

Intervenors in the suit are the State Roads Commission, which purchased a section of land from Darr for the relocation of the McMullen Highway and the Farmers and Merchants Bank, Keyser.

In his opening statement, James Alfred Avirett, attorney for Darr, said his client has a valid paper title and also through the "adverse possession" by the Kyle family, which sold the property to Darr.

Avirett said his client's deed can be traced back to "Thomas Beall of Samuel," more than 100 years ago.

Joining with Avirett in defending the suit was F. A. Puderbaugh, as attorney for the State Roads Commission.

vestigation. This post will settle for no less."

VFW State Commander Frank Webb of Baltimore said Sunday that the matter had been called to his personal attention by veterans from Cumberland.

VFW, Beall Demand Probe

Webb declared, "The Council of Administration of the Department of Maryland of the Veterans of Foreign Wars; in regular session Sunday afternoon in the War Memorial building in Baltimore, authorized the department commander to institute such investigation and inquiry into the case as may be necessary. The VFW is interested in the well-being of every serviceman. This involves a question of personal health and safety as well as national security."

Webb said he is taking immediate steps to refer the situation to the National VFW and also to contact the Inspector General of the United States Army immediately.

In the meantime, U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall had been contacted by friends of the family and declared he would personally check into the whole situation.

He expressed approval of the action of the veterans organization and said he will cooperate in every way he can with them and will also check into the case personally.

Legion Contacts Family

Members of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, have contacted the family, according to Fuller, and are preparing statements to be used in their part of the requested probe.

A funeral service for Pvt. Fuller was held yesterday at the home of his parents.

Oficiating were Rev. Howard M. Amoss, pastor of Centre Street Methodist Church and Rev. Dr. Hixon T. Bowersox, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Interment was in Rose Hill Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Bernard Price, Perry Shyrock, Joseph Pellerzi, Robert Lucas, E. Kidd Lochard, Frederick Rusmisell, Russell Queen and Ralph Ritter.

SA Units Are Celebrating Anniversary

The Salvation Army's Girl Guards and Sunbeams, organizations similar to the Girl Scouts, are celebrating the thirty-seventh anniversary of their founding this week with appropriate programs.

There are three organizations here. The Citadel on North Mechanic Street has Girl Guards and Sunbeams consisting of 32 members, while another Sunbeams group at The Outpost on Virginia Avenue has 15 members.

The celebration began Saturday and continues all this week. The North Mechanic Street groups Saturday were taken on a conducted tour of Barton's Dairy and Sunday one of the Guards, Eleanor Lease, represented the troop by attending each of the Sunday School classes. Sunday was "Guard Divine Sunday" and all members wore uniforms.

Yesterday the groups visited the Police Department crime laboratory and today they will collect and sort clothing for Korea at 7 p. m.

Wednesday, the groups plan to visit the County Home at 7 p. m. and conduct services there.

Thursday, special recognition will be given the leaders, Mrs. Shirley Stimler of the Guards and Mrs. Pearl Price of the Sunbeams. Other leaders are Eleanor Clise and Beatrice Browning, instructors; Mrs. Dorothy Huffman, chaplain, and Mrs. Capt. Daniel Biggs, corps officer.

The recognition program for leaders will end with a "Friendship Campfire" at Constitution Park.

Friday, each member will review Lincoln's "Gettysburg Address" in connection with the loyal oath "True To Our Country."

Membership in the Guards is for girls 11 to 18 years of age. The Sunbeam age range is seven to ten. While part of the Salvation Army youth work, any girl regardless of creed or social standing can become a member.

The Guard is a scouting program designed to develop girls spiritually, mentally, physically and socially. A definite outdoors program is provided in addition to test passing.

The Salvation Army youth groups have 45,800 members from throughout the world.

Scout Meet Postponed

The Potomac Council "Top Hand" meeting scheduled on Thursday at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company has been postponed, according to Miles G. Thompson, president.

War Hero's Body Being Returned

The body of Cpl. Edward F. Poczekaj Jr., husband of Mrs. Loma Poczekaj, RD 1, Paw Paw, who was killed in action in Korea, is expected to arrive today in San Francisco aboard the SS American Victory.

Military authorities said the bodies of 238 other American war dead are being returned by the vessel.

Bodies consigned to points east of the Mississippi River will be placed in rail mortuary cars for transportation to Brooklyn Army Base, N. Y. From there they will be delivered under escort to next of kin.

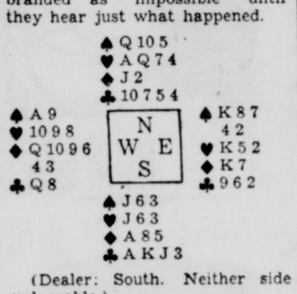
BARCLAY on BRIDGE

YOU CAN BE TOO SMART

THERE is such a thing as being "too smart." When obvious action is indicated by the circumstances, some players feel that they must attempt something special and as a consequence only outsmart themselves. Such developments account for some pretty good proportion of all scores which, when seen by other players in a tournament, are branded as "impossible" until they hear just what happened.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	1 ♦	1 ♥	Pass
1 NT	Pass	3 NT

Up against one of the game's finest players in the South, East decided that extreme measures were necessary to gain a good result. So he felt that unorthodox action at almost every opportunity was desirable. He displayed this plan first by passing when he should have bid 1-Spade on his first turn, since his partner had shown enough to overcall. He did it again by restraining the impulse to double after North had made an unwarranted raise of the No Trump to game.

Momentarily East went normal by playing the K on his partner's diamond 10 opening and then led the 7 to the Q, but went fancy by discarding the discouraging heart 2 when the diamond 9 was led to the A. When South finessed the heart Q, East thought he might block the suit by refusing to win with the K, blanking it instead by playing the 5. South, however, noticed West reaching for the trick, surely thinking East had the K. So the declarer's next play was laying down the heart A, which dropped the K.

On the club 10, East falsecarded with the 9. South decided he would not have signaled with that high card if he held the Q, so used the A and K to drop that honor in West's hand. The heart J was scored, establishing the dummy's 7, whereupon the club J, club 3 to the 7 and the heart 7 took the next three tricks to make the nine needed for game.

Inspect that deal a little and you will see that normal play by East would have caused South to lose five tricks in diamonds, two in spades, one in hearts, a total of eight, plus the possibility of another if he had tried the club finesse.

Tomorrow's Problem

If North opens with 1-Club, what should East do in an effort to become declarer in a diamond contract?

How can Life Insurance help you while you are living?

Through its living benefits;
you don't have to die to win

For example, over two billion dollars were paid to living policyholders last year by the life insurance companies—more than six million dollars every day of the year.

These "living" benefits include endowments, annuities, and disability payments, which help meet a variety of situations.

They can provide a college education for the children, a plan for happy retirement years or the paying off of the mortgage.

Then, too, policy values can help buy a home, start a business, pay for an illness, "bridge a gap," establish credit, take care of unusual responsibilities.

In all these ways, and through the protection it gives your family, life insurance contributes to perhaps the greatest benefit—your own peace of mind.

Today 56% of all the money paid out to policyholders and beneficiaries in the United States by life insurance companies is for "living" benefits.

Driver Gets Milk Bath When Truck Skids, Hits Car

A milk truck driver escaped injury yesterday when his truck skidded and hit a parked car, but he got a milk bath anyway.

Carl W. Riggleman, 23, of Central YMCA, was driving west on Baltimore Avenue just east of Decatur at 12:45 p. m. when his Farmer's Dairy truck skidded on the wet pavement.

Officer Louis D. Downey said the truck jumped the curb and hit the car of Dr. John A. Stehley, which was parked in a driveway at the dentist's home, 1 Decatur Street. The car was pushed through an iron fence in the yard of Mrs. Ralph Hay next door.

Several dozen bottles of milk were smashed, but Riggleman's only injury was a slight scratch on one leg. Milk covered the pavement and the interior of the truck.

Damage to the truck was estimated at $150, and to the car, at $200. No charges were filed.

Condemnation Trial Scheduled Thursday

A jury in Allegany County Circuit Court is scheduled to hear a condemnation suit Thursday, beginning at 9:15 a. m., involving land along State Route 55 between Vale Summit and Miller which the State Roads Commission seeks for the road improvement.

The commission has deposited a check for $350 in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Circuit Court. The commission considers this a reasonable price for the land desired from Arthur G. Clise and Cecelia M. Clise.

Edward J. Ryan, attorney for the Clises, has filed an answer in which he contends damage to their property by the condemnation will approximate $1,500. William C. Walsh is attorney for the commission.

client had a good "paper title" as well as title by "adverse possession" to the disputed sections of land.

The tracts are known in that section as Mint Springs and Mill Run. There is one small section of the Mint Spring land which Geppert said his client cannot claim.

Intervenors in the suit are the State Roads Commission, which purchased a section of land from Darr for the relocation of the McMullen Highway and the Farmers and Merchants Bank, Keyser.

In his opening statement, James Alfred Avirett, attorney for Darr, said his client has a valid paper title and also through the "adverse possession" by the Kyle family, which sold the property to Darr.

Avirett said his client's deed can be traced back to "Thomas Beall of Samuel," more than 100 years ago.

Joining with Avirett in defending the suit was F. A. Puderbaugh, as attorney for the State Roads Commission.

vestigation. This post will settle for no less."

VFW State Commander Frank Webb of Baltimore said Sunday that the matter had been called to his personal attention by veterans from Cumberland.

VFW, Beall Demand Probe

Webb declared, "The Council of Administration of the Department of Maryland of the Veterans of Foreign Wars; in regular session Sunday afternoon in the War Memorial building in Baltimore, authorized the department commander to institute such investigation and inquiry into the case as may be necessary. The VFW is interested in the well-being of every serviceman. This involves a question of personal health and safety as well as national security."

Webb said he is taking immediate steps to refer the situation to the National VFW and also to contact the Inspector General of the United States Army immediately.

In the meantime, U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall had been contacted by friends of the family and declared he would personally check into the whole situation.

He expressed approval of the action of the veterans organization and said he will cooperate in every way he can with them and will also check into the case personally.

Legion Contacts Family

Members of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, have contacted the family, according to Fuller, and are preparing statements to be used in their part of the requested probe.

A funeral service for Pvt. Fuller was held yesterday at the home of his parents.

Oficiating were Rev. Howard M. Amoss, pastor of Centre Street Methodist Church and Rev. Dr. Hixon T. Bowersox, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Interment was in Rose Hill Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Bernard Price, Perry Shyrock, Joseph Pellerzi, Robert Lucas, E. Kidd Lochard, Frederick Rusmisell, Russell Queen and Ralph Ritter.

SA Units Are Celebrating Anniversary

The Salvation Army's Girl Guards and Sunbeams, organizations similar to the Girl Scouts, are celebrating the thirty-seventh anniversary of their founding this week with appropriate programs.

There are three organizations here. The Citadel on North Mechanic Street has Girl Guards and Sunbeams consisting of 32 members, while another Sunbeams group at The Outpost on Virginia Avenue has 15 members.

The celebration began Saturday and continues all this week. The North Mechanic Street groups Saturday were taken on a conducted tour of Barton's Dairy and Sunday one of the Guards, Eleanor Lease, represented the troop by attending each of the Sunday School classes. Sunday was "Guard Divine Sunday" and all members wore uniforms.

Yesterday the groups visited the Police Department crime laboratory and today they will collect and sort clothing for Korea at 7 p. m.

Wednesday, the groups plan to visit the County Home at 7 p. m. and conduct services there.

Thursday, special recognition will be given the leaders, Mrs. Shirley Stimler of the Guards and Mrs. Pearl Price of the Sunbeams. Other leaders are Eleanor Clise and Beatrice Browning, instructors; Mrs. Dorothy Huffman, chaplain, and Mrs. Capt. Daniel Biggs, corps officer.

The recognition program for leaders will end with a "Friendship Campfire" at Constitution Park.

Friday, each member will review Lincoln's "Gettysburg Address" in connection with the loyal oath "True To Our Country."

Membership in the Guards is for girls 11 to 18 years of age. The Sunbeam age range is seven to ten. While part of the Salvation Army youth work, any girl regardless of creed or social standing can become a member.

The Guard is a scouting program designed to develop girls spiritually, mentally, physically and socially. A definite outdoors program is provided in addition to test passing.

The Salvation Army youth groups have 45,800 members from throughout the world.

Scout Meet Postponed

The Potomac Council "Top Hand" meeting scheduled on Thursday at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company has been postponed, according to Miles G. Thompson, president.

War Hero's Body Being Returned

The body of Cpl. Edward F. Poczekaj Jr., husband of Mrs. Loma Poczekaj, RD 1, Paw Paw, who was killed in action in Korea, is expected to arrive today in San Francisco aboard the SS American Victory.

Military authorities said the bodies of 238 other American war dead are being returned by the vessel.

Bodies consigned to points east of the Mississippi River will be placed in rail mortuary cars for transportation to Brooklyn Army Base, N. Y. From there they will be delivered under escort to next of kin.

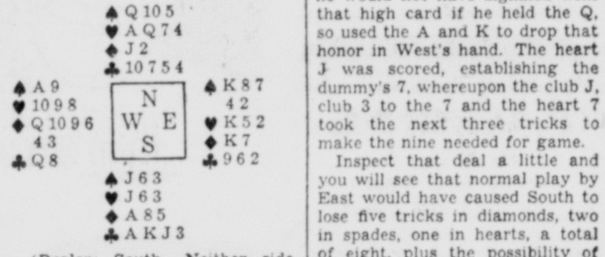
BARCLAY on BRIDGE

YOU CAN BE TOO SMART

THERE is such a thing as being "too smart." When obvious action is indicated by the circumstances, some players feel that they must attempt something special and as a consequence only outsmart themselves. Such developments account for some pretty good proportion of all scores which, when seen by other players in a tournament, are branded as "impossible" until they hear just what happened.



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	1 ♦	1 ♥	Pass
1 NT	Pass	3 NT

Up against one of the game's finest players in the South, East decided that extreme measures were necessary to gain a good result. So he felt that unorthodox action at almost every opportunity was desirable. He displayed this plan first by passing when he should have bid 1-Spade on his first turn, since his partner had shown enough to overcall. He did it again by restraining the impulse to double after North had made an unwarranted raise of the No Trump to game.

Momentarily East went normal by playing the K on his partner's diamond 10 opening and then led the 7 to the Q, but went fancy by discarding the discouraging heart 2 when the diamond 9 was led to the A. When South finessed the heart Q, East thought he might block the suit by refusing to win with the K, blanking it instead by playing the 5. South, however, noticed West reaching for the trick, surely thinking East had the K. So the declarer's next play was laying down the heart A, which dropped the K.

On the club 10, East falsecarded with the 9. South decided he would not have signaled with that high card if he held the Q, so used the A and K to drop that honor in West's hand. The heart J was scored, establishing the dummy's 7, whereupon the club J, club 3 to the 7 and the heart 7 took the next three tricks to make the nine needed for game.

Inspect that deal a little and you will see that normal play by East would have caused South to lose five tricks in diamonds, two in spades, one in hearts, a total of eight, plus the possibility of another if he had tried the club finesse.

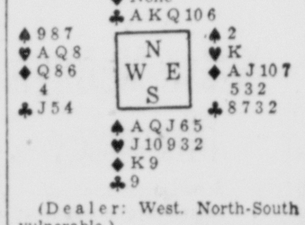
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

If North opens with 1-Club, what should East do in an effort to become declarer in a diamond contract?

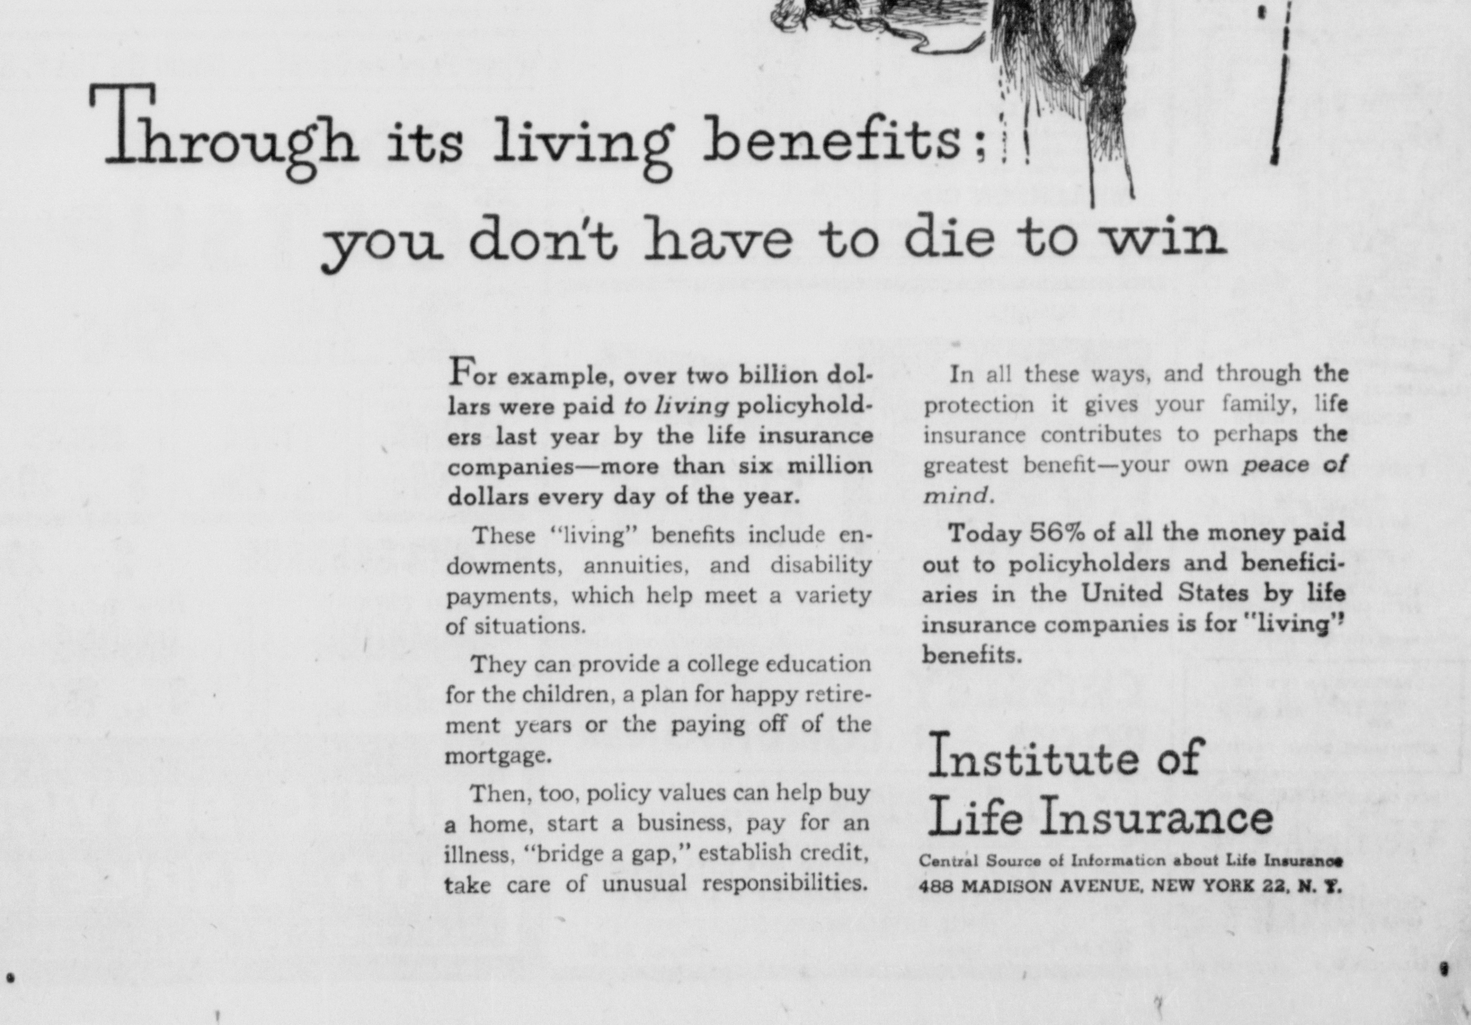
How can Life Insurance help you while you are living?



Through its living benefits; you don't have to die to win

For example, over two billion dollars were paid to living policyholders last year by the life insurance companies—more than six million dollars every day of the year.

These "living" benefits include endowments, annuities, and disability payments, which help meet a variety of situations.

They can provide a college education for the children, a plan for happy retirement years or the paying off of the mortgage.

Then, too, policy values can help buy a home, start a business, pay for an illness, "bridge a gap," establish credit, take care of unusual responsibilities.

In all these ways, and through the protection it gives your family, life insurance contributes to perhaps the greatest benefit—your own peace of mind.

Today 56% of all the money paid out to policyholders and beneficiaries in the United States by life insurance companies is for "living" benefits.

Alpha Beta Chapter, DKG To Initiate Pearl Buck, Member

Alpha Beta Chapter, Delta Kappa Gamma celebrated its fifth birthday with a luncheon at the Bedford Springs Hotel, Saturday. Miss Blanche Foster, Philadelphia, 12 members of Eta Chapter, Cumberland; five of Omega, Gettysburg; 17 of Alpha Delta, Somerset; and Mrs. Belle Oberheim, a charter member of Alpha Beta, now living in Harrisburg, were guests.

Miss Eva Runyan was narrator for the program in three parts. Tribute was paid to charter members and the past presidents. Miss Martha Stailey paid tribute to Miss Foster, who organized the chapter. Miss Winona Garbrick lighted the candles on the cake and gave a brief history of the chapter. "A Minute with Delta Kappa Gamma," was given by Miss Dorothy Felton, comparing the growth of the chapter with that of a rose unfolding.

Group singing was led by Mrs. Rosalind Mowry with Mrs. Kathleen Parks at the piano.

Miss Thelma Morse, president of Alpha Beta, introduced the guests and Miss Irma Diehl, state corresponding secretary, who in turn introduced Miss Foster, a past president of Alpha Alpha State. The latter used the word, Bedford as the key of her talk. Indicating the B for Be yourself; E for encourage others with your enthusiasm; D, dare to maintain ideals and high standards; F, friends, strengthen and promote friendship; O, opportunity to develop your talents; R, responsibility, do the extra things you want to do; and D, develop the divine spark within you.

During the business session following the luncheon plans were formulated for a reception at the state convention at Bedford Springs, June 5. Alpha Beta is to conduct the initiation of Pearl Buck, as a national honorary member, June 6.

The tables were decorated with a birthday cake and red and yellow carnations, the colors of Delta Kappa Gamma.

DeMolay Mothers Club will meet at 8 tomorrow at the temple. It will entertain the chapter following the business session.

Smith Is Named New Deputy Here

Sheriff Edward R. Muir yesterday announced the appointment of Robert W. Smith, 911 Bedford Street, as a deputy sheriff for Allegany County.

Smith's appointment resulted from a bill passed at the recent session of the General Assembly providing for a fifth deputy sheriff. He will assume his duties next Monday.

Smith is a former resident of Barton where he operated a barber shop for a number of years. In 1946, he was named superintendent of the Allegany County Home. He also headed the new County Infirmary when it opened in 1949. When the new group of Allegany County Board of Commissioners took office in 1950 he was not re-appointed.

Smith was employed at a barber shop on North Mechanic Street for several years and more recently has been working at the barber shop of Fred B. Driscoll on Johnson Street.

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"Goodness, if it can't take that, it'll never be any good to MY husband."

Given Jail Sentence

Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick served notice yesterday in Police Court that he "means business" when it comes to halting the practice of panhandling in Cumberland.

Dick sentenced a chronic offender to 30 days in the county jail after the defendant pleaded not guilty to one of two misdemeanors charges, but admitted stopping at "a wrong door."

The prisoner was arrested Saturday night after he stopped at the home of a city policeman to ask for food. In his pockets were about $2 in change.

The officer's wife telephoned Police Headquarters and the man was picked up in connection with previous complaints about door-to-door panhandling.

"We're not fooling," Magistrate Dick told the defendant, adding "This court is going to stamp out panhandling."

Lebeck Suffers Severe Burns

A former local resident is recuperating in a Trenton, N. J., hospital from serious injuries sustained when a 33,000 volt high tension line fell on him while he was working on a construction job.

The man, James Lebeck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lebeck, 526 North Mechanic Street, was working with a pneumatic drill when a crane swung against the high power line, causing it to fall on Lebeck and two fellow workers.

Lebeck is reported to have had a hole burned in his chest when the high voltage ran through the drill he was working with. His hands were also badly burned and he is said to have had a leg and part of the other foot amputated.

Doctors have reportedly termed his survival a "miracle," and state he will recover despite the extent of his injuries.

Younkin Given Koppers Position

J. E. Younkin, former superintendent of the division plant of the Koppers Company, Inc., at Green Spring, has been named eastern district manager, the company announced yesterday.

Younkin's appointment was announced in connection with formation of a new staff department position in the Wood Preserving Division and subsequent changes in assignments.

Younkin has been Pittsburgh district manager three years. He is a native of Connellsville and joined Koppers in 1923 as a clerk. In addition to Green Spring, he has held superintendencies at Connellsville, Hagerstown and Newport, Del. In 1948, he was named procurement manager of the Pittsburgh district and became district manager in 1950.

Younkin succeeds R. M. Killey who was appointed manager of timber operations.

LaSalle Announces 1953 Football Schedule

Explorers Open Grid Season With Fort Hill On Sept. 11

Nine Games Arranged; Altoona, St. Francis, Parsons On Schedule

LaSalle High School's Explorers will open their 1953 football campaign with Fort Hill's Sentinels on the night of Friday, September 11, Brother Joseph, director of athletics, announced yesterday.

Nine games already have been booked by LaSalle and negotiations are being carried on with several schools for a tenth contest on November 13 or 14.

Six of the schools appeared on the 1952 schedule when the Explorers captured seven out of nine games. They are Fort Hill, Petersburg, Keyser, Allegany, Ridgeley and Beall.

St. Francis Prep of Spring Grove, Pa., returns to LaSalle's schedule after an absence of two years, having won over the locals in 1950 by the score of 19-7. Altoona Catholic High is also back on the LaSalle slate. In their last meeting the Explorers won by the score of 30-0 in 1951 at Altoona.

The other newcomer on this year's card is Parsons High School of Tucker county, W. Va.

Brother Joseph also announced that LaSalle has arranged three games for the 1954 season. Bedford will be met away, September 10, Petersburg (W. Va.) is here September 17 and Fort Hill will be met September 24. The North Centre Street school also is negotiating with Somerset, Charles Town, Romney and Meyersdale for games next year.

Here's LaSalle's 1953 schedule with last year's score bracketed:

Fri., Sept. 11—Fort Hill (6-32)
Fri., Sept. 18—Petersburg, away. (20-7)
Fri., Sept. 25—Keyser, home. (20-6)
Fri., Oct. 2—Open
Fri., Oct. 9—Parsons, away (DNP)
Fri., Oct. 16—St. Francis, Spring Grove, Pa., home (DNP)
Fri., Oct. 23—Altoona Catholic, away (DNP)
Fri., Oct. 30—Allegany (19-7)
Nov. 6, 7 or 13—Ridgeley (37-6)
Nov. 13 or 14—Game sought for this date
Thurs., Nov 26—Beall, away (33-0)

Supreme Court To Test Majors' Reserve Clause

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—The Supreme Court decided today that it will look into the legality of baseball's long-disputed reserve clause. The entire future of professional sports rests on the outcome.

The high court hearing will be held some time in the fall. It will mark the first time since 1922 that the Supreme Court has examined the legality of the national sport. Baseball won the last time.

It might lose this case and if it does, the game as it is played now would undergo sweeping changes unless new legislation is written. Here's why:

Baseball contracts—and those in other professional sports—contain a clause which puts the player completely under the control of the club that owns him. This is the reserve clause.

Under it, a player may not quit his club and sign with another one willing to pay him more money. His services may be disposed of only by the club that owns him—either by trading, selling or releasing him.

Now, if this clause is thrown out, a player would be permitted to sell his services to the highest bidder. He could resign from the club that owns him whenever he decided to make the move.

The challenge to the reserve clause comes under the nation's anti-trust laws, which prohibit illegal monopolies and combinations in restraint of trade.

Baseball never has contended it is not a monopoly, but it argues it is not an interstate business and thus does not come under the anti-trust laws.

Thus, in effect, baseball says it is a legal monopoly since it is a sport and not a business.

This argument has been challenged many times before, but not since 1922 has the Supreme Court agreed to hear arguments on the matter.

The present case involves two minor league players and a minor league club. They are George Toolson, a former player in the New York Yankees farm system; Walter Kowalski, the property of the Brooklyn Dodgers, and the El Paso (Tex.) team.

All contend that professional baseball violates the anti-trust laws.

In its 1922 decision, the supreme court decided that baseball is a sport, not a business, and does not come under the anti-trust law provisions.

As You Were

(This is the 151st in a series of sketches with pictures of well known sport personalities of the past from the album of the Cumberland News Sports Editor. See if you can identify them by their photo.)

A native of Omaha, Neb., and a graduate of Tech High School, Washington, D. C., this former baseball pitcher was with Frostburg in the Cumberland and Georges Creek League in 1914 and 1915.

In 1918 while with the Camp Devens team he pitched in the first legalized Sunday game in Boston against Jack Barry's Navy Yard team before 38,000 at Braves Field and beat "Wheezer" Dell, former Brooklyn Dodgers' hurler.

The start of his baseball career dates back to 1911 when he was with Harrisburg in the New York-Pennsylvania League. The following year he played with Galveston of the Texas League and in 1913 was a member of Green's Nebraska Indians and Raleigh, N. C. In 1916 and 1917 he was on the Martinsburg Club of the Blue Ridge League. In the 1916 series between Cumberland and Martinsburg he beat the Colts in the 5th and deciding game, 7-4. "Country" Morris managed the Blue Ridgers, Lu Blue, who later starred with Detroit, was on first base and Alan "Lefty" Clark, now trainer of race horses, including Senator Joe and Helen Maisel, was a member of the pitching staff.

The player shown here has been a well known member of the Fourth Estate since 1923. After the First World War he returned to organized ball with Worcester in the Eastern League where he tossed a no-run, no-hit game against Providence. After two seasons at Worcester, he was traded to Waterbury where he spent the 1921 season. He wound up his diamond career under Burt Shipley at Martinsburg and Bert Weedon at Hanover (Blue Ridge League) in 1922.

He's a former football and basketball official and worked quite a few games in which Cumberland high schools have played.

Now do you know his name?

He is Frank Colley, sports editor of the Morning Herald at Hagerstown where he has been employed since 1924. Frank worked for the Martinsburg Journal in 1923. The photo of Colley was taken in 1914 when he pitched for Frostburg.

Fort Hill Could Cop City Crown By Winning Today

LaSalle To Host Sentinels Tossers

Fort Hill and LaSalle, leading contenders for the city baseball championship, will conclude their two-game series today at 3:30 p. m. at Stitcher Field.

The Sentinels of Coach John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh lead the city race with a 2-0 record, having beaten Allegany 2-0 and LaSalle 10-4. The Explorers trail with 2-1, having downed AHS twice, 8-6 and 10-6 while losing to Fort Hill. Allegany owns a 0-3 record in the three-cornered battle.

A victory today would put LaSalle out in front and the final outcome then would depend on Fort Hill's final engagement with the Campers June 4.

Fort Hill could take it all by copping today's game.

Yesterday's hard early-morning rains caused postponement of all four Bi-State Conference contests with the Beall at Bruce engagement being reset for today at 3:30 o'clock in Westernport.

The Fort Hill-Central battle at Lonaconing and the Flintstone at LaSalle tilt set for Stitcher Field will be replayed Thursday, each getting under way at 3:30 p. m.

Allegany and Hyndman will reschedule yesterday's postponement at Campobello following today's contest in Hyndman where Coach J. Hubert Radcliffe's Campers hope to snap a five-game losing streak at the expense of the league-leading Pennsylvania nine.

Elk Garden is scheduled to play Southern High school at Oakland in another scholastic game today. Coach Wilbur Swank's Garrett countians have won seven of nine played to date.

O'Brien Twins Take Physicals

PITTSBURGH, May 25 (AP)-Shortstop Eddie O'Brien and his identical twin, second baseman Johnny O'Brien, the Pittsburgh Pirates bonus twins, took physical examinations today preliminary to their possible induction into the military forces.

The Pirates paid the Amboy, N. J., brothers a total of $80,000 to sign major league contracts. Both starred in basketball for Seattle University before joining the Pirates.

City Rec League

Diehl's Esso, Marine Reserve and Schute's Roofers captured City Rec League softball games yesterday. Diehl's downed Mapleside 13-7, the Marines bested Sugar Bowl 9-7, and Schute's blasted Bolt and Forge, 24 to 5.

BROOKLYN, May 25 (AP)—Randy Sandy, once-beaten New York middleweight prospect, scored his twelfth and most important victory tonight when he soundly outclassed Tuzo (Kid) Portuguez of Costa Rica in the 10-round main bout at Eastern Parkway Arena.

Sandy, a 2 to 1 favorite, weighed 156½, Portuguez 160½.

EAGLES AWARD CANDIDATES—Alan LaPorta (left) and Francis Poland are two of the five candidates for the fifth annual Frostburg Fraternal Order of Eagles award to be given the outstanding athlete at Beall's graduation exercises June 5. LaPorta has played two years of basketball, two years on the baseball team and two years at soccer. Poland has been a baseball and soccer star at the Frostburg high school for the past three years. Both are seniors.

Five Beall Seniors To Vie For Annual Eagles Award

Enordo Arnone Was Last Year's Winner

Five Beall High School seniors have been chosen as candidates for the fifth annual Frostburg Fraternal Order of Eagles athletic award to be given at graduation exercises June 5.

The candidates, chosen by a committee of Eagles and faculty members at Beall, are William Murray, Alan LaPorta, Francis Poland, Paul Thompson, and William Davis.

Last year's winner was Enordo Arnone, southpaw pitching star of the Beall Bi-State Conference champions and an outstanding basketball player.

The winner of the annual award—a gold wrist watch—will join the five previous winners. Co-Winners in 1949, the first year for the award, were Bill Dawson and Daryl Stevens. Others were:

1950—John Matese.
1951—Glen Workman.
1952—Enordo Arnone.

The candidates are chosen for the outstanding athletic ability, scholastic grades, and general conduct and deportment both in and out of school.

The four runners-up to the victor will each be given a small trophy at the graduation ceremonies.

Murray, LaPorta, Thompson and Davis are all three sport stars. The former played two years of varsity ball in basketball and baseball and one year on the soccer team.

LaPorta was a regular on the basketball, baseball and soccer team for two years; Thompson played three years of football and two years of basketball and baseball; while Davis was on the football and basketball squads two years and played one year of baseball.

Poland played three years on the varsity baseball and soccer squads.

Junior Toomey Wins East Side Mibs Tourney

59 Players Take Part In Contest

A turnout of 59 boys yesterday seeking the marbles championship of East Side School kept the games going there for over two hours.

Junior Toomey emerged from the series of hectic contests as the East Side champion with Bruce Meeks as runnerup. Toomey is the nineteenth school champ of the 22 who will shoot it out next Tuesday afternoon for the marbles championship of the Cumberland area Three more school finals are scheduled — Allegany tomorrow; Penn Avenue Thursday and Gephart School Friday. On account of the Mills Circus no games were scheduled today.

Ring winners at East Side were James Hampson, Junior McCarty, (last year's champ), Robert Shubert, Calvin Lipscomb, Kenneth Hill, James Dee Busso, Delbert Helmick, Eugene Logue, Alfred Strachan, Bruce Smith and Eddie Wagus.

The city finals next Tuesday will get underway at 3:30 p. m. on the four specially built rings at Gephart Playground, Frederick Street. All school champions must be present by 3:15 p. m. in order to get their T-shirts and four free movie tickets apiece. School runners-up will be given two movie tickets each.

The Times-News pays all expenses of the Cumberland area marbles tournament, including the expenses of the city champ's trip to Asbury Park, N. J., June 13-20 to play for the marbles championship of the United States.

Kiner Hits 300th Homer Of Career

Pittsburgh Loses 6-3 To Rampaging Giants

PITTSBURGH, May 25 (AP) — Big Ralph Kiner of the Pittsburgh Pirates connected for his 300th major league home run today to become the 12th player to have hit that many but the New York Giants mauled three Pittsburgh pitchers for a 6-3 victory—their ninth in the last 11 games.

Kiner, the Bucs leftfielder, belted the four-bagger with two aboard in the fifth inning off Giant Starter Al Corwin. The roundtripper was Kiner's sixth of the campaign.

LaSalle Announces 1953 Football Schedule

Nine Games Arranged; Altoona, St. Francis, Parsons On Schedule

LaSalle High School's Explorers will open their 1953 football campaign with Fort Hill's Sentinels on the night of Friday, September 11, Brother Joseph, director of athletics, announced yesterday.

Nine games already have been booked by LaSalle and negotiations are being carried on with several schools for a tenth contest on November 13 or 14.

Six of the schools appeared on the 1952 schedule when the Explorers captured seven out of nine games. They are Fort Hill, Petersburg, Keyser, Allegany, Ridgeley and Beall.

St. Francis Prep of Spring Grove, Pa., returns to LaSalle's schedule after an absence of two years, having won over the locals in 1950 by the score of 19-7. Altoona Catholic High is also back on the LaSalle slate. In their last meeting the Explorers won by the score of 30-0 in 1951 at Altoona.

The other newcomer on this year's card is Parsons High School of Tucker county, W. Va.

Brother Joseph also announced that LaSalle has arranged three games for the 1954 season. Bedford will be met away, September 10, Petersburg (W. Va.) is here September 17 and Fort Hill will be met September 24. The North Centre Street school also is negotiating with Somerset, Charles Town, Romney and Meyersdale for games next year.

Here's LaSalle's 1953 schedule with last year's score bracketed:

Fri., Sept. 11—Fort Hill (6-32)
Fri., Sept. 18—Petersburg, away. (20-7)
Fri., Sept. 25—Keyser, home. (20-6)
Fri., Oct. 2—Open
Fri., Oct. 9—Parsons, away (DNP)
Fri., Oct. 16—St. Francis, Spring Grove, Pa., home (DNP)
Fri., Oct. 23—Altoona Catholic, away (DNP)
Fri., Oct. 30—Allegany (19-7)
Nov. 6, 7 or 13—Ridgeley (37-6)
Nov. 13 or 14—Game sought for this date
Thurs., Nov 26—Beall, away (33-0)

As You Were

(This is the 151st in a series of sketches with pictures of well known sport personalities of the past from the album of the Cumberland News Sports Editor. See if you can identify them by their photo.)

A native of Omaha, Neb., and a graduate of Tech High School, Washington, D. C., this former baseball pitcher was with Frostburg in the Cumberland and Georges Creek League in 1914 and 1915.

In 1918 while with the Camp Devens team he pitched in the first legalized Sunday game in Boston against Jack Barry's Navy Yard team before 38,000 at Braves Field and beat "Wheezer" Dell, former Brooklyn Dodgers' hurler.

The start of his baseball career dates back to 1911 when he was with Harrisburg in the New York-Pennsylvania League. The following year he played with Galveston of the Texas League and in 1913 was a member of Green's Nebraska Indians and Raleigh, N. C. In 1916 and 1917 he was on the Martinsburg Club of the Blue Ridge League. In the 1916 series between Cumberland and Martinsburg he beat the Colts in the 5th and deciding game, 7-4. "Country" Morris managed the Blue Ridgers, Lu Blue, who later starred with Detroit, was on first base and Alan "Lefty" Clark, now trainer of race horses, including Senator Joe and Helen Maisel, was a member of the pitching staff.

The player shown here has been a well known member of the Fourth Estate since 1923. After the First World War he returned to organized ball with Worcester in the Eastern League where he tossed a no-run, no-hit game against Providence. After two seasons at Worcester, he was traded to Waterbury where he spent the 1921 season. He wound up his diamond career under Burt Shipley at Martinsburg and Bert Weedon at Hanover (Blue Ridge League) in 1922.

He's a former football and basketball official and worked quite a few games in which Cumberland high schools have played.

Now do you know his name?

He is Frank Colley, sports editor of the Morning Herald at Hagerstown where he has been employed since 1924. Frank worked for the Martinsburg Journal in 1923. The photo of Colley was taken in 1914 when he pitched for Frostburg.

Supreme Court To Test Majors' Reserve Clause

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—The Supreme Court decided today that it will look into the legality of baseball's long-disputed reserve clause. The entire future of professional sports rests on the outcome.

The high court hearing will be held some time in the fall. It will mark the first time since 1922 that the Supreme Court has examined the legality of the national sport. Baseball won the last time.

It might lose this case and if it does, the game as it is played now would undergo sweeping changes unless new legislation is written. Here's why:

Baseball contracts—and those in other professional sports—contain a clause which puts the player completely under the control of the club that owns him. This is the reserve clause.

Under it, a player may not quit his club and sign with another one willing to pay him more money. His services may be disposed of only by the club that owns him—either by trading, selling or releasing him.

Now, if this clause is thrown out, a player would be permitted to sell his services to the highest bidder. He could resign from the club that owns him whenever he decided to make the move.

The challenge to the reserve clause comes under the nation's anti-trust laws, which prohibit illegal monopolies and combinations in restraint of trade.

Baseball never has contended it is not a monopoly, but it argues it is not an interstate business and thus does not come under the anti-trust laws.

Thus, in effect, baseball says it is a legal monopoly since it is a sport and not a business.

This argument has been challenged many times before, but not since 1922 has the Supreme Court agreed to hear arguments on the matter.

The present case involves two minor league players and a minor league club. They are George Toolson, a former player in the New York Yankees farm system; Walter Kowalski, the property of the Brooklyn Dodgers, and the El Paso (Tex.) team.

All contend that professional baseball violates the anti-trust laws.

In its 1922 decision, the supreme court decided that baseball is a sport, not a business, and does not come under the anti-trust law provisions.

Fort Hill Could Cop City Crown By Winning Today

LaSalle To Host Sentinels Tossers

Fort Hill and LaSalle, leading contenders for the city baseball championship, will conclude their two-game series today at 3:30 p. m. at Stitcher Field.

The Sentinels of Coach John J. "Bobby" Cavanaugh lead the city race with a 2-0 record, having beaten Allegany 2-0 and LaSalle 10-4. The Explorers trail with 2-1, having downed AHS twice, 8-6 and 10-6 while losing to Fort Hill. Allegany owns a 0-3 record in the three-cornered battle.

A victory today would put LaSalle out in front and the final outcome then would depend on Fort Hill's final engagement with the Campers June 4.

Fort Hill could take it all by copping today's game.

Yesterday's hard early-morning rains caused postponement of all four Bi-State Conference contests with the Beall at Bruce engagement being reset for today at 3:30 o'clock in Westernport.

The Fort Hill-Central battle at Lonaconing and the Flintstone at LaSalle tilt set for Stitcher Field will be replayed Thursday, each getting under way at 3:30 p. m.

Allegany and Hyndman will reschedule yesterday's postponement at Campobello following today's contest in Hyndman where Coach J. Hubert Radcliffe's Campers hope to snap a five-game losing streak at the expense of the league-leading Pennsylvania nine.

Elk Garden is scheduled to play Southern High school at Oakland in another scholastic game today. Coach Wilbur Swank's Garrett countians have won seven of nine played to date.

O'Brien Twins Take Physicals

Both are seniors.

Enordo Arnone Was Last Year's Winner

Five Beall High School seniors have been chosen as candidates for the fifth annual Frostburg Fraternal Order of Eagles athletic award to be given at graduation exercises June 5.

The candidates, chosen by a committee of Eagles and faculty members at Beall, are William Murray, Alan LaPorta, Francis Poland, Paul Thompson, and William Davis.

Last year's winner was Enordo Arnone, southpaw pitching star of the Beall Bi-State Conference champions and an outstanding basketball player.

The winner of the annual award—a gold wrist watch—will join the five previous winners. Co-Winners in 1949, the first year for the award, were Bill Dawson and Daryl Stevens. Others were:

1950—John Matese.
1951—Glen Workman.
1952—Enordo Arnone.

The candidates are chosen for the outstanding athletic ability, scholastic grades, and general conduct and deportment both in and out of school.

The four runners-up to the victor will each be given a small trophy at the graduation ceremonies.

Murray, LaPorta, Thompson and Davis are all three sport stars. The former played two years of varsity ball in basketball and baseball and one year on the soccer team.

LaPorta was a regular on the basketball, baseball and soccer team for two years; Thompson played three years of football and two years of basketball and baseball; while Davis was on the football and basketball squads two years and played one year of baseball.

Poland played three years on the varsity baseball and soccer squads.

Dark Star Has Injured Leg

Derby Victor Is Retired To Stud

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP) — Dark Star, surprise winner over Native Dancer in the Kentucky Derby, has turned up with a leg injury which has ended his racing career, Owner Harry F. Guggenheim announced today.

Guggenheim, master of the Cain Hoy Stable, said his prize runner turned up lame after the Preakness last Saturday in Baltimore. He suffered a bowed tendon.

The colt will be turned out at Port Washington this summer, the owner added, and then will be retired to stud in Kentucky in 1954.

Guggenheim, in a specially prepared statement, said:

"Jockey Henry Moreno reported that while the horse was running with great ease (in the Preakness) at the head of the stretch he suddenly stopped.

"After cooling out, his leg filled and the injury to a main tendon became apparent."

Kiner Is Twelfth Major Leaguer To Hit 300 Homeruns

PITTSBURGH, May 25 (AP)—Outfielder Ralph Kiner of the Pittsburgh Pirates belted the 300th home run of his major league career today against the New York Giants.

Kiner connected for the blow off Al Corwin, the Giants righthander, with two aboard in the fifth inning. The blow followed a walk to Cal Abrams and a single by Paul Smith to right field.

It was Kiner's sixth homer of the season and gave him the distinction of becoming the 12th player to have hit 300 four-baggers.

Here is a list of the 300 home run hitters:

1.	Babe Ruth	714
2.	Jimmy Foxx	534
3.	Mel Ott	511
4.	Lou Gehrig	494
5.	Joe DiMaggio	361

Derby Victor Is Retired To Stud

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP) — Dark Star, surprise winner over Native Dancer in the Kentucky Derby, has turned up with a leg injury which has ended his racing career, Owner Harry F. Guggenheim announced today.

Guggenheim, master of the Cain Hoy Stable, said his prize runner turned up lame after the Preakness last Saturday in Baltimore. He suffered a bowed tendon.

The colt will be turned out at Port Washington this summer, the owner added, and then will be retired to stud in Kentucky in 1954.

Guggenheim, in a specially prepared statement, said:

"Jockey Henry Moreno reported that while the horse was running with great ease (in the Preakness) at the head of the stretch he suddenly stopped.

"After cooling out, his leg filled and the injury to a main tendon became apparent."

Kiner Is Twelfth Major Leaguer To Hit 300 Homeruns

PITTSBURGH, May 25 (AP)—Outfielder Ralph Kiner of the Pittsburgh Pirates belted the 300th home run of his major league career today against the New York Giants.

Kiner connected for the blow off Al Corwin, the Giants righthander, with two aboard in the fifth inning. The blow followed a walk to Cal Abrams and a single by Paul Smith to right field.

It was Kiner's sixth homer of the season and gave him the distinction of becoming the 12th player to have hit 300 four-baggers.

Here is a list of the 300 home run hitters:

1. Babe Ruth	714
2. Jimmy Foxx	534
3. Mel Ott	511
4. Lou Gehrig	494
5. Joe DiMaggio	361
6. Johnny Mize	352

Market Session Is Quiet, Marked By Few Features

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP) — The Stock Market moved through a quietly narrow session today with few features.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined 10 cents to $111.30. The industrial component was down 30 cents while the railroads advanced 20 cents, and the utilities declined 10 cents.

The list was composed of 1,107 individual issues of which 360 advanced and 427 declined with 19 new highs and 42 new lows for the year touched during the day.

Volume was 1,180,000 shares as compared with 1,350,000 shares traded Friday.

Missouri Pacific was outstanding on the lower side with a drop of 4⅛ at 42⅝ when the Federal District Court in St. Louis blocked the bankrupt railroads' efforts to try for a new reorganization under the Mahaffie Act.

American Car & Foundry, which gained 3 points on Friday, opened today on a block of 9,000 shares up 1¾ at 49¾, a new high, and closed at 49½ up 1½. The strength reflected the $2 special dividend declared Friday, plus a forecast of continued good earnings.

Houston Oil was up 2 at 77½ after it announced a new oil well discovery in Natrone County, Wyoming.

Martin-Parry Corp. gained ⅞ at 12⅝ on a dividend declaration of 25 cents as compared with a 10-cent payment in April.

American Car & Foundry was the day's most active issue with 33,500 shares traded. Following were Mission Corp., unchanged at 31½, Atlantic City Electric unchanged at 26½, Pacific Western Oil up ¼ at 42⅞, and Alleghany Corp., off ¼ at 4⅜. Alleghany owns a majority of Missouri Pacific common stock.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 25 (INS) — We — us theater goers, that is — Even Chata's 15-year-old nephew will see Richard Burton on the American stage in "Hamlet" next year. He tours this country after he appears at the Old Vic Theatre in London in the Shakespearean play.

We'll also see Richard in the Edwin Booth biography, "Prince of Players," probably before he goes on his American tour.

Richard, who was delayed in getting back to London because of added scenes for "The Robe," is improving the shining hours by walking 10 miles every day. That's to get in "fightin' " trim for "Hamlet."

Wise Cecil De Mille, who had the silent movie "Godless Girl" on his hands when sound sneaked in, is waiting to see how the wind blows in three dementia (pardon me) before he films "Ten Commandments."

In Hollywood at this moment there are seven (count them) different forms of wide screen, or shall we say three dimension, inventions. Theatermen are frankly worried, but I believe that one of these days we'll have one camera technique for all theaters.

I still feel that a good picture is all any producer needs, although no one can criticize the studios for trying to woo the public to the box office.

While Steve Cochran is seeing Mrs. John Wayne, it isn't entirely for the pleasure of her company. She is teaching Steve Spanish so when he starts an independent company in Mexico with Luis Montez, wealthy Mexican theater owner, he can speak the language. (her escort in court each day) is acting as a teacher. That is he was coaching Steve until the actor left for Munich for Anne Baxter's movie, King brothers "Carnival."

Such a heartbroken letter Princess Elena (Madame Magda Lupesca) wrote to Richard Gully, her friend of many years. She is grieving her heart out over the death of former King Carol of Rumania, who gave her the title of princess when he married her.

Newspaperman Robert Glenton, of Estoril, Portugal, writes that the seats roped off in a local cinema where Magda and Carol sat and laughed at Laurel and Hardy and cried over movie dramas are no longer reserved. The reign of a princess is over.

Picture theaters in Portugal are filled with exiled royalty. Portugal is where so many former royal figures have migrated.

The pride of Zach Scott's life in his daughter Waverly who, believe it or not, is old enough to enter Smith College this fall. When they go dancing Zach looks like her beau.

In addition to her college education her father is blowing Waverly to a three-months tour of Europe this summer and he plans to join her later in France. Zachary would go along now but he has to finish his meanie role in "Rage of the Jungle" at RKO first.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Howard Hawks' bride writes me that all rumors that she and Howard are returning to the U. S. A. are unfounded. They have taken an apartment in Paris. She is studying painting with Mrs. Jean Negulesco.

Tony Curtis and Janet Leigh were ringsiders at the Vic Damone opening — and gave him a big hand.

Mike Connolly, rambling reporter, postcards from Rome that his thrill of a lifetime was his audience with the Pope. That I can understand. I felt the same way.

Three songs written by Martin Schwab, of the Schwab freres, — "You Can't Play Games With My Heart," "No Questions Asked," and "What Am I Gonna Do?" — will be sung by John Agar in Hugo Haas' picture, "Bait."

Van Johnson is wowing them at the Chicago Theatre — his red hair, red sox, and versatility plus personality is paying off at the box office.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 25 (INS) — We — us theater goers, that is — Even Chata's 15-year-old nephew will see Richard Burton on the American stage in "Hamlet" next year. He tours this country after he appears at the Old Vic Theatre in London in the Shakespearean play.

We'll also see Richard in the Edwin Booth biography, "Prince of Players," probably before he goes on his American tour.

Richard, who was delayed in getting back to London because of added scenes for "The Robe," is improving the shining hours by walking 10 miles every day. That's to get in "fightin' " trim for "Hamlet."

Wise Cecil De Mille, who had the silent movie "Godless Girl" on his hands when sound sneaked in, is waiting to see how the wind blows in three dementia (pardon me) before he films "Ten Commandments."

In Hollywood at this moment there are seven (count them) different forms of wide screen, or shall we say three dimension, inventions. Theatermen are frankly worried, but I believe that one of these days we'll have one camera technique for all theaters.

I still feel that a good picture is all any producer needs, although no one can criticize the studios for trying to woo the public to the box office.

While Steve Cochran is seeing Mrs. John Wayne, it isn't entirely for the pleasure of her company. She is teaching Steve Spanish so when he starts an independent company in Mexico with Luis Montez, wealthy Mexican theater owner, he can speak the language. (her escort in court each day) is acting as a teacher. That is he was coaching Steve until the actor left for Munich for Anne Baxter's movie, King brothers "Carnival."

Such a heartbroken letter Princess Elena (Madame Magda Lupesca) wrote to Richard Gully, her friend of many years. She is grieving her heart out over the death of former King Carol of Rumania, who gave her the title of princess when he married her.

Newspaperman Robert Glenton, of Estoril, Portugal, writes that the seats roped off in a local cinema where Magda and Carol sat and laughed at Laurel and Hardy and cried over movie dramas are no longer reserved. The reign of a princess is over.

Picture theaters in Portugal are filled with exiled royalty. Portugal is where so many former royal figures have migrated.

The pride of Zach Scott's life in his daughter Waverly who, believe it or not, is old enough to enter Smith College this fall. When they go dancing Zach looks like her beau.

In addition to her college education her father is blowing Waverly to a three-months tour of Europe this summer and he plans to join her later in France. Zachary would go along now but he has to finish his meanie role in "Rage of the Jungle" at RKO first.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Howard Hawks' bride writes me that all rumors that she and Howard are returning to the U. S. A. are unfounded. They have taken an apartment in Paris. She is studying painting with Mrs. Jean Negulesco.

Tony Curtis and Janet Leigh were ringsiders at the Vic Damone opening — and gave him a big hand.

Mike Connolly, rambling reporter, postcards from Rome that his thrill of a lifetime was his audience with the Pope. That I can understand. I felt the same way.

Three songs written by Martin Schwab, of the Schwab freres, — "You Can't Play Games With My Heart," "No Questions Asked," and "What Am I Gonna Do?" — will be sung by John Agar in Hugo Haas' picture, "Bait."

Van Johnson is wowing them at the Chicago Theatre — his red hair, red sox, and versatility plus personality is paying off at the box office.

That's all today.

Potomac State Summer School Starts June 8

First Term Will Run Until July 17

KEYSER — Summer School at Potomac State College will begin Monday, June 8, and will continue to July 17, on a five-day weekly schedule. Then, on July 20, the second term will open continuing through August 22. Then classes will be conducted six days each week.

A student may get credits for from 12 to 14 hours college work. It is required that a student at the summer terms must have a high school graduation credit or its equivalent to enroll.

There will be courses in biology, English, history, inorganic chemistry, organic chemistry, mathematics, physics, psychology, short hand, sociology, surveying and typing.

Classes will be in session each morning from 7:30 o'clock to 12, noon. Classes will be for one and a half hours. Work in laboratories will be in afternoons.

For those who will stay on the campus, Davis Hall will be their quarters during the terms.

Keyser Pupils Present Pageant

KEYSER — A "Pageant of Nations" was presented by the Keyser Elementary students Friday afternoon on the Keyser High School steps and campus. The program was directed by Mrs. E. E. Church, supervisor of music in the elementary school, assisted by all the teachers.

The first four grades presented folk dances and songs of the various nations: First Grade, Germany; Second Grade, Austria; Third Grade, Early American, Virginia Reel, the minuet and Negro spirituals; Fourth Grade, Ireland, Irish jigs.

The fifth and sixth grades colorfully portrayed "America, The Beautiful." Sharon Martin was "Columbia."

Mrs. Norman Rodgers wrote the script; Joseph Stanislawzyk was narrator, Lester McDowell made the props and Mrs. Richard Furey supervised the dances, and Mrs. James Goldsworthy was accompanist on the piano.

Sorority Honors Senior Members

FROSTBURG—Phi Omicron Delta Sorority of Frostburg State Teachers College honored their senior members at a farewell party recently.

Activities of the seniors, from their freshman to senior year, were read and games were played.

Seniors honored were Delores Gillard, Mary Straw, Lois Mackay, Mary E. Kammauf, Ruth Rahn, Juanita Lynch, JoAnn Fisher, Delores Bean, Ann Wilson, Roberta Elias, Edith Utt, Lois Ann Wentling and Patricia Creek.

Central Seniors Have Assembly

LONACONING — The Senior Class presented its farewell assembly Monday afternoon at Central High School.

"Kiddies Day" was observed, with the girls and boys dressed in comical costumes.

Ohio Man Suffers Heart Attack

FROSTBURG — Marion McPherson, a retired business man of Columbus, Ohio, suffered a heart attack in his automobile about noon Monday in front of the L. & S. Service Station, East Main Street.

Charles Wiebrecht, proprietor of the station, noticed the man leaning over the wheel of his car and opened the door. McPherson asked for a doctor and was taken to Miners Hospital, where his condition is reported fair. He is a native of Eastport, Michigan.

Frostburg Briefs

The Van Dyke Class of First Methodist Church will meet this evening at 7:30 in the Sunday School room.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Housel, Mt. Savage, announce the birth of a son Thursday in Miners Hospital.

Keyser Seniors Hold Coronation At Class Night

Awards Presented By Alumni Group

KEYSER — Keyser High School seniors held Class Night last Thursday evening, under direction of Vernon O. Giffin, of the school faculty.

The program opened with the processional, following the theme of "A Southern Rosary," with Mrs. Carlyle Kauffman at the piano, and was followed by the coronation of King Ronald Lee and Queen Patricia Cale, by Parker C. Black, principal, and Clinton Rogers, class president.

Rogers later gave the salute to the class, following which the class sang "Memories."

The presentation of the ritual of passing on the properties to the juniors included the presentation of the school banner, by Rogers; the Student Council scroll, by George Oss followed by Patricia Shuck passing the cheerleader's master megaphone to her successor.

Sally Jordan Burnside read the class history and the graduating class followed with singing by their class song, after which awards were bestowed.

Awards were made to the outstanding lineman and back of the football team; cheerleaders award, awards in basketball and to the outstanding senior boy and girl. Presentations were made by the Alumni Association and Owen Schaeffer, of the faculty, presented the science award.

The class sang its farewell song, led by Karen Clary, and Edward Chapman read the class prophecy.

The sophomores sang their farewell class song and Joseph Reed, valedictorian of the graduating class, gave his address.

Miss House Is Engaged

KEYSER — Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth House, Route 3, announce the engagement and coming marriage of their daughter, Yvonne House, to Stanley L. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Miller, Black Oak, Md.

Miss House will graduate June 4 from Bruce High School. Miller attended Bruce High School and is employed on his father's farm, Black Oak.

The marriage will be June 17 at Dawson Methodist Church, Dawson.

Pythian Groups To Mark Birthday

PIEDMONT — Lafayette Lodge 3, Knights of Pythias, and Calanthe Temple 8, Pythian Sisters, will observe the 84th anniversary of the lodge with a turkey banquet in the recreation hall of Trinity Methodist Church Friday evening, June 19.

V. J. W. Scott, Charleston, a past grand chancellor and a past supreme representative, has been invited to speak at the affair.

Central PTA Meets

LONACONING — Nelson Keyes, vice president, presided at a recent meeting of the Central Elementary Parent-Teacher Association at the school in the absence of David Evans, president.

Guests of the Jackson, Detmold Rockville, Nikep Parent-Teachers Associations and mothers of preschool children attended.

The executive committee appointed a committee to nominate officers for election when the PTA meets in the fall. Nominating committee is Mrs. Fay Brakeall, Jackson; Mrs. Leona Groves, Detmold; Mrs. LaVerne Kirkwood, Rockville; and Mrs. Veronica Simpson, Nikep. Mrs. Simpson's Fifth Grade was given the award for having the most parents present. A dime march was held, with Mrs. Simpson the winner.

DISEASE SEPARATES THEM—Mrs. Christine Bruce, 21, Hernshaw, W. Va., bids farewell to her seven-month old daughter, Donna Ann, in a Charleston hospital room. Mrs. Bruce and her husband, William, 26, left immediately to enter a tuberculosis sanitarium at Beckley, 75 miles away. Donna Ann, suffering from tubercular meningitis, was taken to a children's tuberculosis institution in Charleston. A second child, Rose Frances, 3, is staying with grandparents at Hernshaw. Burlington Club Wins Top Prize In 4-H Field Day

Joseph Reed Takes Information Quiz

KEYSER—The Klover 4-H Club, Burlington, under leadership of Mrs. John H. Bane, won the honors at the annual 4-H Field Day event Saturday at the Headsville Community Building. Second place went to Reeses Mill 4-H Club, under leadership of Mrs. Samuel Smith, and the Upstreamers club, with Mrs. Dan Oates and Mrs. Robert Gerstell, as leaders, placed third. Blue, red and white ribbons were awarded the culbs in that order.

Judges for the field day events were Lester McDowell, member of the Keyser High School faculty, and Mrs. Lelia Thrush of the Cresaptown School.

During the morning hours a program of songs, yells and stunts, centering around the theme, "The Eyes Have It," was a feature. Joseph Reed, a member of Klover 4-H Club, was the winner in a 4-H information quiz.

One of the features of the day's program, was a poster contest, following the same theme as before, in which Wendall Wagoner, a member of the Upstream Club, was the winner. Judging in this contest was Mrs. Henrietta Allen, county health nurse. There were 132 posters entered in the contest.

The afternoon was set aside for demonstrations by boys and girls and later a softball game.

There were ten of the twelve 4-H clubs in the county represented at the Field Day program, and the attendance was announced as 190 club members, parents, leaders and friends. The activities of the day were under the general leadership of the Agriculture Extension Service, June Core, home demonstration agent; J. E. Prettyman, county agent, and Mary Rotruck, secretary.

Frostburg OES Chapter To Mark Anniversary Today

FROSTBURG — Mt. Chapter 15, Order of Eastern Star, will celebrate its 50th anniversary this evening at 6:30 o'clock with a banquet and program at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club, Cumberland.

R. Edgar Bennett, worthy past patron, will serve as toastmaster and presiding officer. The celebration will be opened by the group repeating the allegiance to the Flag, and song, "God Bless America," with Vanetta Powell, accompanist. Rev. George L. Wehler, a member of Mt. Chapter, will give the invocation.

Following the banquet, the welcome greeting will be given by Violette Powell, worthy matron of Mt. Chapter. The response will be given by Marie James, a past matron of the chapter, followed by the presentation of distinguished guests which include Mrs. Alice Fuller, charter member; past grand matrons, of Maryland, sisters Nina Fey and Bessie R. Baird, of Cumberland; Pearl Boor, of Westernport; Ruth T. Winger, and Clifford Winger, of Frederick; past grand patron and deputy grand lecturer of Maryland, Russell Buck, and wife, Hilda, of Upper Marlboro and sisters Sarah Barringer, Margaret Flurshutz, of Cumberland; Gladys Kight, of Westernport; and Mary C. Davis, of Frostburg.

Two solos will be sung by Mrs. Ann Storm, "While Our Hearts Are Singing," and "God Touched the Rose." Mrs. Lillian S. Stewart will be accompanist. The program will include a tribute to all members of the chapter by Mary C. Davis and the birthday song by the group, with Vanetta Powell, accompanist.

An address will be given by Lloyd H. Hinkle, past potentate of Jaffe Temple and former superintendent of Bedford Pa. County schools. Mrs. Mabel Kemp Durst will sing, "Carissima," and "Nocturne," with Mrs. Stewart, accompanist, with closing number, "May The Good Lord Bless And Keep You," by the group.

Mrs. Sally Gunnett, a charter member, is unable to attend. Approximately 200 persons have made reservations for the banquet.

The program committee includes R. Edgar Bennett, Margueretha Yates, Mary C. Davis, Madeline Cook, Thelma Mackay, Walter Mackay, Earl Brain, and Walter Jeffries.

The anniversary committee includes Marguerite Glotfelty, chairman, Vanetta Powell, Mary C. Davis, Margueretha Yates, Evelyn K. Lemmert, Mary Elizabeth Davis, Marguerite Wilson, Elsie Geis, Ann Bennett, Margaret Vogtman, and Mary Evans.

Parsons Girl To Be Wed

PARSONS—Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Isner, of Parsons, announce the engagement of their oldest daughter, Jeanne, to Airman 2/c James E. Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Robinson of St. George.

The bride-elect is a member of the graduating class of Parsons High School where she is an active student, a member of the National Honor Society, the Tri-Hi-Y, office staff, 4-H Club, Glee Club, Bow Tie Yearbook staff, Latin club, B.G.B. Club and the Public Speaking Club.

Miss Webster To Be Bride

KEYSER—Dr. and Mrs. Charles Webster, Garden City, Kas., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth Sue, to Newell N. Jenkins, son of the Rev. and Mrs. C. F. Jenkins, Gridley, Kas. The wedding will take place June 12 in Garden City.

Miss Webster, an alumna of Kansas University and Columbia University, is dean of women at Potomac State School. Jenkins, who received a B. A. and A. M. degree from Kansas University, is city manager of Maywood, Ill.

James Fraser Entertains Club

KEYSER—James Fraser, local employe of the B & O Railroad Company, was guest entertainer at the Keyser Kiwanis Club's dinner meeting Wednesday.

The speaker, a native of Scotland, entertained by reciting a number of Bobby Burns immortal poems and followed by presenting a number of poems that he, himself, had written through the years.

In addition to the poetry and several other items, Fraser, played a number of violin musical numbers and asked the group to join with him in the singing of "The Old Rugged Cross," one of his favorites.

At conclusion of his entertainment, he was prevailed on to play several additional old musical numbers.

For a number of years the entertainer taught music in Keyser, and is well known throughout the local area.

Howard Wells, local pharmacist, was a guest.

Mt. Savage Personals

St. Ann's Chapter of St. George's Church held a card party recently with Mrs. Wilson Sweene as hostess. Prizes were won by Mrs. Zita Martin, Cumberland, Mrs. June Ray, Mrs. Francis King, Frank Rizer, George Graham, Rev. G. Stanley Schwind, and Mrs. Stella Jefferies.

M/Sgt. John Flanigan, son of Michael Flanigan spent a ten-day furlough at home before leaving for Camp Stoneman Cal. enroute to the Far East. He served eleven years with the government in various agencies, having been employed at the atomic energy plant in Los Alamos and Alamagordo N. M. and Las Vegas, Nev. before entering the service.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Flanigan and daughter, Barbara Ann, of Trenton, N. J. returned after spending the week end with Michael Flanigan Sr.

Pfc. James Hotchkiss has been promoted to sergeant in Korea where he is stationed. Hotchkiss is the son of Mrs. Nellie Hotchkiss and the late Richard Hotchkiss who lost his life in World War II.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Miller was baptized Sunday in St. Patrick's Catholic Church by Rev. Michael Smyth. The child was named, Gary Robert, and the sponsors were Mrs. Betty Bolt and Joseph Carter. Mrs. Miller was the former Miss Elaine Cessna.

There are fourteen special secrets of charm pertaining to a business career. Can you claim all as your own?

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The lass who has just finished school and is starting a new career will have an important edge over those with whom she must compete if she masters the secrets of charm that pertain especially to business. You'll find them below, arranged in an acrostic that makes them easy to remember. Keep them handy, refer to them often — and the rate at which you will succeed will surprise even your most ardent admirers!

Charm In Business

S is for the stability you must have so that everyone can count on you.

E is for enterprise, the get-up and go that proves you care about your job and want to do it well.

C is for courtesy to smooth the day's work. It is always evident in anyone worth noticing twice.

R is for responsibility — to be able to take it you must thoroughly understand your work and its relationship to that of others.

E is for enthusiasm; keep your shining bright and you'll find that when you give—you get!

T for tactfulness is yours if you are always considerate of others. Practice wil' make your tact grow and become a model for others. Plenty is needed to be a leader; too little can make you a laggard.

S connotes the self-control that gives you poise, dignity of bearing, the ability to meet people well.

O is the observation which must be kept at its keenest to appraise yourself, your job and your work as well as you must if you are to succeed.

F is for fairness. Without an attitude of give and take, you can expect no sympathy from colleagues when you're in hot water. And you will be, as who is not?

C is the cheerfulness with which to graciously accept criticism; also to keep from adding your troubles to the other fellow's burden.

H is health you must curry and nurture to be able to stand the pace of both an active business and social life.

A for agreeableness that makes you think twice before refusing help asked by a co-worker — and thrice before asking help for yourself!

L is the radiance that will light your way to a promotion. Let it always show in your dress, looks and acts — even on days when your spark may be running low!

M is the modesty that will endear you to all. Pins are too handy for the puffed-up ever to be safe!

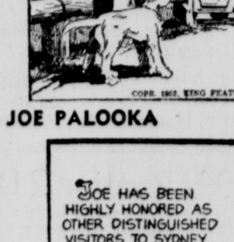
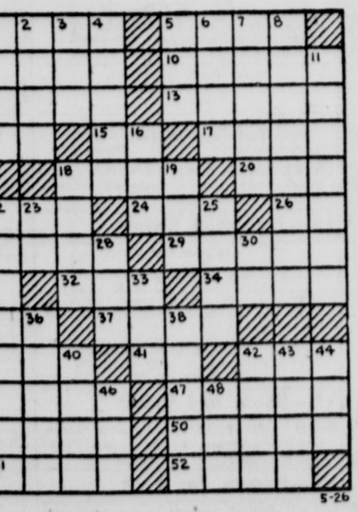
Yesterday's Answer





DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

B K T Z I C N S K J W G B W K G I Q W ; T G J Q W W J S J W G G J S E I K N J K L W G J T W S J J W T — V S I E J S U T.

Charm In Business

S is for the stability you must have so that everyone can count on you.

E is for enterprise, the get-up and go that proves you care about your job and want to do it well.

C is for courtesy to smooth the day's work. It is always evident in anyone worth noticing twice.

R is for responsibility — to be able to take it you must thoroughly understand your work and its relationship to that of others.

E is for enthusiasm; keep your shining bright and you'll find that when you give—you get!

T for tactfulness is yours if you are always considerate of others. Practice wil' make your tact grow and become a model for others. Plenty is needed to be a leader; too little can make you a laggard.

S connotes the self-control that gives you poise, dignity of bearing, the ability to meet people well.

O is the observation which must be kept at its keenest to appraise yourself, your job and your work as well as you must if you are to succeed.

F is for fairness. Without an attitude of give and take, you can expect no sympathy from colleagues when you're in hot water. And you will be, as who is not?

C is the cheerfulness with which to graciously accept criticism; also to keep from adding your troubles to the other fellow's burden.

H is health you must curry and nurture to be able to stand the pace of both an active business and social life.

A for agreeableness that makes you think twice before refusing help asked by a co-worker — and thrice before asking help for yourself!

R is the radiance that will light your way to a promotion. Let it always show in your dress, looks and acts — even on days when your spark may be running low!

M is the modesty that will endear you to all. Pins are too handy for the puffed-up ever to be safe!

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

B K T Z I C N S K J W G B W K G I Q W ; T G J Q W W J S J W G G J S E I K N J K L W G J T W S J J W T — V S I E J S U T.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: GOD IS IN HEAVEN, AND THOU UPON EARTH: THEREFORE LET THY WORDS BE FEW—ECCLESIASTES.

Card of Thanks

We take this manner in which to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our neighbors and friends for flowers, mass cards, and the sympathy shown us following the death of Erma M. Brady. We also wish to thank those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral.

In Memoriam

In memory of Hayden Skidmore who passed away eight years ago today, May 26, 1945.
Eight long and lonely years have passed
Since God called you home to rest,
I often sit and think of you, Hayden,
Of the things you did and said, and many a tear in silence is shed.

You had a smile for everyone,
A heart as pure as gold,
To all who knew and loved you,
Your memory will never grow old.
Sadly missed by his wife,
Rose (Donius) Skidmore

Card of Thanks

We take this manner in which to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to our neighbors and friends for flowers, mass cards, and the sympathy shown us following the death of Erma M. Brady. We also wish to thank those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral.
The Brady Family

In Memoriam

In memory of Hayden Skidmore who passed away eight years ago today, May 26, 1945.
Eight long and lonely years have passed
Since God called you home to rest,
I often sit and think of you, Hayden,
of the things you did and said, and
many a tear in silence is shed.

You had a smile for everyone,
A heart as pure as gold,
To all who knew and loved you,
Your memory will never grow old.
Sadly missed by his wife,
Rose (Donius) Skidmore

Street Signs Installation Is Planned

Commissioner Lucile Roeder said yesterday the Street Department will install a number of new street signs again this year.

The program is a continuing one, she added, and $500 is provided in the budget for that purpose annually. The signs will replace old or obsolete standards and, in some cases, will be located at new streets or sites.

Eventually, the program will enable the department to standardize the signs throughout the city.

Each year the city engineer makes a survey and compiles a priority list. City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum has completed the survey, Mrs. Roeder said, and her department is preparing to order the signs.

Wherever possible, it has been recommended that existing sign poles be used in the interest of economy. When these poles are used, only new brackets must be purchased.

Also considered in determining where new signs will go is a file system kept throughout the fiscal year as residents make requests.

Often, Mrs. Roeder added, taxi operators or visitors find it difficult to locate an out-of-the-way street. The department cooperates in erecting a temporary wooden sign.

While these are placed only in inconspicuous spots because they are not as attractive as the regular signs, Mrs. Roeder said the department at various times prepares the wooden signs as a service to the public.

The practice of buying signs consistently will allow the city to catch up on its sign problem and have them all alike, she continued.

PROBE ASKED IN SOLDIER'S DEATH

Family, Friends Declare Army Failed To Care For Pvt. Fuller

Beall, Veterans To Launch Investigation

By F. ALLAN WEATHERHOLT
News Staff Writer

An investigation into the death at Aberdeen Proving Ground of a young local soldier is being launched by the Maryland State Department of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, United States Senator J. Glenn Beall, Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion and a number of interested citizens.

It is alleged that Army officials and medical authorities at Aberdeen failed to provide prompt and adequate medical treatment for Pvt. William Gorman Fuller, who died there late Thursday.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon for Pvt. Fuller, but between the time of death and the hour of the funeral, veterans and others who heard about the case from friends of the family had begun necessary action for a full-scale investigation.

Pvt. Fuller, a football and basketball athlete at Allegany High School prior to his graduation in 1948, had been in the Army only about a month. He was at Fort George G. Meade when first inducted and had been at Aberdeen only about two weeks.

On Sunday, May 17, 1953, members of the young man's family here received a long-distance telephone call from one of Fuller's buddies. This young soldier, whose name the family did not disclose, said that William had been ill a couple of days, was in bed in his barracks, had received no medical or other care, and that nothing was being done for him.

He said the other fellows in the barracks, also trainees, were doing what they could, but noncommissioned officers and officers in the organization had done nothing for the sick soldier.

The boy's father relates that after receiving the telephone call, the family checked through the Red Cross and the information that William was ill in his barracks was confirmed.

Barracks "Off Limits"

On Monday, May 18, Mr. and Mrs. Fuller, the parents, accompanied by William's wife, Mrs. Mary (Shober) Fuller, motored to Aberdeen.

When they arrived there, they were informed the barracks was off limits to civilians. However, a lieutenant told Fuller that an exception could be made and that he would be permitted to see his son.

Fuller said he was taken to the barracks and talked with William. The lad was very ill and told his father he had been to a post dispensary, where he was told he had a cold and had been sent back to his barracks. He had been ill about four days.

William wanted to see his wife and mother, who were not permitted in the barracks, and after some little time, an officer again made an exception, Fuller said, and the two women were permitted to go to the day room, also ordinarily off limits to civilians.

A couple of William's buddies dressed the sick youth and one of them helped the elder Fuller carry and support him from the barracks to the day room. He visited a short time and was then carried back to the barracks.

"Goldbricking" Implied

Fuller urged officers and noncoms he could talk with to provide medical care and hospitalization for William. Mr. Fuller, his wife and daughter-in-law were told repeatedly that new men coming into the Army were often ill for short periods. It was indicated several times, Fuller declares, that the officers and noncommissioned officers were of the opinion that William was "goldbricking" or malingering.

Finally, Fuller talked with an officer who said the boy would be cared for. Fuller wanted to call in a civilian physician or take William to one, but was told that his son was now the property of the United States government, and if he permitted a civilian physician to treat or attend him, he could be court martialed.

The Fullers finally returned home and the next day, on Tuesday, Fuller tried to find out by telephone if William had been hospitalized. He received conflicting reports, but the Red Cross thought he had been taken to a base hospital that day.

Wife Stayed With Him

Unable to get any definite information, the parents and wife went back to Aberdeen on Wednesday. Arrangements were made to have William's wife, who is a registered nurse, remain there.

When the family arrived there Wednesday, they found William in a ward in the base hospital. He seemed a little better, his father said, but complained that his legs were paralyzed. His father moved his legs and feet into a more comfortable position several times at his request.

He asked for a drink of water but could not hold the glass. His mother helped him.

He tried to make light of the fact that he could not coordinate his hands and feet, to keep his mother and wife from worrying. His father realized he was seriously ill, as did his wife and mother.

Fuller and his doughter-in-law tried to get information from doctors and nurses, but learned very little, except to hear a repetition of the idea that the soldier was malingering.

One Army doctor told Fuller that if William did not show improvement in a few days he would have him examined by a psychiatrist, since it was not unusual for men coming into the service to dislike the idea so much that they unconsciously made themselves ill because of their mental attitude.

Finally Termed Critical

William's wife was allowed to care for him until visiting hours were over and then went to a Red Cross hut for the night.

On Thursday, William was placed on the critical list and his wife was informed that this had been done only as a courtesy to her so that under regulations she could care for him.

That day, the young soldier became steadily worse. He became more and more helpless. He could not move his limbs at all and had lost coordination of his muscles. He had difficulty breathing. His wife had his parents notified and they started back to Aberdeen.

Young Mrs. Fuller recalls tearfully how she asked for an oxygen tent and other things she needed to administer to her husband.

An oxygen tent was arranged after a lapse of time and it would not work.

Another was brought in and it worked, but not satisfactorily.

Other requests she made were complied with only after William had died.

When the parents arrived at the hospital shortly after 8 p. m. Thursday, they were met in the lobby by a chaplain.

He informed them their son was dead.

George Speis, commander of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars said yesterday that some members of his post had asked for an inquiry.

Commander Speis declared, "This situation is disgraceful to the United States Army and to the State of Maryland. Every veteran who hears about it should demand an immediate and thorough in-

Mother, Child Hit By Bicycle

A mother and her small daughter were knocked down and slightly injured when a bicycle struck them at the intersection of Baltimore and Mechanic streets early last night.

Geraldine Goff, three, of 32 Greene Street was treated at Sacred Heart Hospital, for a small cut on the head. Her mother, Mrs Betty Goff, apparently escaped serious injury. Both were able to leave the hospital.

Officer Carl Williams said the woman and her daughter were struck by a bike operated by 12-year-old John T. Melvin, 466 Columbia Street.

Williams said the boy ran through a red light while traveling west on Baltimore Street. Mrs. Goff and her daughter were crossing the street from north to south. All three persons were thrown to the pavement.

Officer Richard C. Lashley took Mrs. Goff and her daughter to the hospital for treatment.

Williams quoted the Melvin boy as saying his brakes had failed and he was unable to stop when the light turned red. No charge was filed, but the bicycle was impounded.

Lightning Bolt Damages Home

During the heavy downpour of rain yesterday afternoon a bolt of lightning caused considerable damage after striking the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Boch in LaVale.

No one was injured and power in some of the neighboring homes was cut-off for a couple of hours. The bolt splintered a section of the home and several windows were smashed by the impact.

A neighbor, Mrs. James German, heard the crash and immediately notified the volunteer firemen of the community. Mrs. Boch, who was on the back porch just before the bolt hit, became frightened and pulled the switch on the meter box.

She was knocked against the side of the porch and apparently suffered no injury. Her husband was taking a nap in a rocking chair inside the house.

A ball of fire was reported to have followed the power line leading from the house to the street. The incident which occurred about 12:30 p. m. caused considerable excitement and one neighbor remarked the bolt was the first to strike in LaVale for quite a number of years.

The Boch's live near the end of B Street. Full extent of damage was not estimated last night.

Allegany Students Witness Trial In Circuit Court

Some Allegany High School students did their learning yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court where they heard part of the trial of a civil suit.

Miss Mary E. Murray, who teaches history and journalism at Allegany, accompanied the students. For the students' benefit, Associate Judge George Henderson outlined the development of present-day procedure in court cases. He explained that two parties to a dispute submit their case to a court of law for decision instead of battling it out in combat as was done years ago — and even today by nations.

Weather

Turned out to be a middling nice day after all, after the sun finally found its way out from behind the gloomy clouds which managed to dump .33 of an inch of rain on the city yesterday morning. Today, said the Weather Bureau, should be better, although a few overnight showers were expected. Today's prediction: fair and warmer.

Yesterday's official high was 70, the low, 52, and humidity at 6 p. m. was 71 per cent.

City Defers Frederick St. Pact Action

Long Asks Study On Canal Street

City approval of an agreement for the Frederick Street improvement project will be delayed until after a meeting here with Russell H. McCain, chairman of the State Roads Commission, June 25.

Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, yesterday briefed the Mayor and Council on a tentative agreement on the project, as outlined by SRC officials here recently.

He said the pact would require the city to put up half th funds when the contract is let — with verbal assurance the government will put up the other half.

To Air Project

The SRC, he added, insists there be no parking on the east side of Bedford Street between Decatur and Marietta streets, and that parking be restricted on the west sides of both Frederick and Bedford streets.

Mayor Roy W. Eves said the city has received numerous complaints from Frederick Street residents both on construction details and on making the street part of the highway system, and said alternate proposals will be presented at the meeting with McCain.

C. R. Nuzum, city engineer, said the delay might prevent the project from getting under way this summer.

But Police Commissioner John J. Long said the decision should be deferred until the city has had the chance to iron out objections with the SRC and the citizens.

Nuzum agreed, saying the city can proceed with its plans, with the SRC assuming the city will go through with the project.

Long Asks Study

Long also asked Nuzum to investigate, prior to the June 25 meeting, the status of Canal Street and whether the street could be opened as an additional outlet to South Cumberland.

Nuzum pointed out the SRC has plans for the Industrial Highway complete from Route 51 to Virginia Avenue west to Thomas Street.

Plans call for the highway to continue to the Crosstown Bridge, but details will be worked out by the SRC.

Firemen Called As Man Suffers Stroke

Firemen were called to the aid of a man who suffered a stroke while working on a garage roof yesterday afternoon.

South End Company was called to the home of Edward J. Mattingly, 515 Greenway Avenue, at 3:10 p. m. when C. R. Hinkle, 715 Lincoln Street, became ill.

Firemen put up a ladder to bring Hinkle down from the roof with the help of a group of Fort Hill High School boys. The Scarpelli ambulance took Hinkle to Memorial Hospital, where he was in "fairly good" condition last night.

South End Company also was called out at 7:25 a. m. yesterday when a mattress caught fire at the home of Mrs. Julia Hackett, 1012 Gay Street. Damage was minor.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Clay Banner, Chicago, Ill., announce the birth of a son, May 17, in an Evanston, Ill. hospital. The mother is the former Miss Marian E. Crowe daughter of Mrs. Mary Crowe, 534 Fairview Avenue.

Airman 2c and Mrs. Thomas Kelso announce the birth of a son last Wednesday at the McChord Base Hospital, Tacoma, Wash. The mother is the former Patsy Powelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Powelson, Ridgeley.

Church To Mark Memorial Day

The Leybarger Lutheran Church, located about six miles from Hyndman, Pa., will hold a chicken pie and beef stew dinner on May 30.

A festival will be held during the evening. The program will be under direction of the POS of A and the afternoon service will get underway at 2:30 p. m. A band will provide music for entertainment.

Install Ahepa Officers

Andrew Vozolas, Washington, district governor of the Order of Ahepa, is seen presenting the gavel of Cumberland Chapter No. 301 to John C. Liakos, newly elected president, at a ceremony here Sunday night. Witnessing the ceremony are Speros Versis, Washington, supreme Ahepa governor, and James Crom, treasurer of the Cumberland chapter. The Ahepa officials also installed newly elected officers at the ceremony.

City Notices Will Be Sent By Mail, Phone

Police To Deliver If Other Means Fail

City officials yesterday acknowledged that many citizens object to the delivery of official city notices by uniformed policemen.

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long said the Police Department has been criticized for delivering notices such as those requiring that pavements or curbing be repaired.

That the practice is one of long standing was pointed out by Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, who said the code specifies it is the duty of officers to serve any and all notices of the city. He said there has been no criticism of the practice in the past.

He suggested that since there have been objections, the notices could be sent by registered mail.

Mayor Roy W. Eves said the notices can be sent by regular mail for a three-cent stamp, or by telephone, saying there was "no need to do it the hard way."

Finan pointed out that it has been necessary to send third notices to about a fourth of the citizens who were asked to make repairs.

It was agreed first and second notices will be sent by mail or phone and police utilized only after other means fail.

Long said police would prefer it that way, adding some citizens have had a policeman stop at their homes and suffer embarrassment from that method of delivery.

In recent months, the city has sent some 50 notices requiring curb and paving repairs. C. R. Nuzum, city engineer, said the response has in general been very good.

License Grace Period Near End, Boden Asserts

The 30-day grace period for Allegany County business men who have not yet purchased their state traders, restaurant, cigarette and vending machine licenses is almost here, according to Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

These licenses were to have been purchased by May 1, but the state allows 30 days of grace. Applications for new licenses were mailed out to county business men early in April.

Beginning next Monday, June 1, a 10 per cent penalty per month will be added to the price of new licenses, Boden warned. He expects that most of the tardy business men will come to his office this week to get their new licenses.

Ohio Woman Dies As Car Overturns

An Ohio woman was fatally injured when her car went out of control and overturned on the Pennsylvania Turnpike in Somerset County yesterday morning.

Mrs. Rose Burchuk, 50, of 29 Cole Place, Akron, was pronounced dead on arrival at Bedford Hospital. She had a fractured skull and a broken neck.

Pennsylvania State Police at Bedford said the accident occurred at 6:05 a. m. (EST) about a mile east of Allegheny Tunnel, some 24 miles west of Bedford in Somerset County.

Mrs. Burchuk, who was traveling alone, was eastbound when her car ran off the roadway, swung back and overturned on the center strip, then smashed into the guardrail along the westbound lane. Mrs. Burchuk was thrown from the car.

The body was taken to the Geisel Funeral Home at Fishertown, Bedford County.

Board To Hear Remonstrance

A remonstrance opposing issuance of a club-type Class C beer, wine and liquor license to Club 88 for premises on Christie Road will be heard at 10 a. m. today at the Court House by the Allegany County Board of License Commissioners.

The remonstrance was signed by 31 residents living in the Christie Road area. They contend there is no police protection, that the road leading to the club is narrow and a traffic hazard, that the Cottage Inn and Cumberland Country Club already hold liquor licenses in that area and that no Negroes live within three miles of club. Club 88 is an organization formed by Cumberland Negroes.

William R. Carscaden, attorney for Club 88, argues that the organization is composed of respectable Negro citizens who have responsible jobs. He believes that it would be unfair for the board to deny the license. If, after the license is granted, the board obtains evidence of lawlessness on the premises, then the board would be justified in revoking the permit. However, Carscaden believes Club 88 should be given the opportunity to show it can conduct a proper place.

At 11 o'clock this morning, the Board of License Commissioners will conduct a hearing as to whether Howard and Irma Sittig, holders of the Class D beer and wine license at the G&W Restaurant, 43 North Liberty Street, should have their permit suspended or revoked. A G&W waitress, Patricia Kirby, was convicted May 8 by Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick on a charge of selling beer to minors and was fined $100.

Couple Is Injured In Auto Accident

Miss Catherine Wheeler, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wheeler, LaVale, is reported in "satisfactory" condition at Sacred Heart Hospital where she was admitted Sunday following an auto accident on Route 28 near Fort Ashby.

She suffered injuries to her head. West Virginia police said the girl was riding with Harold Day, of 3 Altamont Terrace, who received hospital treatment for a slight laceration of the forehead. X-rays were taken. Police reported Day's auto went out of control shortly after midnight Saturday. He was given a hearing yesterday in Ridgeley on a hazardous driving charge.

Testimony Ends In Land Dispute Court Hearing

Final Argument Scheduled Later

Testimony in a civil suit stemming from a dispute over two parcels of land in the Rawlings section along McMullen Highway was ended in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday afternoon.

Later, the contesting attorneys will present their closing arguments to Associate Judge George Henderson.

Woman Owns Farm

Mrs. Ada B. Collins, who owns a 1,400 acre farm at Rawlings, is plaintiff in the case. The defendant is William R. Darr, who was returned here from the Maryland House of Correction so that he might testify. Darr is serving an 18-month sentence there for a motor vehicle law violation.

First of nine witnesses presented by the plaintiff was Samuel T. Walker, a Frostburg surveyor, who ran lines in the disputed area. Most of the others live in the Rawlings neighborhood or formerly resided there. They include Lelia Davis, James Gordon, Agnes Dawson, Isaac Iser, Robert T. Thrasher, Samuel Levy Robinson and Robert Noel. Last witness in behalf of the plaintiff was Wilbur Collins, her son.

Darr himself went to the stand as the first of five defense witnesses. He was followed by Herbert A. Kile, Centerville, Pa., who sold him the property. Other witnesses were Mary S. Campbell, Kile's former wife; Bessie Rexroad, Kile's sister, and Paul Blundon, president of the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Keyser, which is an intervenor in the suit because of holding a $5,200 mortgage on the property.

Plat Used As Exhibit

The opening statement was made by William H. Geppert, attorney for Mrs. Collins.

He told the court that a warrant of survey was issued by the court and Walker ran lines on the disputed areas. A large plat drawn from Walker's survey was used as an exhibit in court.

Geppert told the court that the entire valley wherein the disputed land lies was owned in colonial times by the Cresap family. About the time of the Civil War the tracts in question were held by a Shaw family. A Major Alexander Shaw held title to the lands until his death in 1905, he added.

The property then reverted to his two nieces, Mary and Norma Rawlings. In 1939 the tract was sold to Mrs. Collins and her husband by the trustees of the Shaw estate for about $17,000.

Good Title Claimed

Geppert said he would prove his

National Guard, CAP Combine In Combat Problem

Guardsmen Hold 2-Day Bivouac

Close coordination between air and ground units was featured in a combined National Guard-Civil Air Patrol combat problem at the Barton-Armstrong property near Pinto over the weekend.

The Guardsmen, from the First Battalion, 115th Infantry Regiment, were staging a regimental problem, with close air support and aerial observation by pilots from Fort Cumberland Flight, CAP.

Approximately 120 men participated in the two-day exercise, but they represented a full regiment, a force many times their actual strength.

The Guardsmen made a one-mile approach march toward their objective as the offensive against an "aggressor" force was kicked off Saturday morning.

Then they picked out their positions, assembled and started the attack.

The problem ended successfully with the objective secured, Sunday afternoon.

Capt. James Welch, Regular Army instructor, and Master Sgt. Aristides Parousis organized the problem. Staff planning and supervision were in charge of Lt. Col. Robert C. Matlick, First Battalion, commander; Major John McAlpine, battalion, executive officer; Major Herbert Smiley, operations officer; Captain Howard Bussard, personnel officer; Capt. Willard Horine, intelligence officer, and Captain Morris Paulsgrove.

Commanders in the field were Capt. John D. Hensel of Headquarters Company, Lt. Richard Matlick of C Company and Capt. Gerald Reeves of D Company.

Salary Scale Adopted For Rec Workers

Playground, Pool Employes Appointed

A new salary scale for summer employes of the Cumberland Recreation Department was adopted by the Mayor and Council yesterday afternoon.

The new rates, which were recommended by the Recreation Board, generally provide additional pay for experience, up to five years.

Ballfield leaders will get $80 a month, basket checkers and cashiers at Constitution Park Pool $85.80, lifeguards $120, pool manager $225, movie projectionists $40, playground leaders $80 to $140, playground directors $90 to $150 and playground supervisors $100 to $160 a month.

Will Cost $950

Playground leaders with no experience will start at $80 a month and receive an extra $10 for each year's service up to $120.

Playground leaders with teaching or recreation training will start at $120 a month and go to $140 with five years of experience.

Playground directors will get $10 a month above leaders rates and supervisors $20 a month additional.

Recreation Department officials said the new scale, needed to attract men and experienced workers, will add about $950 to the summer program and up to $2,000 on a yearly basis.

Mills Brothers Circus Performs Twice Today

It's Circus Day again and Miss Burma, national pachydermic pet and official GOP mascot, with her retinue of 500 persons from 18 nations was scheduled to arrive at Community Park at dawn today.

Mills Brothers three-ring circus will give 2 and 8 p. m. performances today only under sponsorship of the Dapper Dan Club. The organization is bringing the circus here to help raise money for the Allegany County League for Crippled Children and the Little League.

The grounds will be a scene of activity this morning as nearly 100 motorized units arrive and the sawdust wonderland begins to take shape. People on hand for the time-honored thrill of watching the circus unload and set up will see the 40-ton herd of elephants join human workers in hoisting heavy poles and canvas into place.

Personnel in all the varied departments of the moving municipality will continue to hustle throughout the morning in preparation for 2 p. m. when the equestrian director's whistle launches the matinee with the first of several glittering spectacles, "Rio Revels."

Attending as guests this afternoon, thanks to business firms and other individuals who have sponsored tickets, will be hundreds of the area's underprivileged youngsters. Stars they'll see and who repeat their acts in tonight's final performance, are selected ones from 18 nations including English, Swedish, French, German, South American and other imported troupes on their first American tours, plus top American favorites.

The circus will be here today only, with afternoon and evening performances. Doors will open at 1 and 7. To enable patrons to avoid standing in line at the Community Park grounds, reserved and general admission seats will remain on sale today at Diamond's Restaurant.

Piece Of Yarn Threads Mystery Over Roof-Tops

A mystery baffling a number of residents is a piece of Celanese yarn which has been stretched over the roofs of several of the highest buildings in downtown Cumberland.

Last week an office employe in the Liberty Trust Building noticed the thread hanging outside the window on the sixth floor. Arthur Linnenbrogger, custodian, made an investigation from atop the roof and found that one end of the thread was across Centre Street to the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company.

The other end stretches from the Liberty Trust across Baltimore Street over the Fort Cumberland Hotel penthouse to the Maryland Theater. And no one seems to know if that is where the other end is.

Linnenbrogger said he was amused when a sparrow lit on the thread and it stretched, bouncing up and down, surprising him no end.

Whether or not the thread was carried through the air by a bird in search of nest material or perhaps dropped from a plane is not quite known. It is certain that the thread was hardly thrown from roof to roof by a person. The mystery remains.

Recognition Day Is Planned For School Safety Patrols

City officials yesterday promised to cooperate in plans for the Greater Cumberland School Safety Patrol Recognition Day which will be observed here June 6.

Plans for the observance were related to the Mayor and Council by Carl H. Wagner, chairman for the event planned by the Parent Teacher Association of elementary schools in Cumberland, LaVale, Ellerslie and Corriganville.

The event will be marked by a parade on Saturday June 6 at 11 a. m., a luncheon at noon in Allegany High School and a movie in the school auditorium at 1:30 p. m.

City officials granted permission for the parade which will form at the State Armory and move to George Street, to Baltimore Street, to Market Street and thence to Allegany High School.

Arrangements were made yesterday for the city to install its portable reviewing stand at the Centre Street side of City Hall. City officials accepted an invitation to be present on the stand.

The city will also issue a proclamation asking all citizens to aid in the observance.

Final plans for the observance will be made at a meeting Wednesday at 8 p. m. in the Board of Education offices.

Other members of the committee are W. S. Lawler, Mrs. P. Holshey, Mrs. W. Henry, Albert Tosh and James Hosack.

Family, Friends Declare Army Failed To Care For Pvt. Fuller

By F. ALLAN WEATHERHOLT
News Staff Writer

An investigation into the death at Aberdeen Proving Ground of a young local soldier is being launched by the Maryland State Department of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, United States Senator J. Glenn Beall, Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion and a number of interested citizens.

It is alleged that Army officials and medical authorities at Aberdeen failed to provide prompt and adequate medical treatment for Pvt. William Gorman Fuller, who died there late Thursday.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon for Pvt. Fuller, but between the time of death and the hour of the funeral, veterans and others who heard about the case from friends of the family had begun necessary action for a full-scale investigation.

Pvt. Fuller, a football and basketball athlete at Allegany High School prior to his graduation in 1948, had been in the Army only about a month. He was at Fort George G. Meade when first inducted and had been at Aberdeen only about two weeks.

On Sunday, May 17, 1953, members of the young man's family here received a long-distance telephone call from one of Fuller's buddies. This young soldier, whose name the family did not disclose, said that William had been ill a couple of days, was in bed in his barracks, had received no medical or other care, and that nothing was being done for him.

When they arrived there, they were informed the barracks was off limits to civilians. However, a lieutenant told Fuller that an exception could be made and that he would be permitted to see his son.

Fuller said he was taken to the barracks and talked with William. The lad was very ill and told his father he had been to a post dispensary, where he was told he had a cold and had been sent back to his barracks. He had been ill about four days.

William wanted to see his wife and mother, who were not permitted in the barracks, and after some little time, an officer again made an exception, Fuller said, and the two women were permitted to go to the day room, also ordinarily off limits to civilians.

A couple of William's buddies dressed the sick youth and one of them helped the elder Fuller carry and support him from the barracks to the day room. He visited a short time and was then carried back to the barracks.

"Goldbricking" Implied

It was indicated several times, Fuller declares, that the officers and noncommissioned officers were of the opinion that William was "goldbricking" or malingering.

Finally, Fuller talked with an officer who said the boy would be cared for. Fuller wanted to call in a civilian physician or take William to one, but was told that his son was now the property of the United States government, and if he permitted a civilian physician to treat or attend him, he could be court martialed.

The Fullers finally returned home and the next day, on Tuesday, Fuller tried to find out by telephone if William had been hospitalized. He received conflicting reports, but the Red Cross thought he had been taken to a base hospital that day.

Wife Stayed With Him

Unable to get any definite information, the parents and wife went back to Aberdeen on Wednesday. Arrangements were made to have William's wife, who is a registered nurse, remain there.

When the family arrived there Wednesday, they found William in a ward in the base hospital. He seemed a little better, his father said, but complained that his legs were paralyzed. His father moved his legs and feet into a more comfortable position several times at his request.

He asked for a drink of water but could not hold the glass. His mother helped him.

He tried to make light of the fact that he could not coordinate his hands and feet, to keep his mother and wife from worrying. His father realized he was seriously ill, as did his wife and mother.

Fuller and his doughter-in-law tried to get information from doctors and nurses, but learned very little, except to hear a repetition of the idea that the soldier was malingering.

One Army doctor told Fuller that if William did not show improvement in a few days he would have him examined by a psychiatrist, since it was not unusual for men coming into the service to dislike the idea so much that they unconsciously made themselves ill because of their mental attitude.

Finally Termed Critical

William's wife was allowed to care for him until visiting hours were over and then went to a Red Cross hut for the night.

On Thursday, William was placed on the critical list and his wife was informed that this had been done only as a courtesy to her so that under regulations she could care for him.

That day, the young soldier became steadily worse. He became more and more helpless. He could not move his limbs at all and had lost coordination of his muscles. He had difficulty breathing. His wife had his parents notified and they started back to Aberdeen.

Young Mrs. Fuller recalls tearfully how she asked for an oxygen tent and other things she needed to administer to her husband.

An oxygen tent was arranged after a lapse of time and it would not work.

Another was brought in and it worked, but not satisfactorily.

Other requests she made were complied with only after William had died.

When the parents arrived at the hospital shortly after 8 p. m. Thursday, they were met in the lobby by a chaplain.

He informed them their son was dead.

George Speis, commander of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars said yesterday that some members of his post had asked for an inquiry.

Commander Speis declared, "This situation is disgraceful to the United States Army and to the State of Maryland. Every veteran who hears about it should demand an immediate and thorough in-

Mother, Child Hit By Bicycle

A mother and her small daughter were knocked down and slightly injured when a bicycle struck them at the intersection of Baltimore and Mechanic streets early last night.

Geraldine Goff, three, of 32 Greene Street was treated at Sacred Heart Hospital, for a small cut on the head. Her mother, Mrs Betty Goff, apparently escaped serious injury. Both were able to leave the hospital.

Officer Carl Williams said the woman and her daughter were struck by a bike operated by 12-year-old John T. Melvin, 466 Columbia Street.

Williams said the boy ran through a red light while traveling west on Baltimore Street. Mrs. Goff and her daughter were crossing the street from north to south. All three persons were thrown to the pavement.

Officer Richard C. Lashley took Mrs. Goff and her daughter to the hospital for treatment.

Williams quoted the Melvin boy as saying his brakes had failed and he was unable to stop when the light turned red. No charge was filed, but the bicycle was impounded.

Lightning Bolt Damages Home

During the heavy downpour of rain yesterday afternoon a bolt of lightning caused considerable damage after striking the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Boch in LaVale.

No one was injured and power in some of the neighboring homes was cut-off for a couple of hours. The bolt splintered a section of the home and several windows were smashed by the impact.

A neighbor, Mrs. James German, heard the crash and immediately notified the volunteer firemen of the community. Mrs. Boch, who was on the back porch just before the bolt hit, became frightened and pulled the switch on the meter box.

She was knocked against the side of the porch and apparently suffered no injury. Her husband was taking a nap in a rocking chair inside the house.

A ball of fire was reported to have followed the power line leading from the house to the street. The incident which occurred about 12:30 p. m. caused considerable excitement and one neighbor remarked the bolt was the first to strike in LaVale for quite a number of years.

The Boch's live near the end of B Street. Full extent of damage was not estimated last night.

Allegany Students Witness Trial In Circuit Court

Some Allegany High School students did their learning yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court where they heard part of the trial of a civil suit.

Miss Mary L. Murray, who teaches history and journalism at Allegany, accompanied the students. For the students' benefit, Associate Judge George Henderson outlined the development of present-day procedure in court cases. He explained that two parties to a dispute submit their case to a court of law for decision instead of battling it out in combat as was done years ago — and even today by nations.

Weather

Turned out to be a middling nice day after all, after the sun finally found its way out from behind the gloomy clouds which managed to dump .33 of an inch of rain on the city yesterday morning. Today, said the Weather Bureau, should be better, although a few overnight showers were expected. Today's prediction: fair and warmer.

Yesterday's official high was 70, the low, 52, and humidity at 6 p. m. was 71 per cent.

Church Notices

Because of the Memorial Day holiday, all church notices to be published on this week's church page must be received at the Times-News offices no later than 11 p. m. Wednesday. It will be impossible to publish church notices received after that time.

City Defers Frederick St. Pact Action

Long Asks Study On Canal Street

City approval of an agreement for the Frederick Street improvement project will be delayed until after a meeting here with Russell H. McCain, chairman of the State Roads Commission, June 25.

Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, yesterday briefed the Mayor and Council on a tentative agreement on the project, as outlined by SRC officials here recently.

He said the pact would require the city to put up half th funds when the contract is let — with verbal assurance the government will put up the other half.

To Air Project

The SRC, he added, insists there be no parking on the east side of Bedford Street between Decatur and Marietta streets, and that parking be restricted on the west sides of both Frederick and Bedford streets.

Mayor Roy W. Eves said the city has received numerous complaints from Frederick Street residents both on construction details and on making the street part of the highway system, and said alternate proposals will be presented at the meeting with McCain.

C. R. Nuzum, city engineer, said the delay might prevent the project from getting under way this summer.

But Police Commissioner John J. Long said the decision should be deferred until the city has had the chance to iron out objections with the SRC and the citizens.

Nuzum agreed, saying the city can proceed with its plans, with the SRC assuming the city will go through with the project.

Long Asks Study

Long also asked Nuzum to investigate, prior to the June 25 meeting, the status of Canal Street and whether the street could be opened as an additional outlet to South Cumberland.

Nuzum pointed out the SRC has plans for the Industrial Highway complete from Route 51 to Virginia Avenue west to Thomas Street.

Plans call for the highway to continue to the Crosstown Bridge, but details will be worked out by the SRC.

Firemen Called As Man Suffers Stroke

Firemen were called to the aid of a man who suffered a stroke while working on a garage roof yesterday afternoon.

South End Company was called to the home of Edward J. Mattingly, 515 Greenway Avenue, at 3:10 p. m. when C. R. Hinkle, 715 Lincoln Street, became ill.

Firemen put up a ladder to bring Hinkle down from the roof with the help of a group of Fort Hill High School boys. The Scarpelli ambulance took Hinkle to Memorial Hospital, where he was in "fairly good" condition last night.

South End Company also was called out at 7:25 a. m. yesterday when a mattress caught fire at the home of Mrs. Julia Hackett, 1012 Gay Street. Damage was minor.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Clay Banner, Chicago, Ill., announce the birth of a son, May 17, in an Evanston, Ill. hospital. The mother is the former Miss Marian E. Crowe daughter of Mrs. Mary Crowe, 534 Fairview Avenue.

Airman 2c and Mrs. Thomas Kelso announce the birth of a son last Wednesday at the McChord Base Hospital, Tacoma, Wash. The mother is the former Patsy Powelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Powelson, Ridgeley.

Church To Mark Memorial Day

The Leybarger Lutheran Church, located about six miles from Hyndman, Pa., will hold a chicken pie and beef stew dinner on May 30.

A festival will be held during the evening. The program will be under direction of the POS of A and the afternoon service will get underway at 2:30 p. m. A band will provide music for entertainment.

Install Ahepa Officers

Andrew Vozolas, Washington, district governor of the Order of Ahepa, is seen presenting the gavel of Cumberland Chapter No. 301 to John C. Liakos, newly elected president, at a ceremony here Sunday night. Witnessing the ceremony are Speros Versis, Washington, supreme Ahepa governor, and James Crom, treasurer of the Cumberland chapter. The Ahepa officials also installed newly elected officers at the ceremony.

City Notices Will Be Sent By Mail, Phone

Police To Deliver If Other Means Fail

City officials yesterday acknowledged that many citizens object to the delivery of official city notices by uniformed policemen.

Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long said the Police Department has been criticized for delivering notices such as those requiring that pavements or curbing be repaired.

That the practice is one of long standing was pointed out by Thomas B. Finan, city attorney, who said the code specifies it is the duty of officers to serve any and all notices of the city. He said there has been no criticism of the practice in the past.

He suggested that since there have been objections, the notices could be sent by registered mail.

Mayor Roy W. Eves said the notices can be sent by regular mail for a three-cent stamp, or by telephone, saying there was "no need to do it the hard way."

Finan pointed out that it has been necessary to send third notices to about a fourth of the citizens who were asked to make repairs.

It was agreed first and second notices will be sent by mail or phone and police utilized only after other means fail.

Long said police would prefer it that way, adding some citizens have had a policeman stop at their homes and suffer embarrassment from that method of delivery.

In recent months, the city has sent some 50 notices requiring curb and paving repairs. C. R. Nuzum, city engineer, said the response has in general been very good.

License Grace Period Near End, Boden Asserts

The 30-day grace period for Allegany County business men who have not yet purchased their state traders, restaurant, cigarette and vending machine licenses is almost here, according to Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

These licenses were to have been purchased by May 1, but the state allows 30 days of grace. Applications for new licenses were mailed out to county business men early in April.

Beginning next Monday, June 1, a 10 per cent penalty per month will be added to the price of new licenses, Boden warned. He expects that most of the tardy business men will come to his office this week to get their new licenses.

Ohio Woman Dies As Car Overturns

An Ohio woman was fatally injured when her car went out of control and overturned on the Pennsylvania Turnpike in Somerset County yesterday morning.

Mrs. Rose Burchuk, 50, of 29 Cole Place, Akron, was pronounced dead on arrival at Bedford Hospital. She had a fractured skull and a broken neck.

Pennsylvania State Police at Bedford said the accident occurred at 6:05 a. m. (EST) about a mile east of Allegheny Tunnel, some 24 miles west of Bedford in Somerset County.

Mrs. Burchuk, who was traveling alone, was eastbound when her car ran off the roadway, swung back and overturned on the center strip, then smashed into the guardrail along the westbound lane. Mrs. Burchuk was thrown from the car.

The body was taken to the Geisel Funeral Home at Fishertown, Bedford County.

Board To Hear Remonstrance

A remonstrance opposing issuance of a club-type Class C beer, wine and liquor license to Club 88 for premises on Christie Road will be heard at 10 a. m. today at the Court House by the Allegany County Board of License Commissioners.

The remonstrance was signed by 31 residents living in the Christie Road area. They contend there is no police protection, that the road leading to the club is narrow and a traffic hazard, that the Cottage Inn and Cumberland Country Club already hold liquor licenses in that area and that no Negroes live within three miles of club. Club 88 is an organization formed by Cumberland Negroes.

William R. Carscaden, attorney for Club 88, argues that the organization is composed of respectable Negro citizens who have responsible jobs. He believes that it would be unfair for the board to deny the license. If, after the license is granted, the board obtains evidence of lawlessness on the premises, then the board would be justified in revoking the permit. However, Carscaden believes Club 88 should be given the opportunity to show it can conduct a proper place.

At 11 o'clock this morning, the Board of License Commissioners will conduct a hearing as to whether Howard and Irma Sittig, holders of the Class D beer and wine license at the G&W Restaurant, 43 North Liberty Street, should have their permit suspended or revoked. A G&W waitress, Patricia Kirby, was convicted May 8 by Trial Magistrate J. Milton Dick on a charge of selling beer to minors and was fined $100.

Couple Is Injured In Auto Accident

Miss Catherine Wheeler, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wheeler, LaVale, is reported in 'satisfactory" condition at Sacred Heart Hospital where she was admitted Sunday following an auto accident on Route 28 near Fort Ashby.

She suffered injuries to her head. West Virginia police said the girl was riding with Harold Day, of 3 Altamont Terrace, who received hospital treatment for a slight laceration of the forehead. X-rays were taken. Police reported Day's auto went out of control shortly after midnight Saturday. He was given a hearing yesterday in Ridgeley on a hazardous driving charge.

Testimony Ends In Land Dispute Court Hearing

Final Argument Scheduled Later

Testimony in a civil suit stemming from a dispute over two parcels of land in the Rawlings section along McMullen Highway was ended in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday afternoon.

Later, the contesting attorneys will present their closing arguments to Associate Judge George Henderson.

Woman Owns Farm

Mrs. Ada B. Collins, who owns a 1,400 acre farm at Rawlings, is plaintiff in the case. The defendant is William R. Darr, who was returned here from the Maryland House of Correction so that he might testify. Darr is serving an 18-month sentence there for a motor vehicle law violation.

First of nine witnesses presented by the plaintiff was Samuel T. Walker, a Frostburg surveyor, who ran lines in the disputed area. Most of the others live in the Rawlings neighborhood or formerly resided there. They include Lelia Davis, James Gordon, Agnes Dawson, Isaac Iser, Robert T. Thrasher, Samuel Levy Robinson and Robert Noel. Last witness in behalf of the plaintiff was Wilbur Collins, her son.

Darr himself went to the stand as the first of five defense witnesses. He was followed by Herbert A. Kile, Centerville, Pa., who sold him the property. Other witnesses were Mary S. Campbell, Kile's former wife: Bessie Rexroad, Kile's sister, and Paul Blundon, president of the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Keyser, which is an intervenor in the suit because of holding a $5,200 mortgage on the property.

Plat Used As Exhibit

The opening statement was made by William H. Geppert, attorney for Mrs. Collins.

He told the court that a warrant of survey was issued by the court and Walker ran lines on the disputed areas. A large plat drawn from Walker's survey was used as an exhibit in court.

Geppert told the court that the entire valley wherein the disputed land lies was owned in colonial times by the Cresap family. About the time of the Civil War the tracts in question were held by a Shaw family. A Major Alexander Shaw held title to the lands until his death in 1905, he added.

The property then reverted to his two nieces, Mary and Norma Rawlings. In 1939 the tract was sold to Mrs. Collins and her husband by the trustees of the Shaw estate for about $17,000.

Good Title Claimed

Geppert said he would prove his

National Guard, CAP Combine In Combat Problem

Guardsmen Hold 2-Day Bivouac

Close coordination between air and ground units was featured in a combined National Guard-Civil Air Patrol combat problem at the Barton-Armstrong property near Pinto over the weekend.

The Guardsmen, from the First Battalion, 115th Infantry Regiment, were staging a regimental problem, with close air support and aerial observation by pilots from Fort Cumberland Flight, CAP.

Approximately 120 men participated in the two-day exercise, but they represented a full regiment, a force many times their actual strength.

The Guardsmen made a one-mile approach march toward their objective as the offensive against an "aggressor" force was kicked off Saturday morning.

Then they picked out their positions, assembled and started the attack.

CAP fliers in light planes provided realism with flour bombs, simulated strafing runs at treetop level, and air-ground communications, all of which would figure prominently in a regimental attack.

The problem ended successfully with the objective secured, Sunday afternoon.

Capt. James Welch, Regular Army instructor, and Master Sgt. Aristides Parousis organized the problem. Staff planning and supervision were in charge of Lt. Col. Robert C. Matlick, First Battalion, commander; Major John McAlpine, battalion, executive officer; Major Herbert Smiley, operations officer; Captain Howard Bussard, personnel officer; Capt. Willard Horine, intelligence officer, and Captain Morris Paulsgrove.

Commanders in the field were Capt. John D. Hensel of Headquarters Company, Lt. Richard Matlick of C Company and Capt. Gerald Reeves of D Company.

Capt. Welch and CAP Lt. Floyd Ashenfelter coordinated the air-ground exercise, and CAP flights were directed by Capt. Warren Mullenax. Other fliers participating were Lt. John Wagner, commandant of cadets; Warrant Officer Quinter Fike, Lt. Harold Wintermoyer, Lt. James Rutledge, Richard Hott, Walter Burd and Cadet Donald Long.

Salary Scale Adopted For Rec Workers

Playground, Pool Employes Appointed

A new salary scale for summer employes of the Cumberland Recreation Department was adopted by the Mayor and Council yesterday afternoon.

The new rates, which were recommended by the Recreation Board, generally provide additional pay for experience, up to five years.

Ballfield leaders will get $80 a month, basket checkers and cashiers at Constitution Park Pool $85.80, lifeguards $120, pool manager $225, movie projectionists $40, playground leaders $80 to $140, playground directors $90 to $150 and playground supervisors $100 to $160 a month.

Will Cost $950

Playground leaders with no experience will start at $80 a month and receive an extra $10 for each year's service up to $120.

Playground leaders with teaching or recreation training will start at $120 a month and go to $140 with five years of experience.

Playground directors will get $10 a month above leaders rates and supervisors $20 a month additional.

Recreation Department officials said the new scale, needed to attract men and experienced workers, will add about $950 to the summer program and up to $2,000 on a yearly basis.

Mills Brothers Circus Performs Twice Today

It's Circus Day again and Miss Burma, national pachydermic pet and official GOP mascot, with her retinue of 500 persons from 18 nations was scheduled to arrive at Community Park at dawn today.

Mills Brothers three-ring circus will give 2 and 8 p. m. performances today only under sponsorship of the Dapper Dan Club. The organization is bringing the circus here to help raise money for the Allegany County League for Crippled Children and the Little League.

The grounds will be a scene of activity this morning as nearly 100 motorized units arrive and the sawdust wonderland begins to take shape. People on hand for the time-honored thrill of watching the circus unload and set up will see the 40-ton herd of elephants join human workers in hoisting heavy poles and canvas into place.

Personnel in all the varied departments of the moving municipality will continue to hustle throughout the morning in preparation for 2 p. m. when the equestrian director's whistle launches the matinee with the first of several glittering spectacles, "Rio Revels."

Attending as guests this afternoon, thanks to business firms and other individuals who have sponsored tickets, will be hundreds of the area's underprivileged youngsters. Stars they'll see and who repeat their acts in tonight's final performance, are selected ones from 18 nations including English, Swedish, French, German, South American and other imported troupes on their first American tours, plus top American favorites.

The circus will be here today only, with afternoon and evening performances. Doors will open at 1 and 7. To enable patrons to avoid standing in line at the Community Park grounds, reserved and general admission seats will remain on sale today at Diamond's Restaurant.

Piece Of Yarn Threads Mystery Over Roof-Tops

A mystery baffling a number of residents is a piece of Celanese yarn which has been stretched over the roofs of several of the highest buildings in downtown Cumberland.

Last week an office employe in the Liberty Trust Building noticed the thread hanging outside the window on the sixth floor. Arthur Linnenbrogger, custodian, made an investigation from atop the roof and found that one end of the thread was across Centre Street to the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company.

The other end stretches from the Liberty Trust across Baltimore Street over the Fort Cumberland Hotel penthouse to the Maryland Theater. And no one seems to know if that is where the other end is.

Linnenbrogger said he was amused when a sparrow lit on the thread and it stretched, bouncing up and down, surprising him no end.

Whether or not the thread was carried through the air by a bird in search of nest material or perhaps dropped from a plane is not quite known. It is certain that the thread was hardly thrown from roof to roof by a person. The mystery remains.

Recognition Day Is Planned For School Safety Patrols

City officials yesterday promised to cooperate in plans for the Greater Cumberland School Safety Patrol Recognition Day which will be observed here June 6.

Plans for the observance were related to the Mayor and Council by Carl H. Wagner, chairman for the event planned by the Parent Teacher Association of elementary schools in Cumberland, LaVale, Ellerslie and Corriganville.

The event will be marked by a parade on Saturday June 6 at 11 a. m., a luncheon at noon in Allegany High School and a movie in the school auditorium at 1:30 p. m.

City officials granted permission for the parade which will form at the State Armory and move to George Street, to Baltimore Street, to Market Street and thence to Allegany High School.

Arrangements were made yesterday for the city to install its portable reviewing stand at the Centre Street side of City Hall. City officials accepted an invitation to be present on the stand.

The city will also issue a proclamation asking all citizens to aid in the observance.

Final plans for the observance will be made at a meeting Wednesday at 8 p. m. in the Board of Education offices.

Other members of the committee are W. S. Lawler, Mrs. P. Holshey, Mrs. W. Henry, Albert Tosh and James Hosack.
